CREAKING NOW

College Crew Squads Practicing Indoors For Coming Season.

HARVARD IS WELL SATISFIED.

Crimson Has but Three Seats to Fill In Last Year's Boat-Columbia Has Many Candidates-Princeton Ambitious-Penn and Annapolis to Meet

The sounds of outdoor athletic teams at indoor practice are issuing from college gymnasium buildings these days. From the baseball cage comes the thump of balls, and the creak of rowing machines forces its way from the closed crew rooms. The campaigns of the so called "winter teams" are near ing their end, and spring sports are anticipating the season. Especially is this true of the oarsmen. At New York Columbia's crew candidates are drilling daily under the sharp criticism of Coach James E. Rice. The first call brought sixty candidates, and Rice lost no time in boating them on the machines. In the has ketball flurry at Columbia the oarsmen are overlooed, but they are work ing hard and in quiet. Their day will come toward the last of June. when the shells will sweep down the Hudson in the big intercollegiate re-

Harvard's Bright Outlook

Harvard, too, is training, and training hard. The reports of crew activities at Cambridge state that Coach Wray has over sixty men trying for places in the different boats. Practice is being held in the boathouse on the Charles, and prospects are again bright for a broom party at New Lon-

All the available veterans have reported for work and are rapidly rounding into form. It will not be a case of hard training with them, for they have kept themselves in good condition through the winter. The varsity eight did not suffer heavily from gradua-All but three of the men who tion. led the procession on the Thames last summer are available. To fill the trio of vacancies Coach Wray has the material from a very strong freshman eight of last year and a good string of secondary men to choose from. Be it known, the class of material at Cambridge is not makeing Wray prematurely old.

Princeton's campaign in the spring will be unusually ambitious. For the first time since 1884 the Tigers will com pete in intercollegiate rowing. It is certain that Yale and Cornell will row on Carnegle lake this spring. No definite dates have been scheduled, but it is said to be a surety that the races will be held. A Princeton crew may also compete in the Henley at Philadelphia. A new shell has been ordered by the athletic association.

Colleges Want to Use Men Who Play Summer Baseball.

At no period in the history of ama teur sport has there been more need of a little backbone on the part of the national officials, for practices have been gradually creeping in which if not checked most inevitably result in harm to the status of the American amateur. Just now there is a wave of unrest all over the country. Out on the Pacific coast men who played baseball for money want to compete in amateur track meets, and as these outlaws have the backing of some colleges that tolerate summer ball playing there is likely to be a tangle, as the A. A. U. people are inclined to keep the outlaws out.

Correct Letter Writing. A communication or gift received by a person in social life must be acknowledged. This is a rule so emphatic that it has no exceptions. And equally is it the rule that if the communicatin be a card or note it must be responded to in precisely the same form. Acting upon this, no wo man need fear making a mistake in this branch of her social duties.

A visiting card, slight as it is, should 11, in Green's hall, pot be ignored unless it bears the letters "P. P. C." In that instance it is itor Tuesday. an answer to courtesles received as well as an announcement of departure and therefore might be said to close communication.

A receipt of a card following an event of importance to the family requires a card in return. For example, after a birth or death or other occasions less momentous it is not uncommon for friends to post visiting cards as indicating that they are aware of the happening. Sometimes merely a word or line is written on the card, as "Condolences," "Felicitations," according to the nature of the event. The return card, which should be sent within a couple of days, may have the word !"Thanks" written on it, or it may be blank except for the engraved name and address.

It is not considered good form to anwer a note with a card save after a death, when a bereaved family is permitted to make little effort, and its members may spare themselves the work of writing notes.

Invitations are always to be answer ed in the same form in which they are received, so that if a note comes written in the first person the response also should contain the personal pro-More formal invitations, in which the third person is employed. require the third in return.

A Few Table Rules.

woman who gives much attention to dlet and fives up to the best ideas in this line has the following rules neatly framed in a conspicuous place in her dining room where the family may be impressed with them:

First.-Five or ten minutes before beginning to eat a meal drink a glass of cold water. This will leave the stomach before the food reaches it and will carry with it any mucus which has accumulated since last esting, thus leaving the walls of the stomach clear and ready to be activated by the newly arrived food. Second.-Never take a second cup of roffee. You will not care for a second on her birthday, March 5. In the evif you moisten your food sufficiently with saliva. Take dinner coffee always with dessert or after rather than before, as it thus aids digestion. Third.-Never wash your food down with liquids, but masticate each mouth ful well and it will be sufficiently moist and will promote the flow of gastric juices, thereby preparing the stomach still further for its work Fourth.-Never eat "until too full." By a little attention to the matter you will learn when to stop and thus avoid the consequences of overesting. One mouthful too much is apt to cause dis-arrangement of the digestive system. This may seen like putting it rather strong, but you know that even a teaspoonful too much will cause a dish to overflow, and the same applies to the closely packed organs of the human body, where disarranged gastric fluids will produce illness.

Telephone Invitations.

When accepting an invitation over the telephone it is the part of wisdom to follow it with a written acceptance, in which the day, date and hour are repeated. Only in this way can a wo man be certain that no error is made in the time, and the sense of security given is worth the effort.

Telephonic invitations will always appear to be informal and sometimes are, but a woman will have no difficulty in deciding the point if she gives heed to the hour appointed. A lunch eon at half past 1 o'clock, to play bridge afterward, may be regarded as formal; dinner at any time after a quarter to 7 is also formal.

Earlier than these hours is consid ered to be informal.

Bridesmaids Gowns.

It is customary for a bride to se lect the style and material of the bridesmaids' dresses, and if the girls are not well enough off to have many dresses she should assuredly be care ful to choose styles that are not too pronounced, so that the dresses may worn on other occasions. Complaints about this are not infrequent from girls who have acted as brides malds when they were obliged to buy dresses they could never use again on account of the combination of colors or the exaggerated mode fancied at the moment by the bride.
