SHOOTING IN CITY.

Robins and Other Song Birds Are Be-ing Killed the Charge.

Humane Society is in receipt of many complaints from different sec tions of the city alleging that young men and boys are shooting carelessly within the city limits, which is in direct violation of the ordinance. This offense is punishable with a fine of from $5 to $100.

The charge is made, too, that some of this shooting is done in an effort to kill robins and other song birds. There is a severe penalty for that of fense, also, and it is the purpose of the Humane Society to insist that those guilty that can be apprehended and convicted, shall suffer the penalty though it is severe.

FORMATION GETS SOFTER. Changes About the Well Claim Time of Drillers—Little Progress. STONE, Or., April 7,—(Special.)

There is little new to record concerning the oil well being drilled in at this place. There have been a number of changes to make about the well the past 24 hours, which have taken the time that would otherwise have been given over to drilling. In consequence the drill has been driven in but a few feet.

The character of the formation is about the same it has been the past two days, except that it is all the becoming softer. Other conditions about the well remain about the same.

For the Children

Father Penguin, Who Lives In London's Zoo

Not long ago a pair of penguins at the London zoo became the parents of a baby penguin. Penguins are seldom seen in captivity, so the advent of the baby was a matter of great interest to naturalists and the public generally. The penguin's home is in be southern hemisphere, and they five amid the ice. The wings have only rudimentary quills and are used as paddles. The young are born covered with down, but are very belpless an require to be tended for a long period in the nest. The food of pengium consists exclusively of fish, which the birds capture beneath the surface by their agitity in swimming and diving. when their paddle-like wings serve them to good purpose. So thoroughly at home are they in the water that they at first glance are often mistaken for dolphins or porpoises.

Sequels to "Mother Goose."

A rhyming game with plenty of chances for fun in it is here described. Before your guests arrive take as many sheets of paper as there are to be guests. At the top of each sheet write the last stanza of a nursery rhyme, a different one on each paper-for exam-

When she got there The cupboard was bare, And so the poor dog had none.

You will probably need a copy of "Mother Goose" to refer to. When the guests have arrived a pencil and one of the papers with a verse at the top are given to each, and they are told a sequel to the nursery rhyme each will find on his paper, the time allot ted being half an bour. When time is up the papers are collected and the verses read aloud. A prize for the best rhyme may be given by a committee on awards, chosen from among the players. Here is an example:

The dog was distressed. Had a pain in his chest Because of his hunger and thirst. He howled out his woes, Then turned up his toes. Disappointment his poor heart had burst.

Remarkable Fish. The curiously named trigger fish are plentiful in Japanese waters. They are of the ballstes genus, and their popular name is derived from the trigger-like peculiarity of the second spine of the dorsal fin. When the fin is erected the first ray, or spine, which is very thick and strong, maintains its elevated position so firmly that it cannot be pressed down by any degree of force, but if the second spine is pressed the first immediately falls down with a spring, like the hammer of a gunlock when the trigger is pulled. These fish are marked in a striking manner, some of them being very richly colored-ashen gray, blue and gold.

A Boy's Queer Tumble. Lloyd Skinner climbed up the stone face of the dam at Electric lake, in New Jersey, and when he had reached the top he fell down to the bottom. This is a bad habit that some boys can never break themselves of. Lloyd did more than fall. As he passed a jagged rock his coat caught, and it was taken off his back as neatly as if somebody had tried to hold him up by the ends of the sleeves. By the time he reached the end of his fall he had lost a shoe as well. In return for these losses he received a large black and blue bruise on his back, but otherwise his thirty foot tumble did not do him much harm.

A Water Trick. Fold your napkin into the form of a cravat and request some one of the company to fill up your glass with water and place it on your napkin; cover your glass with a hollow plate; cover again the plate with the two ends of the napkin in such a fashion that the glass will be tightly pressed against the plate, and turn the whole upside down. It is now easy to drink the liquid, which comes down gently into the plate, and hence you can readily wager to drink a glass of water with out touching your glass with your hands or mouth.

Cradle Song. Hush thee, baby, night is near; One bright star is shining clear; Now the moon, a silver bow. Hangs above our cottage low Hush thee, baby, close thine eyes; Darker grow the evening skies

She will guide thee safely there Over poppy blessoms fair Hush thee, baby, sleep and dream While the stars above thee gleam

Hush thee, baby; wondrous sweet Are thy dimpled hands and feet, Wondrous dear thy sunny face, Pure and perfect in its grace Sleep, ch. sleep, the whole night io Shining angels round thee throng —Ruth Raymon
