DEMOCRACY AND PROSPERITY.

History is repeating itself in a Democratic House. It is proposed in that body to put the executive departments under a Democratic lens with the assumption that campaign material, or the semblance of it, can be turned up to direct attention away from the past record of Democratic incompetency and failure. In 1892 there was a Republican President, but a House Democratic by a large majority. The McKinley tariff had been in force a short time and the Democratic outcry against it was vociferous. "Turn the rascals out" was the slogan of the party that promised the earth in tariff and everything else. The presidential election of 1892 was a Democratic landslide, and shortly the Democratic party, for the first time in a generation, had control of all departments of the government. With astonishing quickness it had something else, and that was a period of calamitous business depression that can never be forgotten, says the Globe-Democrat, by those who witnessed and felt its paralyzing results. In 1894 a House overwhelmingly Republican was elected and six consecutive subsequent Houses were Republican. The investigators of 1892 found nothing wrong in the national accounts. Every cent due was in the till as well as on the books. The talk of "rascals" proved to be nothing but gratuitous slander. A ridiculously mishapen and abortive Democratic tariff law was passed, and then panic stalked through the land. Low prices prevailed for a certainty, but any price was too high for the millions of men out of employment. By 1897 the Republicans were again in control of all branches of the government and retained it until the present extra session opened. The story of the nation throughout this long period is one of unexampled prosperity. But again the Democratic party is keen to investigate, and to run the country. If it is true that those who have been burnt dread the fire the campaign of 1892 will not be repeated in 1912.

Woodmen Hold Services. Memorial exercises were held Sunday by the Woodmen of the World. The Rev. C. W. Roomson, of St. Paul's church, delivered the principal address at the hall and Mrs. Des Larzes rendered several solos. To Give Pupils' Recital. Mrs. N. C. Calvert will give a pupils' recital at 8 o'clock tomorrow in the church at Willamette. Pupils from Oregon City, Vancouver and Willamette will take part in the exercises. There will be no charge for admission and the public is invited to attend the recital.

Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE DYNAMITE OF SIN. Years ago somebody drilled a hole in a rock near a Massachusetts town and placed a charge of dynamite therein. For some reason the charge was not fired.

Gradually the soil filtered into the hole in the rock, and the moss grew over it and the grass crested it. It was an innocent appearing place. Then the unexpected happened. A man and a boy were working over the spot a few weeks ago. The boy happened to strike the rock with a hammer. The charge exploded. The man was mortally wounded and both hands of the boy were blown into fragments.

The dynamite awoke. It was hidden away and men had forgotten all about it, but it was there, and it had not lost its power. The immediate lesson of the incident is the need for greater caution in the handling of dangerous explosives. But also there is a moral significance in the explosion of the hidden dynamite. And that lesson is this: Beware of the hidden sin.

Because you may hide it never so safely from the sight of men; you may cover it over and it may fade from the general recollection; you may grow over it the mosses of concealment, but some day, mayhap when you least expect, a hammer will strike the rock, and—

Then? But you protest there is pardon Surely there is pardon. But there is no salvation from the consequence of wrongdoing—none! You can no more escape from the results of a wrong act than from the results of putting your hand in the fire.

Sin is dynamite. Hide it, and some day the hammer of destiny will strike the rock. There will be a flash, a noise, and somebody's contentment will be destroyed; somebody's hope will be shattered. "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Macbeth understood. He realized that "even handed justice commends the ingredients of our poisoned chalice to our own lips." Therefore it is better to look the consequences of your evil-doing fully in the face. It is better to stand up and take your punishment. It is better to know than to fear—and wait. And better still—

"Ware the dynamite of evil! No rock is strong enough to hold it. It will have its own, though it rend the foundation stones of the eternal hills."

Cowboy Baronet Fails to Get a Wife and Joins Salvation Army

SIR GENILLE CAVE-BROWNE-CAVE, known as the cowboy baronet and the twelfth hereditary knight of that title, has become janitor of the Salvation Army barracks in Brooklyn and announces that he will stick to the organization in hopes of being promoted until he becomes an officer. The baron does not expect to find Salvation Army life as exciting as his other experiences in various corners of the globe, but as he is past forty years of age he is willing to be quiet for a time. When he was a boy the present baron was a younger son and as such was put into the navy. He ran away and shipped on a merchant vessel for Australia. Again he was put into the navy, but he failed to pass an examination and was discharged. He joined the army before he was sixteen, served a few years in Africa and India and then resigned. He hunted big game in India for a year, making considerable money by killing tigers and leopards. Then he came to the United States and worked as a cowboy in various western states. He became the champion lassoer, having a record of roping and throwing a steer in nineteen and a half seconds. His elder brother died some time ago, and in 1907 his father died, leaving him the title. He was then working on a ranch in Colorado. He went to England, where he found that, though he had a title dating back to the eleventh century, the estates were hopelessly mortgaged and he had no money to maintain the property. He returned to America and announced that he would marry any woman under seventy who had sufficient money to pay the mortgages and take the ancestral home out of pawn. No suitable matrimonial arrangements were made, and now the cowboy baronet has become the Salvation Army janitor.

People who "invest" in enterprises promising abnormally large returns are usually disappointed. They fail to get the interest they expected and the control of their money passes to others. The money saver should take no chances with the promoter. When you deposit your money on a Time Certificate or in the Savings Department of this bank, it remains under your control, and earns a sure and steady rate of interest. There is no depreciation in this kind of an investment. The sooner you begin, the sooner will you be in possession of a growing balance. The Bank of Oregon City

The Benefits of Maneuvers In Texas

By General WILLIAM H. CARTER, Commander of Troops on Mexican Border

OUR army on the Mexican border is BETTER PREPARED today in equipment, details of supply and from the fact that it has been serving in larger bodies, in regiments, etc., than it was in 1898, when companies, battalions and regiments were brought together for the first time from distant stations, hastily organized into divisions and hurried into improvised transports for a tropical service with which the men and officers were wholly unfamiliar.

The present maneuvers have also enabled the graduates of our military schools to make PRACTICAL APPLICATION of the many theoretical problems presented at the institute, where, of course, the work is largely paper. And the practical work involved has led to many minor changes tending toward the perfection of camp equipment.

In addition to this, the maneuvers have been of marked benefit to the COUNTRY in that they taught the railroads how to handle troops—a lesson which would be of GREAT USE in an emergency, should one arise.
