

HOUSE CHALLENGES STAIID OLD SENATE

IF STANDPAT SENATORS HOLD UP TARIFF LEGISLATION CONGRESS WILL ACT

MUST FACE REVISION BY SECTIONS

Work of Democrats Will Be Calculated to Make Senatorial and Electoral College Votes Later.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(Special).—The hope of an early adjournment of Congress has gone agley. Prospects now indicate that the session may last all summer—and even into the winter. The Senate standpatters took the bull by the horns and gave it out quick that there would be no tariff legislation, and no reciprocity of a character that would please the President.

Now the Democrats say that if the Republicans attempt to make their bluff good they—the Democrats—will take up the tariff and revise it section by section, if it takes all summer. And if the Republicans persist it will be revised in a way that will make Democratic votes in November wherever there is an election.

In making their bluff the Republicans had counted on the President adjourning Congress on the plea that no results were to be looked for, but Taft has refused to play the game and it is up to the Republican standpatters to be good or have a dose laded out to them that will run through the next Presidential and Senatorial elections.

All of which makes it an interesting question as to what Congress—and the Senate, that claims revisionary powers—will do with the tariff, reciprocity and the popular election of Senators.

MUST FIGHT WITHIN BOUNDS.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(Special).—Taft gave notice to both of the beligerents in Mexico that fighting across the line must cease. While the war has not been crowded across the border it has been fought so close that Americans on their own soil have suffered, and the President says that this cannot continue.

FOLISH OREGONIAN STORIES.

Labor Leaders Say That Paper Badly Warps Labor Incidents. A friend of the labor people of Portland asks that the reading public take certain stories with salt. They say: "People in the country, and for that matter, in this city, are warned against taking as true the statements concerning strikes, lockouts, walkouts, etc., in connection with labor troubles appearing in the Oregonian. That paper slyly slips in lies, misstatements or truth colored and painted up so her own throat wouldn't know the child in broad daylight. It sometimes has hardly a rag on which to patch out a labor yarn, but at other times the entire article is true, except one sentence neatly tucked in where it will do the most damage to organized labor."

WEATHER FORECAST.

Oregon City and Portland—Fair and warmer; northerly winds.
Oregon—Fair, warmer, except near the Coast; north to east winds.

HOWS THIS FOR A HIM?

A SERMON! EASTERTIDE!

"And there were ninety and nine different styles for a HIM to choose from—at the beginning of the Spring Season. There are almost as many now but the real smart models are going fast. The L. System clothes please a man's eyes, his body, and his pocket book. Offertory—$12.50 to $36.00. Remember the Easter Bonnet. Amen."

BUY BEAVER CREEK FARM FOR $10,000

LOOKED OVER STATE AND SECTIONS OF CALIFORNIA BEFORE HE SETTLES DOWN.

M. E. Swope, who arrived in Oregon City last week with his wife and six children from Merrill, Wisconsin, has purchased the Chris Hornshub farm at Beaver Creek, nine miles east of this city, and will take up their residence next week on their newly acquired property, the former owners to move to Portland to make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornshub are well known residents of Clackamas county, having resided on the farm for the past 30 years, this being a donation land claim, and where they raised a large family, six of the sons of whom entered the military. The farm consists of 86 acres, 66 acres of which are under cultivation, and is considered to be one of the finest farms in Clackamas county. The land was purchased through the agency of Elliott & Son, of this city, and had been in the real estate dealers' hands only two days when it was sold for $10,000, which includes the farming implements, horses, etc., and everything is in readiness for the newcomer to go to work. Mr. Swope and family are at present making their headquarters in this city, and will leave within a few days for Beaver Creek.

Before purchasing the Hornshub farm Mr. Swope traveled through the southern part of the State, and thought the country looked great, and after reaching Oakland, California, he read an advertisement in Elliott & Son had placed in a paper, and decided to come to Oregon City and look at the land, although he had passed through the city only a few days before but had not visited the place. He was taken to Beaver Creek and was surprised at the country he passed through, and decided right then if he found a farm to suit him he was to locate in Clackamas county. He was more than pleased with the soil of Clackamas county, and stated that it is the finest and most fertile of any he has seen in the State, although the price was no higher than in other parts of the State.

