In many households the preparation of such a "simple" sauce as melted butter is left to an ordinary maid, and the result is often a compound which more closely resembles underdone paste than sauce blanche. It is the little details of the kitchen-of which the sauce in question is a good example-which bring discredit or the reverse on both mistress and cook. When properly made melted butter is one of the most useful sauces prepared in a modern kitchen, owing to the variety of which it is capable. The failure to making it is usually due to the fact that an entirely wrong method is adopted, which admits of insufficient cooking of the flour and a too scanty

On Saturday, May 6, the Single Tax question will be discussed at Harding Grange in afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Brother U'Ren may fool part of the people part of the time, some of them all the time but not all of them all of the time. If agriculture is the basic industry of the country and of the world, is entitled to recognition in Jegislative affairs. History proves that in all countries where agriculture has prospered all other industries have prospered and where agriculture declined all other industries have de clined. Agriculture does not depend upon other industries for prosperity but other industries depend upon agriculture as the basis of their pros perity. The forty million people living on the farms of the country are entitled to as great recognition in tariff and other legislation as an equal number engaged in non-productive industries." The above is from the anmust address of the Master of the National Grange, Full well does U'Ren know if the people knew and understood his Henry George tax theory it would not stand a ghost of a chance. He knows it would stagnate all agricultural development. Who has a right to the land the farmer has spent his life on with the concentrated efforts of himself, wife and family to make a home of, that is a credit to them and the community they live in, if not himself and family. cording to some we ought to pay all the taxes and those in business in cities, who have all the social and edu-Miss J.
