HAS IT COME TO STAY? With potatoes selling for $2.50 a sack, and green peas, string beans and many other commodities going sky-high, the man of moderate means and the housewife are wondering how to economize to a point where they shall be able to meet the bills of the grocer and the butcher.

It seems to be apparent that the high cost of living has come to stay. We have poured out our woes about it for several years, and no good has been done, and it is a safe conclusion that conditions will never change to the point where the cost of existence will be materially less than it is at the present time.

Optimism is all right in its place, and the pessimist should not be given room to voice his wall, but every situation affecting our pocketbooks should be looked in the face and met squarely. This is the manly and womanly and sensible way.

Conditions are no better in the West than in the East, and in some cases they are not so good. Generally speaking the cost of living is higher here than in most of the Eastern states, but on the other hand wages are much higher and people can better afford to pay the increased price. The slogan of "back to the farm" is good, and sounds sweeter every day.

Secretary of State Olcott is entitled to praise for his determined stand against the tipping evil. The Oregonian says Olcott is straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel, but the Secretary will find it harder to swallow a camel if he strains at every gnat that comes his way. The maxim of saving pennies and letting the dollars take care of themselves is well borne out in this instance. Tipping is un-American in principle, but Americans have encouraged the practice until it has become almost a rule from too much usage.

Harvey E. Cross has again made a benefaction to his town. If Mr. Cross was not a modest man, he would have dubbed Gladstone "Crosstown." It is not a bad sounding name, either.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY TEACHERS AT O. A. C.

CORVALLIS, Or., June 24.—(Special).—There are nineteen counties of Oregon represented in the enrollment of summer session students at the Oregon Agricultural College, beside the states of South Carolina, Washington, and Idaho. The registration for the first two days totaled 75, and it is expected that the number will be increased to 100 by the end of the week.

Representation from the various counties is as follows: Benton, 13; Yamhill, 10; Clackamas, 8; Multnomah, 6; Polk, 5; Douglas, Lane, Wasco, Umatilla and Washington, 3 each; Linn, Clatsop, Marion and Morrow, 2 each; Hood River, Coos, Harney, Lincoln and Tillamook, 1 each. Idaho and South Carolina have 1 each, and Washington 3.

Among these are city school superintendents, county superintendents, high school teachers, and instructors of special branches, as music, drawing and science. The course in high school methods proved attractive to many, as did also that in the teaching of science in high schools, given by W. F. Fargo, of the Salem high school.

They regulate liver, stomach and bowels and build up your health. Only 25c at Jones Drug Co.

Wreck of the Maine Will Soon Be Uncovered For Inspection

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

PUMPING has already started, and unless a defect is found in the cofferdam the wreck of the battleship Maine will soon be exposed and possibly the mystery of Havana harbor will be solved. When all the water is pumped out the pressure on the cofferdam will be tremendous, as the depth is more than thirty feet. The engineers decided to pump the water out a little at a time and to make frequent stops so that the cofferdam can be inspected and strengthened should any weakness be shown.

When the man began to work with his head he learned how to work others. He learned how to "grow" money. Presently he cornered some special privileges that the man who works from his shoulders down never gets. He began to get rich quick.

Then this man became a thing. He looked into the face of his wife and saw that her beauty was faded. She did the best she could to please him, but the old charm was gone. And one day this creature in garments of a man happened to meet a girl who was artificial, fascinating and pretty.

He looked at him and smiled. He was hypnotized and undone. He would have this girl. He could buy her. The thing in trousers sent his lawyers to his faded wife. They offered her much money. They told her plainly her husband had no further use for her. He stayed away from home. The wife knew that he was with the girl.

Desperate, the old wife sued for divorce. There was a sensation and scandal. The newspapers made much of the trial. Finally the multimillionaire married the girl, and they went to Europe. Now almost every day the old wife cries, they say.

Who was this thing with much money and no soul? I cannot just name him. He is a sort of composite production. However, if you will turn to the commercial reports of Dun's or Bradstreet's and you scan the list of men with millions I quite believe you will find his name.

"It is my policy," said the impulsive young candidate, "to send every law breaker and every law evader to jail."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed a prominent citizen. "This fellow wants to lock up the entire community."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE.

ONCE HE WAS A MAN. This is a story about one who at a time was a real man. Now he is a multimillionaire. He began his business life without a dollar. If, as some one has remarked, "a man is worth only $2 from the shoulders down and $20 a day from the shoulders up" this man at first was worth $2 a day. Then he began to work with his head—"from his shoulders up."

When he began to work with his head he learned how to work others. He learned how to "grow" money. Presently he cornered some special privileges that the man who works from his shoulders down never gets. He began to get rich quick.

The man's wife? He married her when he began to work with his head. She was a fine girl, but, like himself, poor. She worked hard, denying herself. She saved and saved and lost her beauty. What matter? He and she would enjoy their prosperity together.

