A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

Cherry Party For the 22d of February.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY FAVORS.

A hostess who has planned to entertain some friends at a cherry party on Washington's birthday has found that the artificial cherries sold by confectioners, etc., are much too expensive for her purse, and she will substitute big red cranberries with excellent effect.

The invitations are written on postals decorated with cherries, which are sold everywhere in February, and begin as follows:

Next Friday night at half past eight We beg you'll help us celebrate Great George and the immortal tree. His gift to all posterity.

After this come the address, date and hour.

The first thing to catch the eye of the guest entering the parlor on the appointed evening will be a cherry tree in a wooden tub. This is constructed of a dead sapling tricked out with tissue paper leaves and at once becomes the basis of a jolly game where each player receives a big cranberry with a thread drawn through it (by means of a needle) and is required to tie it on the tree while blindfolded. All those who accomplish the feat will receive points toward the prize.

Another jolly contest will be guessing the number of cherries in a basket filled with them. The player who comes nearest to the exact number receives a second point.

When the guessing is over each player thrusts his hand into the basket, palm side down, the idea being to see who can catch up most cranberries on the back of the hand and, so balancing them, walk around the room without spilling one. The player most successful is entitled to a point.

Tossing the cranberries into a bowl at the opposite end of the room is another feat on the program and offers another point for the successful competitor.

The first and second prizes will be candy boxes decorated with artificial cherries. Huge cherries made of scarlet crepe paper are the consolation prizes. Some new Washington birthday favors are pictured.

When Tea is Served.

Women nowadays are often too busy with the many activities of the day to dress expressly for afternoon tea in an elaborate and artistic tea gown. The illustration shows an attractive black chiffon cloth dress mounted over white charmeuse that makes a good substitute. White porcelain beads in a dainty pattern ornaments the bodice. By the way, these beaded effects are the smartest and newest thing in gown decoration.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

The publishers of The Morning Enterprise disclaim responsibility for the sentiment expressed in the articles published from time to time in this column. Publicity is given in an effort to be fair, and with the view to the publication of both sides to a question. Communications must come properly signed to insure publication.

Has Kind Word for Daily. In a business letter to the editor the subscriber writes as follows concerning the Morning Enterprise, which we give as an indication of how a few of our friends feel towards us: "In my view, the Morning Enterprise is a credit to the city. Any one of its numbers contains as much matter that is interesting to the general reader as did almost any number of the Weekly in years past. The citizens of the county, in town and outside alike, ought to help to sustain it with their patronage. A good, clean newspaper gives character to the town or city in which it is published. If I had any influence among the citizens of the county I would say to them, patronize your county papers. City and county are interdependent for growth and prosperity. What helps one helps both. Self interest should prompt every farmer on a rural route where the Morning Enterprise can reach him to have it on his table for the benefit of himself and family. Respectfully, E. WARNER.

Mr. Warner is a man 93 years of age, has access to a few newspapers in his day and is competent to judge of them hence we feel the kindly conditions which attach to the letter printed above. ED.

The ranks of experienced chauffeurs have recently been increased by the addition of Miss Dorothy Schwartz of Edwardsville, Ill., who was presented with a twenty horsepower runabout on her fifth birthday and is a familiar sight in the city in which she lives driving her car. She began to learn the automobile when but three years old, her father allowing her to hold the steering wheel of his machine during their trips together.

An enjoyable game is United States mail. Place the chairs at equal distances and in each a player. These players choose the names of cities of the United States, and the leader, who must have a good memory, will begin the game by calling out, for instance, "Buffalo and San Francisco." These two cities will now change places, and if the leader can possess himself of either vacant seat in the course of the exchange the person thus ousted must be leader in his turn. When the leader calls "General delivery" every one must move to some new seat, and the person that is left without a seat is the new leader.

The old game of stagecoach is played in much the same way except that different parts of the stagecoach and its various passengers, the horses and so on are selected by the players, and the leader must improvise a story introducing as many of these names as possible. As the name of each player is introduced he must rise and whirl around, resuming his seat. When the leader says "Stagecoach" the whole company must go through this performance, and when the climax of a breakdown is reached all change places, and in the melee the story teller finds a chair, thus forcing a new story teller to the front.

Geographical Comparisons. It is only by comparison that some things can be understood, and this is particularly true of divisions of the earth's surface. Every one has a fairly clear idea of the size of his own state or county or even of the whole area of the United States. By comparing other countries and seas with those that are familiar to us on the map a much clearer notion of them is obtained.

Greece is about the size of Vermont. Palestine is about one-fourth of the size of New York. Hindustan is more than a hundred times as large as Palestine. The great desert of Africa has nearly the dimensions of the United States. The Red sea would extend from Washington to Colorado, and it is three times as wide as Lake Ontario.

