THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP SEA.

Between the insurgents, the Democrats and the stand-patters the Senate of the United States has ceased to be a law-making body, and the extra session, called by the President for an avowed purpose, may run into the regular session next December, without accomplishing any real legislation for the good of the public.

The Democrats cry for free wool, yet they refuse in Congress to take the tariff from wool.

The insurgents howl for a reduction in tariff, yet they decline in Congress to remove the tariff from wool.

The stand-patters, so-called, are dickered to shirk party responsibility, and point to the union of Democrats and insurgents as a reason why the Republican party should not be held responsible for failure to act.

This is, indeed, a pretty situation. We are proud of our Senate—not. It is high time that popular election of senators should put an end to this sort of bickering at the public expense.

It's up to the bearded public to get shaved before 7 o'clock, or buy a safety razor.

Governor West evidently felt that his personal reputation was at stake, so he went out and captured his escaped prisoner. But the Governor can't do this every time, and he might do it once too often.

We shall be glad, along with the rest of the reading public, when the coronation ceremonies are past.

The late Mr. Weismandel neglected to consult his family when he made his will.

It really looks as though Oregon City is to have some more hitching posts for the accommodation of rural visitors. Let the good work go on.

Oregon City Enterprise—

To the Editor: Oregon City has

Teach Rifle Shooting In Public Schools

By General LEONARD WOOD of U. S. A.

ONE of the sacred duties of a boy next to the one he owes his mother and father is that of defending his country in the time of need.

I BELIEVE THAT RIFLE SHOOTING SHOULD BE TAUGHT IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND IN THIS WAY MAKE REAL DEFENDERS OF THE COUNTRY.

Now employing large numbers of men ought to imbue them cause to be proud of the McLoughlin memorial, and is to be congratulated on the spirit of appreciation shown by her citizens in preserving this dignified old structure. But doesn't it just make you shudder to anticipate the visitors who will see fit to scrawl their names or initials on the white woodwork and fountain? One would think it preferable never to be known at all, rather than to be known merely as a defacer of property, but practically all the historic buildings, bridges, etc., bear unwilling witness to the visits of persons who seem to consider that they have added glory and honor, both to themselves and the structure, by inscribing "Susie," or "J. Q. Hicks, Scappoose." One method of prevention is to furnish a visitors book, and another way is to publish occasionally all the names, initials and addresses found on public monuments in a roll of dishonor, as it were. Without doubt The Enterprise will consent to do this service, and one person who will take pleasure in furnishing the lists is,

Yours very truly,
ERNESTINE SINGER.

MR. AND MRS. BARRY HAVE SILVER WEDDING

MOCK CEREMONY PERFORMED AND SUMPTUOUS SUPPER IS SERVED.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barry, of this city, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Thursday evening, at their home at Fourteenth and Madison streets. One of the features of the evening, and which caused much amusement was the "mock marriage" of Mr. and Mrs. Barry, the ceremony being performed by F. S. Baker, of Gladstone. Mrs. F. S. Baker acted as matron of honor, while E. G. Lamber, best man. Miss Charlotte Baker, of Gladstone, rendered the wedding march as the bride party entered the parlor. Preceding the marriage ceremony Mrs. L. A. Barry sang very impressively, "Oh Promise Me." After the wedding ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was served. The rooms were very prettily decorated, and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Each guest presented Mr. and Mrs. Barry with a silver dollar. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lamber, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burns, Mrs. C. W. Kelly, Miss Harriet Baker, Miss Julia Baker, Miss Charlotte Baker, Miss Genevieve Kelly, Miss Bertha Kelly, Miss Blanche Barry, Geraldine and Julia Hastings, Fred Baker, Charles Thomas and John Barry; Masters Charles, Freddie and Johnnie Hastings, Sam Lamber, Edward and Leslie Burns.

RECRUITS OBTAINED FOR NAVAL DIVISION

E. C. DYE, ORGANIZER, ADDRESSES ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

Considerable enthusiasm was shown and several signatures were received at the meeting at the Commercial Club Friday night in connection with the organization of a division in Oregon City of the Naval Militia. Ten of the forty recruits desired have signed, and E. C. Dye, promoter of the plan to establish a division, thinks he will obtain the others in a short time. Mr. Dye is a quartermaster in one of the Portland divisions, and is thoroughly familiar with the work. He says the division, if organized in time, will be taken to the Centennial at Astoria on the cruiser Boston, and will probably be taken on a cruise later to Coos Bay and Puget Sound.

The Grand Army of the Republic Band played at the Commercial Club Friday night, and drew a large crowd to the meeting. Mr. Dye explained the work of the naval militia and declared that a division would be of great benefit to Oregon City in many ways. He said that it would advertise the city as a nautical center. If the division is organized dances will be held on the cruiser, and other entertainments will be given. Young men desiring to recruit may call upon Mr. Dye or Secretary Lazelle, of the Commercial Club.

It is the intention of Mr. Dye to address various social and other organizations in order to get the membership necessary in the shortest possible time, so the division may go on the cruise.

HARRY CLARK FLEES AGAIN.

Prisoner-Street-Sweeper Hides Broom Behind House.

Harry Clark, Oregon City's prisoner-street-sweeper, disappeared again Friday. Whether he went no one knows, but it is not thought that he has found refuge in the Indian camp this time. Chief of Police Shaw started Clark to work early Friday morning, but he was missed soon after, and his broom was found behind a house on Fifth street. Clark had about fifteen days to serve of a sentence of fifty days when he disappeared last week. When captured at the Indian camp he declared that bad whisky was the cause of his taking his unceremonious departure and that he would not do so again. Owing to his faithful work on the streets it was decided not to punish him further than to compel

BOTH HANDS GONE, OHIO PRODIGY IS CRACK RIFLE SHOT

Winemiller Carries Gun with a Leather Thong and Loads the Magazine with His Mouth.