Then this man became a thing. He looked into the face of his wife and saw that her beauty was faded. She did the best she could to please him, but the old charm was gone. And one day this creature in garments of a man happened to meet a girl who was artificial, fascinating and pretty.

He looked at him and smiled. He was hypnotized and undone. He would have this girl. He could buy her. The thing in trousers sent his lawyers to his faded wife. They offered her much money. They told her plainly her husband had no further use for her. He stayed away from home. The wife knew that he was with the girl.

Desperate, the old wife sued for divorce. There was a sensation and scandal. The newspapers made much of the trial. Finally the multimillionaire married the girl, and they went to Europe. Now almost every day the old wife cries, they say.

Who was this thing with much money and no soul? I cannot just name him. He is a sort of composite production. However, if you will turn to the commercial reports of Dun's or Bradstreet's and you scan the list of men with millions I quite believe you will find his name.

Cities Would Be Better Off if They Governed Themselves. By JOHN A. DIX, Governor of New York.

THE time has come when cities should demand that instead of being governed as subject provinces they be endowed with powers of government as complete and efficient as those vested in the state and nation by the state and federal constitutions.

We have INCOMPETENCE in city councils, police forces that are DEMORALIZED, city departments and bureaus that are INEFFICIENT. How can it be otherwise, then, that the city is treated as a dependency to be controlled and governed in its vital affairs by an OUTSIDE lawmaking body which can possess no KNOWLEDGE of its needs and is absolutely regardless of its rights and interests?

IF HOME RULE and LOCAL SELF GOVERNMENT WERE FULLY AND PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED MISTAKES WOULD DOUBTLESS BE MADE IN CITY GOVERNMENT, BUT THEY WOULD BE MADE BY THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES, AND CORRECTION WOULD QUICKLY FOLLOW.

Problems of city government may be NUMEROUS AND COMPLEX, but they can NEVER be solved from a state capital. They must be met and solved where they EXIST by the people who know and understand them. The American city should be entirely free from interference by the state.

OUTING HAT. Turkish Toweling Used in the Designing of Smart Headgear.

Turkish toweling, that most plebeian of fabrics, has been used in covering the wire frame that is the foundation for this round crowned summer outing headgear. Velvet faces the upturned brim and supplies the material for the bow at the back of the hat. Trimming at the back is one of the new touches in millinery.

The use of Turkish toweling for smart outing hats is an idea that commends itself to those who can appreciate the artistic possibilities of this inexpensive fabric. In the dull, unbleached shades it is particularly effective. Hats of Turkish toweling are referred to by the designer as "wash hats."

Bleaching Fluid. Allow a tablespoonful of chloride of lime to every quart of water required. Stir the article about in this water till all color has disappeared and then rinse it very thoroughly in clear water.

TRAMP WITH AX IS THOUGHT HILL SLAYER

FELLOW FIRED UPON PROVES HIS INNOCENCE AND IS GIVEN NEW SUIT. A tramp, at first thought to have been the slayer of the Hill family at Ardenwald Station, caused much excitement at Milwaukie Saturday morning, and before he was captured by several men who pursued him, at least one shot had been fired at the suspect. The man proved that he had nothing to do with the killing, and the men, who only a few minutes before, had pursued the fellow, furnished him a new suit of clothing, and gave him something to eat. The man was accompanied to Milwaukie by another tramp. There they separated, and the one, who was later suspected of knowing something of the quadruple crime, went to the home of Mrs. McIntyre to ask for something to eat. While talking with a member of the family he caught hold of an ax, which had been on a pile of wood near the house, and the rumor was at once started that he was the man who committed the crime near Ardenwald Station. The members of the Hill family were brained with an ax. Sheriff Mass, who was summoned, questioned the man, and soon became convinced that he knew nothing of the tragedy.

Saved His Wife's Life. "My wife would have been in her grave today," writes O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., "if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time." BEAVERS HAND OAKS GAME THEY HAD WON. McCREDIE'S MEN MAKE SEVEN ERRORS AND HOME TEAM FIVE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—(Special).—Despite Portland's getting four to the good in the first inning today the Oaks won with two to spare. Per-noll was hit hard at the start, but he steadied down and pitched good ball. The home boys began getting busy with Henderson's curves getting the second and made three and four falls respectively in the fourth and fifth. The Beavers played worse than amateurs, seven errors being marked up against them. And Oakland made five misplays. Oh, but it was a jolly game.

The results Saturday were as follows: Pacific Coast League—Oakland 8, Portland 6; San Francisco 8, Vernon 0; Sacramento 8, Los Angeles 3. Northwestern League—Portland 8, Tacoma 0; Seattle 2, Spokane 1; Vancouver 6-1, Victoria 5-4. American League—Philadelphia 7, Boston 1; New York 11-9, Washington
