GOV. WEST WRITES A SHORT MESSAGE

WANTS STATE PRINTER PUT ON $20,000 TO $30,000.

HOUSE TOYS WITH THE MESSAGE

Governor Asserts He Will Veto a New Government Bill for Salem Unless House Acts.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 17.—(Spl.)—Gov. West sent a special message to the house tonight in which he warned that body that it had already made a high record for appropriations this session and that unless there was some indication of retrenchment he would be forced to wield the sculpting knife.

The House postponed indefinitely the bill putting the State Printer on a flat salary, and it is this fact which is claimed led to this unusual message. As this act was intended to save from $20,000 to $30,000 the Governor seemed bent on the passage of the bill.

The House took no action on the message, or its suggestions of retrenchment, but just before adjournment passed Senator Carson's bill appropriating $150,000 for the purchase of additional grounds for and the construction of a building for State purposes at Salem. There were 33 votes for the bill. To which it is said the Governor replied that unless the House passed the flat salary bill for the State Printer he would veto the $150,000 appropriation, tying up that proposition for two years, at least.

SENATORIAL DEADLOCK

Develops Into a Fight Between Big Railroad Interests.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(Spl.)—The news creeping out in the New York senatorial deadlock today indicate that it is a fight between the big railway interests, each of several big Eastern interests being determined that its man must win.

BIG ROUND APPROPRIATIONS.

House Made Banner Record in One Day Appropriations. SALEM, Or., Feb. 17.—(Spl.)—Today was the legislature's busy day and during its working hours it made plans to spend a total of $3,771,124. This eclipses all past records for one day appropriations. The House appropriated $2,023,124 and the Senate pushed over the rest of $1,538,474. Today's session alone totals nearly as much as the last legislature spent all day.

ASKS EXTRA SESSION.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 17.—The House yesterday afternoon passed resolution which asks President Taft to call an extra session of Congress to revise the tariff.

EX-GOVERNOR PAINE

Dies in a Hospital in San Francisco Friday Morning.

SALEMAN, Feb. 17.—(Spl.)—William Paine Lord, Ex-Governor of Oregon, United States Minister to the Argentine Republic and a big politician in his day, died this morning in the hospital in this city. His death was the result of heart failure and he had been sick for a long time. He was 73 years old. He had just been given a contract to prepare a new code for Oregon and was working on it when taken ill.

The meeting of the Oregon City Fruit and Produce Union, or the educational wing of it, is planning for an interesting session this afternoon at the Court House. E. E. Strang, familiar with the Hood River country and the union there, will speak on pruning and planting of young trees.

RAILWAY FRANCHISE READ THE FIRST TIME

MT. HOOD RAILWAY & POWER COMPANY WANTS USE OF STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Council met in special session Friday evening with every member in attendance. The roll was called and the business of the evening taken up. Recorder Stipp was absent and City Attorney Story took his place for the evening.

The first matter up was the question of the bond of Moffatt & Parker in the Center street improvement. The bond was for $3375 from the Title Guarantee & Security Company, of Scranton, Pa. The bond matter was referred to the finance committee and the City Attorney.

An ordinance was read first time defining the duties of the chief of police and providing for the collection of licenses and fines by that officer. It was the same as the ordinance that it repeated except that it increased the salary from $15 a month to $40.

The discussion brought out the fact that Chief Shaw had collected $108 since the first of the month and that in doing so he had made a record. Meyer thought the record was a good one and as the increase would make a total salary of but $100 it should pass. Burke thought so, too, and favored passage first reading. On vote the motion carried.

An ordinance was read first time granting a franchise to the Mt. Hood Railway & Power Co. for a franchise to furnish heat, light and power in the city at a maximum rate for light and heat of 12 cents per kilowatt and for power for 8 cents per kilowatt. The company promised to make a schedule of rates but was not willing to put this schedule in the franchise as it would then be binding, but was willing the maximum rate should be in the contract.

