SALOON MAN GETS 10-DAY SENTENCE

KERRICK IS ALSO FINED $75 FOR ALLOWING WOMEN TO ENTER PLACE.

CIRCUIT COURT TO REVIEW VERDICT

Brownell Keeps Post-Election Bledge To Punish Men Who Violate Saloon Ordinances.

Joseph Kerrick, proprietor of the Log Cabin Saloon, was on Saturday found guilty of violating a city ordinance in allowing women to effer an upstairs room in his place, fined $75 and sentenced to ten days' imprisonment in jail by City Recorder Stipp. City Attorney Story prosecuted, with Mayor Brownell assisting. After the trial the mayor declared that an ex ample would be made of Kerrick, and that the City Council would be asked to revoke his license. The Mayor de-clared he had warned the saloon men at the time he was elected that they must obey the law. At that time he positively announced that he would not allow gambling in the saloons; that women would not be permitted to meet men in them, and that minors should be kept out of them.

Kerrick was allowed to go on his own recognizance until the circuit Judge can review the case. His de fense was that the women were found in a room above the saloon to which there were two entrances, one through the saloon and the other by an outside stairway. He declared that the women, who came here from Portland, must have entered by the out-The room, he said side stairway. had been occupied by a man named Schenck, a mill worker, for three years. Schenck testified that he paid $5 a week for the room. He said that he had no key to the lock, but that there was a bolt on the inside The witness denied that he gave the women permission to enter the room

Policeman Cook and Deputy Sheriff Frost described in detail the raid made by them on the evening of May 13. They declared that just be fore they entered the place Kerrick rushed up to the door and yelled to those inside that the police were coming. The women were released on bonds of $20 each, which they for-feited. The man who was with them also failed to show up at the trial. Kerrick admitted that he knew one of the women and had met her in the afternoon on the street. Mayor Brownell and City Attorney Story said this constituted strong circumstantial evidence that Kerrick knew the women were in the room.

Attorney Gilbert Hedges, who defended Kerrick, dectared that the evidence was insufficient for conviction. He said that the defendant's statement had not been impeached, and that there was no proof that the law nad been violated. The room, he asserted, was not connected with the saloon. was occupied by another, and consefor what went on in it,