Mr. Swope had the desire to come to Oregon after receiving literature from the Portland Commercial Club and commercial clubs in other parts of the State. He is now sending literature pertaining to the industries, climate, soil, etc., of Clackamas county, and will induce others to come to this State to make their future home.

Mr. Swope was born and raised on a farm, and understands farming thoroughly, and is glad to be in a State where his crops will not fall after working diligently to reap a harvest. While on his trip to this State there were many colonists coming West to look for locations, and all were pleased with the outlook.

"SHOWER OF ROSES." Millions of Roses and Buds Will Be Thrown to Passers By.

PORTLAND, Or., April 14.—The "Shower of Roses," in which millions of rosebuds, blooms, and petals are hurled from a train of street cars by 100 young women in white and which has become one of the notable events of the annual Portland Rose Festival, is to be repeated again this year, probably two and possibly three days of the Festival week, June 5-10.

People of the East, and for that matter, very few in this section of the country have ever seen a spectacle like this. The train comprising six cars is headed by a special car containing a large band and as the procession travels through the streets, the thousands of pedestrians lining the route are simply bombarded with the beautiful roses. To add to the charm and interest of the spectacle, the spectators usually engage in a "Rose Battle" pelted the young women with the flowers after they have been showered in the streets.

BIG FIGHT PROMISED.

AGUA PRIETA, Mex., April 14.—(Special).—Upwards of 2000 soldiers, about equally divided between regulars and rebels, are in and about this city. Tomorrow promises a fierce engagement. The American commander in Douglas, across the line, has warned both parties about an engagement that throws lead into American territory, and has threatened to take a hand if they attempt to fight too close to the border.

OLCOTT TO SUCCEED BENSON.

SALEM, Or., April 14.—(Special).—Everybody says that Ben W. Olcott, Gov. West's campaign manager, will be appointed to succeed F. W. Benson as Secretary of State. Official announcement will not be made, it is said, till Monday on account of the recent death of his predecessor.

O.A.C. SOLVES PROBLEM OF TIMBER RESOURCES

WILL MAKE DEMONSTRATION OF WHAT CAN BE DONE IN TIMBER CULTURE.

CORVALLIS, Or., April 14.—The solution of the problem of making the timber lands of the State continuously remunerative, which also means the preservation of the water powers, seems at present to have been found by the Oregon Agricultural College. When the work in forestry was separated from that in botany and made a distinct department under Prof. George W. Peavy, and E. O. Sleske of the U. S. Government Forest Service was added to the faculty, the facilities for instruction and for practical work by the students were greatly increased and some immensely valuable experimental work in silviculture has since been started on Mary's Peak and elsewhere.

A small forest nursery has been started on the campus at the south of the horticultural greenhouses, where the classes in silviculture have practical work in growing the young forest trees to solve reforestation problems. They are taught how to grow the seedlings, and how to transplant them successfully, with all the methods of reforestation in cut-over or burned off districts. The Austrian pine, Norway spruce, European larch, Scotch pine, white pine, or important timber pine of India which is of considerable commercial value, are being grown on this nursery plot.

On Mary's Peak valuable experimental work to determine the relative merit of fall and spring planting of various kinds of timber was begun last fall, and is being continued this spring. Experimental plots have been sown, both fall and spring, to Austrian pine, Norway spruce, European larch, and Scotch pine. Careful record will be kept of the December and March plantings, through which it is hoped to obtain information which will prove which is preferable for the different varieties.

It is hoped that at some future time a bit of land which can be used as a forestry demonstration tract may be added to the campus.

The High school ball team went to Milwaukie Friday afternoon to play the school team in that place. There was a very good game and the Milwaukie lads did not get a hit off the local twirler, Telford. NEW RAILWAY LINE MAKING PROGRESS

MIDDLE OF WEEK WILL SEE GRADING COMPLETED TO DISPUTED PILE OF ROCKS.

THEN FORCED TO PASS AROUND IT

Man Who Obstructs New Enterprise Stands in His Own Light—Bad Business Policy.

