While Lattimer may have been the victim of the system, he need not have been.

If there are other scandals not yet unmasked there is reason why we should organize a vigilance club.

In politics it is not what the number is willing to do to you that counts, but what you will stand still for while he is doing it.

It may not matter who is the Democratic candidate in 1912. By that time the Republicans may have their skirts clear and be ready for a stable term.

The Lattimer and Cannon scandals may not be worse than many another that has not been uncovered, but that is no reason why we should ignore cover their rather than the men themselves.

The reason why the scandals being uncovered seem to be all Republican comes in the fact that there are many Republicans in office and it would prove wonderful if all were above reproach among us here.

That last permitting the politicians who told him to stand pat to tell him any more dishonest stories isn't he coming to what the people are asking for just now—and is likely to far several months to come.

If the Democrats can make a record for honesty rather than show a scandal for the leaves and follow within the next two years there may be hope for them in 1912. But they are as hungry as the scorpions will soon be, when all will be lost.

It is only a few short weeks until Congress will be Democratic if it continues in session. Well, it can't raise more of a discussion as to what it will do next than the Republicans did the last few months before the November election.

President Taft is learning that what the country wants may not be what the politicians want. He seemed to be much impressed with what the politicians wanted—his brother as one of the best addresses—until he read the plain November program. Then that he seems to have learned that the politician is just as numerous as the good old world "common people."

The Republicans in Missouri are howling over the Democratic party's nomination of the State as that the Republicans can't get as many Congressmen as they wish. Such parties have done some astonishing work in government during the past, but just now it seems to be the Republicans of Missouri who find their thirteenth coming home to roost.

Harvey Crossley's family lived on a farm near here in 1892 that later the family abandoned it. People are now learning that these poor farms have a living in them to the man who will use a little sense along with his muscle. Within the past few years many a poor farm in the East has been set to work under conditions that are proving profitable.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat thinks it is extraordinary that there should be a session of a Democratic Congress without the members of that Congress demanding an extraordinary session of it. Perhaps it was extraordinary conditions in the country that led to a Democratic Congress in any event. There was an extraordinary and well-kept up for a change before the people get up the courage to vote a change.

Red Headed Okapi, Related to The Giraffe, Coming to America

Visitors to the Museum of Natural History in New York will soon have an opportunity of looking at specimens of the okapi, an animal as rare that hunters who have visited its native haunts in the Congo region have not seen it. Even Henry M. Stanley, who first heard of the strange beast, was unable to get sight of one, though he spent years in the African jungle. The okapi is said to be a "red-headed horse" that had a body like a giraffe's and the legs of a zebra. When Stanley returned to civilization he published these stories and caused considerable excitement among scientists and naturalists.

White Crane of Regalia. The Gladstone Hill Follies held their usual business meeting Wednesday evening at their hall in that city. The night of meeting was changed from Wednesday to Monday, and after this time the regular meetings will be held on the first of the week.
