PLEASE NOTICE.
To introduce The Morning Enterprise into a large majority of the homes in Oregon City and Clackamas county the management has decided to make a special price for the daily issue, for a short time only, where the subscriber pays a year in advance.
By carrier, paid a year in advance, $3.00.
By mail, paid a year in advance, $2.00.
People who gave our canvasser a trial subscription for one or more months, at ten cents a week, can have the daily delivered for a year for $3.00 by paying a year in advance.
People who gave our canvasser a trial subscription, by mail, for four months at a dollar, may have the paper for a year for $2.00, if paid a year in advance.
Subscribers to the Weekly Enterprise may change their subscriptions to the daily, receiving credit for half time on the daily that the weekly is paid in advance. When they choose to add cash to the advance payment equal to a full year's advance payment they may take advantage of the $2 rate.
We make this special price so that people who have paid in advance on some other daily and wish to take the Morning Enterprise, may do so without too great expense.

From the Weekly Enterprise of November 10, 1866.
Killed.—A few days since a small Indian child, while straying about in the vicinity of High street, fell from the bluff, and was almost instantly killed by dashing against the rocks in its fall. Several accidents of this nature have occurred since the foundation of Oregon City, and now that the "upper story" is becoming rather densely populated the time is approaching when it will be necessary to erect a substantial fence along the rim of the bluff for the protection of life and limb.

Dog Owners Must Get Licenses. All dog licenses will expire on June 1, and unless new ones are obtained the owners of the dogs will be subject to arrest. The licenses are $1 and $5.

If the Dead May Return
A Victory Without a Shot
By F. A. Mitchell
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

In one of the old colonial manor houses, for which Virginia is famous, a man lay dying. On the walls of his chamber hung a sword and scabbard, belt and pistol that had been placed there a dozen years before, when the southern Confederates had gone home to return to work and to save what they could from the wreck of war. There was no one in the house except some negroes, and they were bowed down with grief. Presently one of them entered the sick man's chamber and said breathlessly:
"She's comin', Mars Colonel."
The melancholy eye lighted, but not with pleasure. There was a hopeless look in it indicating that the invalid was preparing for an ordeal. Then came the sound of wheels on the driveway without, and in a few moments a woman, twenty years of age, perhaps, burst into the room and, rushing to the bed, fell on her knees beside it, clasping the figure in her arms.
"Oh, father!" she moaned.
"I have sent for you," the man said, speaking with difficulty, "to say that at last I have ceased to blame you. He did it all. I have not been able to find him, and now I must go from here. But if you know where he is tell him that if the dead may return he shall hear from me."
"Father, leave him to Him who shall judge us all at last."
There was no reply. The effort the man had made had taken the little strength left in him. Slower and slower came his breath; there was a rattle in his throat, and he was dead.
"Can you tell me, sub. if there is a man in this town named Lawrence—Edga' Lawrence, formerly from Georgia?"
The man addressed turned to the speaker and, on meeting his gaze, retreated a step or two. He saw a tall man about fifty, whose erect figure and shoulders thrown back suggested that he might have been a soldier. His hair and beard were grizzly gray, and there was a singular glitter in his eye.

"Yes, sir," replied the man questioned, "there is a man by that name here."
"Can you tell me where I can find him?"
"He's generally in the Empire saloon at this time of day."
"Very much obliged to you, sub." And the stranger walked away toward the Empire saloon.
"I'll bet my hat," said the observer to himself, "that man was in the late unpleasantness between the north and the south. These soldier men never get over their training. They speak as if they were giving or receiving orders and walk as if they were keeping step to music. He's a queer looking old chap and no mistake. I shouldn't have told him where to find Lawrence. Gosh to settle a difficulty with him! He'll go through the matter formally, and before he's really started in he'll get a bullet in his brain. I'll follow him."
The evening sun hung quite low and cast the stranger's shadow very long. While he walked on with the same measured tread as if trudging with soldiers, the observer's attention was turned from him to this elongated shadow. There was something grotesque about it, as such shadows often are. Both body and legs were drawn out strangely and the legs triangulated like a pair of compasses. The stranger, reaching the saloon, turned in, and the man who was following was close behind him.
Men were standing at the bar drinking, while others were seated at tables gambling. The stranger was standing straight as an arrow looking about him. Presently a man rose from one of the tables, and, passing the newcomer, the latter asked:
"Can you tell me, sub, if Edga' Lawrence is present?"
"That's Edga' Lawrence sitting at that table over there."
"Which one?"
"The man just dead!" the cards."
The speaker referred to a table

CONNIE MACK'S VIEWS ON PRESENT SITUATION.
Manager Connie Mack's view of the present situation is interesting. "If a weak ball club were out in front by some lucky spurt," he announced, "there would be little to worry about. But Detroit is a different proposition. Jennings has a club this season hard to beat under any turn, and with a long jump ahead of the field the job is simply that much harder."

IS EVERS' CAREER ENDED?
Cuba's Brilliant Second Baseman May Never Play Ball Again.
Johnny Evers is out of baseball for all time, according to the news current in innermost baseball circles. The best second baseman since the days of Mc'hee and the keystone of the marvelous infield of the Cubs has suffered personal losses and physical distress that have unitted him for the game.