The nice weather that came to this section after the few disagreeable days the first of the week brought with it returning activity for the roadway on the Clackamas Southern Railway. The rain of Monday stopped the men as the mud was too sticky and the men could not do themselves justice, but with the returning sunshine of Wednesday came renewed activity and Friday the new roadway was a place of marked energy.

The grade of the road is completed from the brow of the hill at the city limits around towards the east side of the city, and the grading done reveals the fact that the grade is a light one and one of easy ascent to a motor or a gas locomotive of recent construction. There are a few cuts to make and a few fills to complete and then the roadway will be complete to the edge of the rock pile owned by G. W. Bigham, who is endeavoring to stop the roadway of the road until he is enabled to collect damages to several times the cost of his total holding. But for the rain the work would have been completed this week and as it is it will not be later than Tuesday when the gang will be ready to march on around the hill.

Unless a compromise can be effected it will be necessary to pick up the tools and pass on around, leaving a spot in the roadway incomplete, causing no little inconvenience and extra expense.

Every citizen in Oregon City and Clackamas county should have enough of local spirit and civic pride to wish to see his home town go ahead, and to assist in this work it is plainly the duty of every citizen—and especially business men—to aid rather than hinder an enterprise of this character. The completion of this road will mean the enhancement of the value of the landed interests in this city and county many dollars, and yet we see here a man who unless he can receive several fold what he paid and what his property is worth, the company claims, he is determined to act as an obstructionist and force the road to take the matter into court.

The claim is made that the four acres cost the present owner $120, and the company has offered $100 for one-half an acre. Not succeeding in this the company asked permission to go on and build the line and later settle at the price assessed by the court. This being refused the company offered to pick a man, Bigham a second and the two a third and then both comply by what the three said the road ought to pay. This was refused and the statement was made that unless he was settled with and at his own price he would hold up the road as long as he could.

It is evident that any man who does aught to obstruct the building of this railway line, or who does aught to delay the work, is standing in his own light and injuring not only himself but every other business man and citizen in the city and in mind it is community. And with this in mind it is not to be wondered at if business men look askance at those who do—in an effort to annoy the company or to collect more than is fair between man and man—obstruct the building of the road, and seeing this attempted turn otherwise go to the party in question. In fact it should wish to see the road among those who should be no favors shown to those who do obstruct, or attempt to obstruct and annoy, those engaged in building this line.

The city where every body takes hold and assists in public improvement is the city where it is easy to do business at a profit. The city where men are all the time pulling their back at every project where they themselves are not in the front rank is the city where it is hard to do business at a safe profit. Oregon City cannot afford to harbor knoekers, and when one shows his head it should be a case of leaving him to himself to die a natural business death.

The railway company has offered one of three ways of settling the case: 1. To pay $100 for one-half acre where four cost but $120.
2. To leave it to the court to say what shall be paid, the company agreeing to settle at the first adjudication.
3. To the company pick a man, Bigham a second, the two a third and then both abide the decision of the three.

If the public says that the man who will not abide the terms of this proposition is a knoeker, and that it will have nothing to do with him while he maintains such an attitude, it is not to be wondered at in the least; and he has but himself to blame in the matter.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(Special).—The heads of department committees are to meet Saturday to plan for a comprehensive report to Congress when that body meets in December. Congress intends to go slow, but it intends to cut off all unnecessary employees in and about departments. As it has the providing of funds for the payment of salaries it can thus control expense.

BOUND OVER TO COURT. His Partner in the Grims Has Confessed and Wants Forgiveness.

Carl Klotz, arrested in Hood River charged with participating in the robbery of O. S. Sarver, of Etacanda, about the middle of March, was brought to this city Thursday evening by Officer Brown and Friday morning he was arraigned before Justice W. W. H. Samson. He pleaded not guilty on the advice of his attorneys, Brownell and Stone, and Samson bound him over to court in the sum of $500. Not having bond to offer he was committed to await trial.

As one of the principals in the "rolling" of Sarver has confessed there seems little wisdom in Klotz trying to cheat the law of its due. O'Donnell not only confesses the crime but he had the money in his possession when he did "fees up" to show that he must be telling the truth.