Conundrums. When are two apples alike? When parted. Why is a bedcover like a mustard plaster? Because it is a counterpane. Why does tying a slow horse to a post improve his pace? It makes him fast. Why are gloves unsalable articles? Because they are made to be kept on hand. Why is life like this riddle? Because you must give it up. Why does a boy sneeze three times? Because he can't help it. Why are some women like facts? Because they are stubborn things.

A Cure For Balking. A farmer thus cured a horse of balking: He went to a stall of wood for a small load, but his horse would not pull a pound. He did not beat him, as most men would, but simply tied him to a tree and left him there. At sunset he went to the stall again, but the horse still refused to draw. So he put a blanket on him and left him there for the night. In the morning he still refused to draw, but at noon, being hungry, he started at once and drew the load to the house. The farmer returned and got another load before feeding him and then gave him a good dinner.

JEWELED DOG COLLARS.

Worn by Pampered Pets of Society Folk.

DOG'S EXPENSIVE COLLAR.

The fashion changes in dog collars not quite as often perhaps as in the clothes of the mistresses, but there are sharply defined rules concerning what is correct in canine collar adornment. The latest mode for these collars next spring is a bright green leather, and on the right shade of dog the effect is remarkably striking. Red collars are again in vogue for black coated dogs, and there is a model in silver beads that is much approved. A favorite collar of a dog in the toy class owned by a belle living at the national capital is of brown leather headed with silver nails. On the bangle which dangles from the collar are described the canine's name and address.

But the most curious dog collar on record was ordered by a Baltimore man to celebrate the eleventh birthday of his favorite black and tan terrier Dixie. The collar is of diamonds, of which no fewer than 700 were used. According to the illustration given of this collar, it was fashioned somewhat in the form of a tiara, with a pendant consisting of two graduated pieces higher in the center and narrowing at the back.

Wouldn't You Like This Costume? Burton Holmes, the popular lecturer, seems to be quite as appreciative of the picturesque in costumes as in scenery. Behold him in the illustration arrayed in his latest sartorial find—a Moravian costume which in Moravia is worn by the men of this Austro-Hungary province.

What woman, seeing the modish possibilities of this native dress, would not have purchased it, as did Mr. Holmes, for $9.48 of our money? This same woman would not allow her husband or brother to appear in it at a fancy dress party. Oh, no! Her motives would be less altruistic, much more selfish. This is what would happen: She would pick off, as it were, the leading motifs of this costume—for instance, the fascinating embroidered skirt with its long fringed ends. This lord she would wear about the waist of her new spring house frock of pale gray chiffon cloth. And the bolero, if this smart adornment answers to such a name in the Moravian tongue, she would incorporate into her smartest lingerie blouse of sheer marquisette. And the accordion plaited sleeves, each plait of which is said to be three inches deep—well, these manches would make several summer gowns.

MONEY IN GOOSEBERRIES. The gooseberry is one of the most delicious and profitable of the small fruits. It is easily grown and suited to almost all localities in the United States. Utah farmers and gardeners claim that an average yield of gooseberries is from 600 to 800 bushels per acre. The price of marketable berries is seldom less than 25 cents per gallon, or $2.00 a bushel, hence an acre will produce from $1000 to $2000 worth of fruit.

Milton Chindgren has been clearing land for Mr. Holman. He seems to like to make a big smoke when he burns poles. Judging from the size of the crowd and the enthusiasm manifested at the Socialist meeting Monday night we are led to believe that the doctrine of Socialism is taking a firm hold upon the minds of the people of this vicinity. Mr. Washop proved to the entire satisfaction of the people that he was a speaker of the first water in whom no old party politician would dare to meet. BARLOW. Mrs. Crecraft, our principal, is very sick this week. Mrs. John Andrews took her daughter, Thelma, to Portland to have an operation on her throat. Rubie Steadman was locked up Friday afternoon and charged with drunkenness. Steadman was tipsy Thursday evening, when picked up on the street by Officer Shaw, but as he was a man of family, and making no disturbance, he was permitted to go on promise of at once going home and retiring to bed. Friday morning he was back on the street again and was then taken in charge and lodged in the city prison.

NEGATIVE WINS DEBATE.

Good Attendance at Mountain View Friday Night. The Mountain View Improvement Club held its regular meeting Friday night, at which time the subject, "Resolved, That the Negro Has More Cause for Complaint Than the Indian" was debated. There was a good attendance and an interesting discussion. The negative won the decision. On the affirmative were Messrs. Gorbett and Parker; negative, Messrs. Beard and Calvin. At the meeting next week there will be a question box and all are invited to put one or more questions in the box.
