Getting His Discharge.

his family to this city, and will occupy Nash's residence on Seventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanley and Miss Hazel Kirk, of Portland, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hiatt at their home at Mount Pleasant, have returned home.

If you have acreage or small tracts of land for sale close in, list them with me, as I have a good inquiry for small tracts. J. L. Swafford, Eighth and Main, Oregon City.

Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas, after spending over a year in California, for the benefit of the former's health, have arrived in this city, and are the guests of Mr. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gumpert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rows, of Portland, formed an automobile party that came to this city the first of the week and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Biecke, of Mount Pleasant.

Dr. and Mrs. Ray Norris and son have arrived in this city from Mount, Oregon, and are visiting the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Norris. They will remain in this city for several days before going to Portland to visit relatives.

Born, at Portland, to the wife of George Marr, a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marr were formerly residents of this city, Mr. Marr being in the grocery business here. His wife was formerly Miss Louise Andrews, and is well known in this city. This makes the fifth daughter in their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel L. Wilson, who have been residing at Twin Falls, Idaho, have arrived in this city and are visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. C. E. Meyers. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were former residents of Toledo, Oregon, where the former was principal of the High School, but have recently been residing at Twin Falls. They will make their future home in the Willamette Valley.

Phillip Kohl, one of the prominent farmers of Logan, was in this city on Thursday having brought in his son, Louis, who was injured while working in a sawmill at Logan on Wednesday when the tips of his three fingers of the right hand were cut off by coming in contact with a large saw. The young man at the time wore a pair of gloves and the glove of the right hand became caught in the teeth. He is under the care of Dr. H. S. Mount and is improving.

Thomas Garrett, of Portland, was in this city on business Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bassett, of St. Paul, Minn., have arrived in this city and are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, of Greenpoint. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett will leave this week for North Yakima, Wash., where they will remain during the summer with their daughter, Mrs. F. H. Hunter. The Bassetts and the Moores were old friends in St. Paul. Mr. Bassett was a resident of Oregon City 47 years ago and this is the first visit he has made here since that time. In looking over the city he has noticed many changes. He was formerly in the tannery business near this city.

WILLAMETTE.

John Coleman is ill. Dr. Mount is attending him. C. A. Colson, son-in-law of Thomas Johnson, recently arrived with his family from Eastern Idaho. He intends to purchase a home. He says there is no place like Clackamas County, Oregon.

An ordinance was passed at the last council meeting of Willamette providing that no stock be allowed on the commons after 5 p. m. and before 4 a. m. A pound has been installed. The fine is $1.00 for each animal.

JENNINGS HAS BIG ADVANTAGE

While Rivals Are Using Veterans He Is Experimenting.

BIG LEAD GIVES HIM CHANCE.

Fine Start of Detroit Club Enables Mughey to Find Out How Good His Youngsters Really Are, While Other Pilots Can't Afford to Take Chances.

By TOMMY CLARK. The big lead that the Detroit Tigers have now gives Manager Hugh Jennings a unique advantage over all his rivals—an advantage no other big league pilot has ever had as far as known.

It really means that the big lead has given Jennings a chance to go on what is practically a second spring training trip. He has been experimenting with other leaders do not dare take chances.

Take, for instance, Connie Mack. The manager of the Athletics is using his veteran pitchers over and over again to win enough games to give his individual players the courage and confidence necessary to make them into a winning combination. It is so with several other first division clubs.

It is bad for a ball club to find it necessary at this early date to over-work veterans. Men like Plank and Bender have seen too many years in service to round into shape rapidly at this stage of the season. It takes months to get into real shape.

And yet the manager cannot afford to use youngsters because games must be won. There is the attendance to think of for one thing, and there is the psychological effect on his players in defeat for another thing. He might have a great twirler hidden away in his list of cut-throats. He sends him in once, twice, possibly three times. The team is in the dumps and doesn't support him. He finds it almost impossible to get a line on him. His following is clamoring for victory, and his players are downcast.

He finds that he must work his regulars—men he is absolutely sure of. Probably when a game is clinched or defeat is certain he'll send in one of the youngsters to get a line on his new recruits. The ones who make good may first be the ones that are kept. May first be the best one is sent back to the minors because he hasn't shown any form. With his new infielders and outfielders it is much the same way. Many a baseball star has gone along for weeks before suddenly flashing out and showing his real class.

With Jennings it is different. While his seven rivals are worrying about not being able to give each one of the recruits the proper amount of study, Jennings simply smiles and sits back calmly to judge each youngster on his individual merit.

While victory is always sweet to him, the loss of one, two or even more games is nothing vital with the lead he has. He can afford to take chances. He can send youngsters in to pitch day after day—until they have all shown him not once but many times what they can do in the box, and under safe cover of that lead he can experiment too. He can work all sorts of plans out on his team with never a fear of having some other team over-haul him.

This does not mean much now, but in the midseason to come it does, for then, while other managers are worrying because their veterans are showing signs of tiring after their hard spring service, his should be in the best of condition, because in getting into shape in the early stages they were not overworked. And while other managers have not dared to try out new men or new plans of attack and defense he has been developing his team along these lines.

It's not the lead they have now that counts; it's how that lead will affect the play of the Tigers in July and August and September that worries the men who figure on passing Detroit.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

FROM DITCHER TO GOVERNOR.

The other day I read a sketch of the life of J. Frank Hanly, ex-governor of Indiana.

The story left out the most interesting part of Hanly's life, the part that gives the key to his character—his early struggles.