Meyer moved the franchise be referred to a committee of three to report not later than the regular meeting in March. Motion prevailed and the Mayor appointed Meyer, Roake and Anderson on the committee.

Holman moved that the committee report not later than the next meeting of Council. Carried.

SHOT IN THE NECK; SAYS ACCIDENTALLY

THE YOUNG LADY VICTIM WAS AT ONE TIME A RESIDENT OF OREGON CITY.

A shooting accident that will interest Oregon City readers has to do with Miss Minnie Hamalgarn, now of Portland but at one time a resident of Oregon City. The shooting was accidental, the young woman says. Her father, Paul Hamalgarn, at one time owned the depot saloon in this city. The Oregonian says:

Miss Minnie Hamalgarn, employed in a shooting gallery at Fourth and Couch streets, is at St. Vincent's Hospital, a hole through her neck marking the course of a bullet from a 22-caliber rifle. According to the girl, she inadvertently stepped in front of a Greek who was discharging the rifle at a target.

The young woman was for a time the object of much mystery at the hospital. She rode up to the institution in a taxicab, dismounted the machine and, walking in unassisted, made arrangements for a room. She refused to have a physician called, saying that she preferred to be treated by Dr. Gale, one of the internes.

She did not even care to give her name, but it was learned through the fact that she had been in the hospital about Christmas, at which time she had a slight operation performed and was a patient of Dr. A. E. Rokeye. Miss Hamalgarn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamalgarn, of Pendleton, Or. Her father is in the liquor business. She recently spent six months in a nurses' training school at Astoria. The young woman lives at the Grand Union Hotel, 337 1/2 East Burnside streets. She told detectives Carpenter and Price, who investigated the affair, that the shooting had been entirely accidental.

THREE DIVORCES GRANTED.

Mother of Young Husband Acted as Guardian in Suit.

Judge Campbell Friday granted decrees of divorce in the following cases: Mary E. Ganiard vs. Ralph W. Ganiard, Sadie Running vs. John Running, E. R. Guerin, by Sarah B. Guerin, guardian, vs. Ursel W. Guerin. In the latter case the plaintiff was under the legal age, and his mother brought the suit for divorce.

The suit of C. H. Guttridge against George and Joseph Guttridge, that was set for trial for Saturday, has been put over, and the defendants were given until February 21 to file an amended answer. Dimick & Dimick represent Guttridge, and George C. Brownell, William M. Stone and William Nash appear for the defendants.

Have a Good Program.

The Mountain View Improvement Club met in regular session Friday night with a good program for the evening. There was a musical and literary program, followed by a paper and a question box. The attendance was good and the interest keen. A good time is reported for the occasion.

Grand Mask Ball Saturday.

Arrangements for the grand masque ball to be given at the Busch hall on Saturday evening by the German Verein have been completed, and from present outlook there will be many to attend enmasque. There will be an orchestra of seven pieces, five of whom are Oregon City musicians and two from Portland.

NEW ROAD WELCOMED COUNCIL WILL AID IT

"CITIZEN" FAVORS GIVING LIBERAL TERMS IF PROJECT IS FOUND TO BE LEGITIMATE.

Prospects look favorable for another electric railway for Oregon City. To that end the Mount Hood Railway and Power Co. is asking for a franchise into the city, with the privilege of selling light, heat and power to those who wish it. See opened up to this city. And if this company means business, and can convince Council of that fact, and of the further fact that the company is willing to give the people of this city a square deal, there will be no difficulty in securing all the privileges that are due to the company and its officers.

One citizen after the meeting of Council gave voice to this sentiment: "We want another railway if it is to be a railway; we might welcome another light, heat and power company. If it is to be a competing company. Not that I would wish to see a bitter fight for I would not and do not think it would be beneficial, but a good healthy competition would make things ideal and not injure anyone."

