WILL INVESTIGATE SUGAR.

Woman's World

A Woman Who Teaches the Poor How to Cook.

MISS WINIFRED GIBBS.

One of the most useful persons in the great city of New York is Miss Winifred Gibbs, expert dietitian. Miss Gibbs shows women of the working class how they may expend their meager incomes to the best advantage in the purchase of food. Miss Gibbs on request supplies a family with suggestions as to what food is most suited for their needs and how it should be cooked in order to retain its nourishment. Many a poor housewife struggling with the problem of how to reconcile her income with the hard facts of the high cost of living has reason to bless Miss Gibbs. Many a workman owes his better health and increased efficiency to the well cooked and sustaining food which through her instructions his wife is enabled to provide out of his slender income. Children in the public schools, are enabled to do better work because their mothers each morning can thus provide them with a good breakfast. This adding to the well being and comfort of many people and indirectly energizing the work of the city is no mean achievement for one little woman.

Miss Gibbs does her work under the auspices of the New York Society for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor. Every day she goes among the homes of the tenements, where she is known only as the visiting cook. Those who know how eagerly most women "swap" recipes will not be surprised to learn that almost invariably her appearance in the tenements is hailed with pleasure. For several years she has been doing her work, and gradually the report of it, spreading to other communities, is leading to the establishment of similar dietary work for the poor.

LOVELY LINGERIE JACKETS.

Silk and Lace Are Used For the Most Fetching Models. Very pretty are the season's short dressing jackets and negligees. The soft Dresden silks with lace and ribbons make a combination that is very charming, as shown in the picture. This lace is Valenciennes, and the silk is in pastel shades of pink and blue. A ribbon band about the bust gives the upper part of the jacket a yoke effect. Narrow plaits on the sleeves and on the bodice add to its ornateness. The sleeves are of the flowing type, profusely garnished with lace. Among the most admirable rest gowns are some kimonos variously fashioned of Japanese crepe, shaded satin and a curious sort of gauze. What could be more charming than a kimono of delicate wistaria mauve gauze, or of delicate wistaria mauve gauze, embroidered with trails of wistaria blossom? The shaded crepe negligees are lovely. There is one shading from lemon yellow at the shoulders to a burnt amber at the padded hem, the gradations being so skillfully blended they seem to form one with the rich all over embroideries, while another ascends from a deep damask to a soft blush rose pink and is worked with a hanging design of wistaria in tone and great open roses.

Sugars and Syrups

MUCH of the taste and pleasure in eating good food depends on the sugar and syrups used.

Think of the finished delight given to your morning meal when the syrup used with your cakes is pleasing to your taste. Note that deliciousness when you drink well-made coffee with the right kind of sugar in it. Small matters—yes—but it is just those small matters that make life a complete success or a round of annoyances. We have studied the question—we pride ourselves on our attention to details of the kind. Come in and ask us.

LAS ANGELES, May 9.—(Special)—Wrapped in a sleep from which physicians have failed to arouse her, Mrs. Beulah Hawkins, 60 has been at her home here since Saturday without moving and taking only such food as has been forced through her lips. Three doctors, called in by relatives, admit they are baffled. Mrs. Hawkins breathes regularly and apparently is resting peacefully.