THEN HE PULLS THE TRIGGER WITH TEETH.

Wins Many Matches Against Men Who Are Whole, but Objects to Term "Freak."

WAPAKONETA, O., June 23.—Possessing only the stump of an arm on the left side, and no arm at all on the right side, and knowing how to pull the trigger, Al Winemiller is conceded to be one of the most amazing rifle shots in Ohio. In a manner that has amazed all who have entered into competition with him, either in shooting at clay pigeons, live birds or a bull's-eye target. So far as is known there is no living man handicapped as he is who has made such a record, and not for the purpose of revenue or exhibition, but purely for the love of a sport that he has followed from boyhood. He would rather win a match with no stakes at all than forego the pleasure of the competition. His wings since the last of January have been two years of one best hand and one dollar in cash.

What makes Winemiller's performance all the more extraordinary is the fact that he did not lose his right arm until fifteen months ago. His left hand was caught in the cogs of a traction engine and crushed into pulp in 1909, and as an amputation above the wrist became necessary. Up to that time he had been an enthusiastic hunter, always carrying a shotgun and employing a rifle exclusively, even in the shooting of small game.

He had a wonderful eye for range, and with his old one-shot rifle and black powder charges, he used to make some wonderful scores. His accuracy of aim was such that even his hand had been crushed and removed. This accident did not interfere with his love for his chosen sport any longer than it took the stump to hand and to enable him to devise a strap hold which he used in lieu of a hand.

Arm Gone, Keeps on Shooting.

In January, 1910, Winemiller's right arm was caught in a four-inch belt running from a bolt cutter in the shop of the Wapakoneta Wheel Company. He was run up to the line shaft and whirled around until his arm was smashed and mangled close up to the shoulder socket. The surgeons took off entirely. Winemiller made a marvelous recovery, and as soon as he was able to cover the end of the stump with a leather belt which he could take in his mouth. This device was made under a doctor's direction, and then he went off into the woods where him to serve in addition to the time he had to serve the number of days he was away.

BEAVERS ARE BEATEN; FRISKY OAKS REPEAT

CHRISTIAN ALLOWS ONLY SIX SAFETIES—ROADSTERS WIN CLOSE GAME.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—(Special.)—What's the matter with the Beavers? They lost again today and that over San Francisco is becoming smaller and smaller, and Oakland, too, is coming right along. The game today was interesting enough, but Portland was never in it. Christian didn't behave just like his name might indicate, so McCredie's boys say, and he was master of the situation at all times. The visitors made six hits and one score, but their bingles didn't come opportunist. Henkle, who did slab duty for the Beavers wasn't hit so hard, but the Oaks connected with the sphere in psychological moments.

The results Friday were as follows:

Pacific Coast League—Oakland 4, Portland 1; San Francisco 8, Vernon 4; Sacramento 2, Los Angeles 2.

Northwestern League—Portland 5, Tacoma 4; Seattle 3, Spokane 2; Vancouver 6, Victoria 4.

American League—Boston 7-5, Philadelphia 2-4; New York 3, Washington 2; Detroit 4, Cleveland 2; St. Louis-Chicago game postponed, rain.

National League—Pittsburg 4, Chicago 3; Philadelphia 1, Boston 0; Brooklyn 1, New York 0; Cincinnati 8, St. Louis 7.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

A LESSON FOR PARENTS.
This is a pitiful story with a warning.

In a Massachusetts town three sons of an old man were brought into court to show cause why they should not support their aged father, who was in the poor farm. The brothers were well to do farmers.

"The old man's story."

"A few years ago I owned a good farm. When my wife died I made a trade with my sons by which I should be kept the rest of my life in return for my property."

"As soon as the papers were signed things began to go hard with me. Frequently I was half starved and had to apply to the neighbors for food. I grew thin and was poor both in food and in clothing."

"Poor old man, compelled to go 'over the hills to the poor house.' In evident terror of his soul! He pathetically insisted, should the court decree that his children owed him a living, that he should spend the rest of his days in the institution. No better evidence of his mistreatment could be afforded than that he should fear being turned over to the mercies of his sons."

An unusual case? Not at all. At most every one personally knows of such instances. Unfortunately it is all too common to know "how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankful child."

Infant King Lear made the mistake of dividing his possessions before his death, exclaiming when it was all too late—

"Ingratitude, thou marble hearted fiend! More hideous when thou show'st in a child Than the sea monster."

It may be there are more Cordelias than Regans and Gonerils in this world, but Lear was not the first wretched old man to wander an outcast in the wintry fields—nor the last.

The lesson is plain:

Parents, who have property should carefully retain sufficient to keep them in their old age. Children will be the better off for waiting until the old folks are gone. And the parents at ways will be sure of attention and respect from the children. Ingratitude of children is a crying evil of our money grabbing day.

"But not my children?"

No, no; not your children, doubtless, but—why tempt them?

STRAWBERRY SEASON IS COMING TO CLOSE

SUPPLIES ARE LESS LIBERAL AND QUALITY IS NOT SO GOOD.

The strawberry season is coming to an end. Supplies are less liberal and even these are not moving out as fast as the greater supplies of a few days ago. The quality of present arrivals is not nearly so good as last week's shipments. The canning season is about over so far as housewives are concerned, but the canneries are still at work and are taking all offerings owing to their diminished stocks.