"But we don't want to see another row of poles up Seventh street—or any other street for that matter. What we want to see is a company come in here for business and not for trouble, and make conditions worse and then find that it cannot make money and sell to the other company. We want good business conditions, and that will be beneficial to all."

Councilmen were given copies of the proposed ordinance so that they may study it while the committee is acting on it and when next that body meets there should be the possibility of putting it through Council—having, if it is found necessary, made the necessary amendments and changes suggested by good business sense and acuteness.

REV. A. HAYWORTH, who will begin a series of Sunday evening talks to young people next Sunday.

SENATOR DIMICK'S 8-HOUR LAW FAILS

COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY AND REVISION OF LAWS QUESTIONS CONSTITUTIONALITY.

DIMICK OBJECTS TO THE AMENDMENTS

On Final Ballot Bill is Defeated by Vote of 40 Against to 17 For—Carter Sick.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 17.—(Staff Correspondence).—With only 17 votes in its favor, Senator Dimick's eight-hour law failed to pass House this afternoon. There were 40 votes against it.

The special committee consisting of the House standing committees on judiciary and revision of laws, to which the bill was referred, this morning reported it back without recommendation. In its report the committee expressed the belief that the bill was unconstitutional in its present form.

Senator Dimick and friends of the bill appeared before the committee, which held a meeting late last night. Fouts proposed that the bill be amended so that its provisions should apply only to manufacturing and mechanical plants where the conditions of labor are injurious to the health of employer or employes, but this was not acceptable to the members of the joint committee. Other members of the legislature asked the committee so to amend the bill that its provisions would not apply to various industries of the State. Senator Dimick, however, would not consent to the incorporation of any such amendments feeling that the effect would be to render the measure unconstitutional and inoperative. When the bill came up as a special order at 2 o'clock this afternoon Thompson moved that the House proceed to vote without further debate. To this the House agreed and the vote was taken. Because of sickness, Representative Carter was absent when the vote was taken. The detailed vote on the bill follows:

Ayes—Brownhill, Bryant, Chatten, Clyde, Cole, Collins, Cottel, Eaton, Fouth, Gill, Huntington, Jones, Libby, Magone, Pierce, Simpson, and Speaker Rusk—17.

Nays—Abbott, Abrams, Ambrose, Amme, Beals, Belknap, Belland, Bigelow, Bonebrak, Brooke, Buchanan, Buckley, Chambers, Chapman, Church, Clemens, Cushman, Derby, Graves, Hollis, Johnson, Leinenweber, Mahoney, Mann, Mariner, McKinney, Miller of Columbia, Miller of Linn, Neuner, Peterson, Powell, Rackleff, Reynolds, Shaw, Smith, Steelhammer, Sutton, Thompson, Tigard, Westerlund—40.

Absent—Carter.

GOOD ROADS LETTERS FROM CITY READERS

WIDER PUBLICITY OF IDEAS SEEM TO BRING OUT NEW METHODS AND THOUGHTS.

We have two more good roads letters, which express ideas not found in the others published a few days ago. These letters indicate that people are awaking to the fact that good roads are needed; now what is necessary is that people get to thinking as to what is wanted, and how to get what is wanted.

We are glad to give expression to the ideas of any of the readers of the Enterprise. The letters follow:

Feb. 11, 1911.

Editor Enterprise: My belief is that a roadmaster, if appointed by our County Court, will not take away from the county court any of its powers under the law as it now exists, but will only to relieve the County Court and to systematize the business of road building. Nor do I believe that this roadmaster will supersede our supervisors. It seems to me that the roadmaster being an overseer may be of very great assistance to our Road Supervisors, just as the superintendent of construction is in the matter of heavy construction work on railroads and manufacturing establishments and other concerns. It seems to me there is little or no reason to hesitate in this matter because the history of business demonstrates the advisability of having a competent single man at the head of all large construction. I do not think an incompetent man should be appointed under any circumstances, for that would unquestionably work great injury. But I think a competent man, even at a considerable salary, ought to be appointed.