He is not the sort of man to parade his humble beginnings for political purposes, but he began nevertheless very low down—in a tile ditch.

Almost any old farmer in or about Homer, Ill., could tell you Hanly was a poor young fellow who dug tile ditches for a livelihood. But—

While he made the tile ditches through the black soil of the corn belt, he also studied law of evenings. And he attended every debating society in that region, taking part.

Sometimes he would be overheard practicing his speeches in the ditch—at least so tradition says—punctuating the lofty periods with the deaf motions of his long tile spade.

And then— Hanly got a chance to make a Fourth of July speech that took the whole countryside off its feet.

Shortly afterward he moved across the state line into Indiana and located in Williamsport in the practice of law. He made political speeches and won a reputation in western Indiana as an orator. Later he located in the city of Lafayette, where he has a lucrative business.

As governor Hanly made a national reputation. He stirred the state of Indiana as never before by his graft prosecutions. He forced the resignation of some of the state officers and recovered thousands of dollars to the state treasury.

Hanly hates whisky as he does poison, classing them together, in fact. He forced a reluctant legislature to pass a local option law under which a large part of the state is dry.

As he is under fifty and in great request on the lecture platform, Hanly is likely to be heard from further.

Moreover— He has not lost touch with the common people whom he knows as well, coming up from among them to his present place. The politician who knows and sympathizes with the wants of the people is a power.

And the career of one who climbs up out of a ditch to be governor should afford much cheer to the poor and aspiring young men.

VETERANS FINISH SCHOOL VISITING

G. A. R. HOST LARGELY AUGMENTED ON LAST DAY—EXERCISES ARE EXCELLENT.

Members of Meade Post, G. A. R., and Meade Relief Corps, paid a visit to the Gladstone school yesterday morning, where a fine program was given, and in the afternoon they went to Parkplace school where another excellent program was rendered under the supervision of the teachers, Prof. W. G. Jolly, Mrs. W. G. Jolly, Miss Ida Mack, Miss Pearl Horner and Miss Effie Morris. The efforts of the children and teachers were greatly appreciated by the old soldiers and the members of the Corps. Several of the veterans made addresses.

The Parkplace High School assembly hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. American flags, bunting, flowers, and evergreens were used in abundance. The organ was draped with a large American flag, and the National colors waived from the mast on the building. Many of the patrons of the school assembled to listen to the following excellent program: Song, "In Remembrance," school; recitation, "Decoration Day," Helen Lucas; recitation, "Our Veterans," Maudie Mitchell; "Memorial Day," Maudie Johnson; song, "The Bonnie Ranner," school; flag drill, primary grade, the word flag being formed by the pupils in the drill; recitation, "News From the War," Fay French; recitation, "Ready," Albert Johnson; recitation, "His Mother's Song," Amy Peckover; recitation, "The Last Old Soldier," Robert Bonnett; song, "America," school.

The following are some of the members of the G. A. R. who attended the exercises: O. A. Cheney, D. K. Bill, D. McArthur of New Era, O. L. Clyde, John Ackley, Captain Shaw of Milwaukee, Captain Apperson, George A. Harding, Post Commander, Platt of Portland, P. G. Wells, Mr. Grant, H. S. Clyde, Taxon Hayford, Mr. Mattox, Mr. Smith, C. Williams, J. C. Paddock, Captain J. T. Apperson. There were four department commanders in attendance at this gathering. Among the Relief Corps members were Mrs. N. M. Aldridge, Mrs. John Ackley, Mrs. Martha Beach, Mrs. Julia Tingle, Mrs. Amelia Mattox.

These are the last schools to be visited by the veterans this year.

It Wouldn't Pay to Advertise A Poor Article

Nor a proposition of doubtful merit or honesty—for ad-readers, nowadays, are DISCRIMINATING. They know values—they know GENUINE things, genuine opportunities.

Any article which can be sold by advertising is, by that test, a GOOD article. YOU are safe in buying a thing which has "stood the fire of publicity."

The maker of a widely advertised article, commodity, is always on trial for his business life. He cannot shirk, nor cheapen his product—and this is the best possible protection for the consumer.

You are SAFE in buying advertised things—it's the logic of nowadays business conditions.

Three-Fourths Are Women. Careful observers among the medical profession estimate that of those who seek the services of a physician three-fourths are women.

Many of these women are without question in need of surgical treatment, but perhaps the majority of them will be greatly benefited by medical treatment only.

In the course of treating such ailments, physicians have demonstrated beyond question the value of certain drugs in their treatment and, following the formula used by a physician especially successful in such cases, Rexall Vegetable Compound has been placed upon the market.

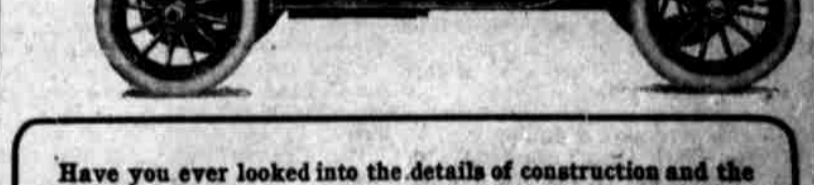

Many women have learned by experience that their ailments were of such a nature that they themselves might administer satisfactory treatment. While we do not recommend such a procedure, but strongly advise that you consult with your physician, we cannot speak too highly of the value of Rexall Vegetable Compound for use in such cases.

Please remember that Rexall Vegetable Compound can be obtained only at our store—The Rexall Drug Store, Large bottles $1.00. Huntley Bros. Co.