Those who should know declare that the player noted on the field for his gameness has given up the fight in the face of specters of disaster. Until recently he kept his worries secret. Revelations of them to some of his comrades were soon followed by his retirement because of illness and the Cubs who have played with Evers do not expect him ever to be one of their mainstays again.
The same fear is entertained by the Cub leaders, though they may not admit it. With Evers gone it is recognized that the Cubs will not be really formidable as pennant factors. The retirement of this one player changes the whole aspect of the National race, for Zimmerman, good as he is, is not an Evers, and with the passing of Evers the central figure of both the attack and defense of the club is lost.

FLAG RAISING ON FRIDAY.
Athletics Meek Superstition by Selecting "Hoodoo Day" For Occasion.
Just to snicker a giggle at the "jinks" and to whack old general superstition on the jaw the world's champion Athletics have selected the hoodoo day of Friday to swing the world's banner to the breeze.
June 27, in the month of blushing brides and frenzied florists, is the date set for the auspicious occasion, with the Cleveland Naps doing the honors along with the men of McGillikuddy.

Shepard Will Leave Ump Alone.
Jimmy Sheppard, the pugacious outsider of the Chicago Cubs, says he has cut out umpire baiting for good. "There's nothing in it," says Jimmy. "It loses you more than it gets for you."

DIAMOND SIZZLERS

Hertzog is playing the best short field for the Boston Nationals of any man that has essayed the position in several years.
The Chicago Americans appear to have picked in "Ping" Bodie, the highly touted California slugger, a right handed batter of the Ed Deleahanty type.

Outfielder Tris Speaker of the Boston Americans plays ball like a back bats boy—that is, he enjoys every minute of it, unlike many professionalists who play as if it was work.
Collegian Eddie Collins is coming back to Ty Cobb's speed as a base runner. The rivals of last year's American league base running contest are running neck and neck for base piffing honors.

Manager Doolin of the fast going Phillies is expounding the theory that a player can't catch good ball and be successful as a manager. Charley is catching and hitting better than at any time in his career and showing fine judgment in managing as well.

Price Brothers to Play Sunday.
Price Brothers baseball team will play the Weones of Portland, composed of the Columbia Hardware Company team, at the Canemah Park next Sunday. This promises to be a close game. Several new men were recently added to the local team.

Knights of Pythias to Meet.
The Knights of Pythias will meet at Woodmen Hall Wednesday evening to initiate two members. All members of the lodge are requested to be present. The meeting was called by A. M. White, chancery commander.

QUESTIONS ASKED IN PORTLAND SCHOOLS MORE DIFFICULT THAN HERE.

PORTLAND, Or., May 30.—(Special.)—The furor raised by the failure of 227 pupils out of 207 to pass the eight grade state examinations in civil government and grammar in Clackamas County turns the calcium on some of the questions put to city students of the same grade, only 5 percent of whom fail to pass on an average, says the Evening Telegram. The numerous failures of the county students are probably traceable to the fact that the state questions are not based on a text-book outline. No text-book is used, the United States Constitution alone being the basis of study and wide latitude given the teacher as to methods of imparting the subject.

Text-book or no text-book, the questions asked of youngsters are such as would baffle the average voter. Possibly there are such as could answer glibly "what the constitution states relative to writ of habeas corpus or ex-post facto law, but the chances are there are many who would hedge.

To a student of constitutional law the questions put to the 12-year-old might not seem abnormally difficult, but for the man who for the last 20 years has been absorbed in making honest dollars with a view to buying the bread and butter for those same school children, the substance of the Presidential oath or the keeping of the house journal is a more or less busy matter. Mr. Average Man, suppose you answer, off-hand, the following set of six questions. If you can do it without hesitating, suppose you ask your young son who passes out of the ninth grade and into high school this fall. He can do it. He did it last February. Here they are:
Name the four kinds of United States courts, giving the chief duties of each.

Describe the methods by which the Constitution may be amended. How many amendments have been made to the Constitution?
Give the qualifications necessary to be a voter in Oregon. Give the qualifications necessary to be eligible for Governor of Oregon.
Tell what you can about the initiative in Oregon; also the referendum. What is the direct primary law? How do candidates get their names on the primary ballot?
Tell what you can about the legislative department of the government of the city of Portland.

Author Camps for Data.
S. R. Beloate, of Portland, has arrived in this city with his camping outfit on his way to Southern Oregon. Mr. Beloate is writing a book on "Oregon," and expects to travel through the state to obtain data for the volume, which will probably be published some time next year.

CANBY TO HAVE BIG JULY 4 CELEBRATION
COMMERCIAL CLUB CONSIDERS QUESTION OF BECOMING INCORPORATED.

SANDY, Or., May 30.—(Special.)—The Sandy Commercial Club is making arrangements to celebrate July 4 on an elaborate scale. The club has appointed the following committees of arrangements: Sports, John McCormac; Percy T. Shelley and J. M. Donahue; entertainment, George Bornstedt; A. E. Esson, Mrs. J. M. Donahue; reception, F. E. McGugin, Asa Thomas, Alf Bell; finance, Messrs. Dahlgren, Casper Junker and George Wolf. The club is considering the matter of incorporation. It is considered probable that the proposition will be submitted to a vote in the near future. The celebration is expected to be the most successful ever given here.