Yours truly,
JOS. E. HEDGES.

Editor Enterprise: I sincerely hope that some way may be worked out through which the road building of Clackamas County may be supervised by some thorough and competent engineer and road builder. I believe that the road supervisors as a body are honest men and doing the very best they can under the present system, but there can be no general plan of permanent work and permanent road building with each road district a separate system unto itself.

I believe that the road supervisors generally will be glad to have the assistance of a thorough road man, and with whom they may consult about the laying out, draining and putting down of roads and I am convinced from the figures quoted by Judge Dimick and others that the salary of a thorough road man instead of being an additional expense to the tax payers will be a saving of money to them in getting more and better roads for the money spent.

DAMASCUS FARMER CAUGHT BY SHARKS

NEW-FOUND "FRIEND" LEADS HIM TO GAMBLE—AND WIN—WITH USUAL SEQUEL.

DROPS $3000 INTO SHARK'S COFFERS

Carries His Money to Frisco in Face of Warning Given Him By Lawyer and Friends.

A good old farmer of Damascus was recently made the dupe of a bunch of San Francisco sharks who beat him out of $3000 by that old game of allowing the victim to win a large sum but requiring him to put up big money as evidence that he is entitled to his winnings. It is a bunco game as old as the hills, but there are many men who are unsophisticated and susceptible to the trick. But when the game is played so near home as in this instance that fact in itself adds interest to it even though the trick is an old one.

The old farmer is one of the most staid and reliable in the Damascus neighborhood, and he has a family who are as industrious as himself. He has been away for several months, traveling in Mexico and Southern California. While enroute home from that Southland, and while on shipboard on the way to San Francisco, he fell in with a man who purported to be an old farmer like himself. The two became quite chummy while at sea and when they landed in Frisco began to see the sights together, the other professing ignorance of the city as great as his own.

In the course of their wanderings the two dropped into a pool room where there was gambling on the races. His friend bet 2 dollars on the favorite and won. The old farmer was induced to make a small bet. He put up a dollar, remarking that if he did lose it wouldn't break him. But at the end of the receipt of a few figures on the wire he was told he had won $3000.

Naturally the German wanted his money. But he was at once told that such was not the rules of the game; that he must put up $5000 to prove to them that he could have paid in case he had lost; that the fact that he had won could not insure to his advantage unless he was in position to pay in case he had lost; that this was a sportsman's game and that they had neglected to tell him this supposing he had known it inasmuch as his partner was wise. But he was assured that he had won the $3000, and in order to get it it was only necessary to show that he could have paid in case he had lost.

And here was where his new-found friend was enabled to steer him right and assure him that it was a square game, that the house had made money on the day's transactions and that his winnings made but a small hole in the day's profits of the house.

To make a long story short, he was greatly excited and started post-haste for home to get his money. Arriving at home he at once looked up his lawyer and consulted him in the matter. The lawyer saw at once that his client was greatly excited and learned that while he had been away from home for months he had stopped in town to fix this deal up and had put off going home till a later day. The lawyer told him he was being deceived; that he had no winnings but that the sharks wished to get him into the city with the money and then divorce him from it.

The Dutchman could not see it that way but did finally go home and talk with his family. A day later he and his wife, son and brother came to see the lawyer who gave to all his version of the trick. But he was still certain of his winnings and borrowed the money, put it into a draft and started for Frisco. Before going, however, he assured his friends and lawyer that he knew how to protect himself and said that having the money in a New York draft was certain to protect him.

Arriving in Frisco he had little trouble in locating his friend and in finding the pool room. He was shown several thousands of dollars on a table from which pile he was to be paid when once he convinced them of his financial ability. He showed his New York draft in evidence. They "could not receive this," they said, "but they would help him to cash it." This he did and went to the den—his friend at
