WOMEN, IN CRASH KILLED BY FRIGHT

TWO FOUND DEAD IN STATE ROOMS AFTER STEAMSHIP SPOKANE HITS ROCKS.

PASSENGERS LANDED ON STONY BANK

Vessel is Beached to Save Her From Sinking—Nineteen Persons
From Portland in Disaster.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 30.—Two women passengers died of shock last night when the excursion steamship Spokane, which for years has been used only for carrying tourists to the waters and towns of Southeastern Alaska, and which was fitted up for the summer and was laid up except during the summer, struck a rock in the Narrows, B. C., and was beached in Plumber Bay to prevent her sinking in deep water.

One woman who lost their lives were Mrs. J. E. Strauss, of Washington, and Mrs. J. E. Strauss, of Philadelphia. Their bodies have been identified and are being taken to Seattle.

At 10 o'clock the bodies of the two women were reported missing. A search of the ship was made and their bodies were found in the staterooms, where it was supposed they had been sleeping.

All the passengers of the boats. They were landed in the small boat and passengers passed the night and day on the rocky shore, camped under the stars and the moon. The bodies of the two women were taken off by the steamer Myrtle Sampson tonight and are being taken to Seattle, where they will arrive at 6 a. m. tomorrow.

Conflicting accounts of the cause of the women's death have been received in the brief wireless dispatches sent by the steamships Admiral Sampson, Prince George and City of Seattle, which hurried to the assistance of the distressed steamship.

Women Die of Fright.

One message asserted that the women died of fright in their staterooms, where the bodies were found.

Mrs. Williams, was accompanied by her husband and two daughters, all of whom escaped uninjured.

Most of the 160 passengers are Easterners, though 19 were from Portland, Or.

At latest advices the Spokane was with hurricane deck awning. The boat was valued at $400,000, and was the finest ship on the Alaska run.

The scene of the wreck was near the place where the ship City of Seattle was wrecked on January 11, 1901. The ship was wrecked on a rocky shore, but the bodies were saved. From the wreck were recovered 100 miles north of Vancouver.

NEW RECORD FOR BIG EGGS IS ESTABLISHED

MRS. LUCY EWALT OWNER OF SEVERAL REMARKABLE LAYERS.

Chicken experts of this city and county are marvelling at the eggs laid by several hens belonging to Mrs. Lucy Ewalt, who lives near Fisher's Mill on the Clackamas River. The eggs have two and sometimes three yolks and are more than twice as large as ordinary ones. Eggs with two yolks are not unusual, but it is something new for hens to rarely lay other kind. Mrs. Ewalt sent the eggs to Dr. A. L. Beattie and they are certainly curious. The largest measures seven and one-half by six and a half and the smallest weighed two pounds. The largest hen is a Rhode Island Red, but the record egg remains a mystery. Mrs. Ewalt gives her chickens special attention, and uses nothing but the best feed.

HARVARD OARMEN EASILY BEAT YALE

CRIMSON CREW OUTCLASSES BLUE, WINNING BY NEARLY TWENTY LENGTHS.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 30.—Never since Harvard and Yale have been rivals upon the water have the crew of Eli received a worse beating today. The crimson crew out-clasped the blue from the very crack of the pistol, defeating their foes by nearly twenty lengths in the premier event of the regatta, the Varsity Eight.

The two rival vessels broke even in the first two events of the annual races. Yale captured the first contest, the freshman race, by two lengths after a game struggle with Harvard's "rookies" over the two-mile course, but in the four-oar race it was all Harvard, the crimson crew forging to the front at the first mile and their backwash until they crossed the finish line, rowing easily and 2 1-2 lengths ahead.

Both races were rowed in choppy water, the freshman race scheduled event of the regatta had been postponed until near the condition of the water.

DAUGHTERS OF KING HAVE FINE OUTING

AUCTIONING OF ARTICLES BY REV. ROBINSON CAUSES MUCH MIRTH.

The strawberry festival given by the St. Paul's Guild and Daughters of the King of the St. Paul's Guild at the home of Mrs. Dan O'Neil and Miss M. L. Holmes at Rose Farm Thursday afternoon was a most enjoyable affair.

One of the features of the afternoon was the auctioning of articles, carefully wrapped, and unknown to the purchasers. The Rev. Charles Robinson, the auctioneer, kept everyone in good nature by his wit. He disposed of every article. Many surprises were found by the purchasers, some of which were ridiculous, while others received high prices.

Mrs. Gillespie, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robbins of Amity, is well known in Oregon City, having visited here often. She has been a teacher in the Portland public schools for eight years, and was considered one of the most proficient in that city.

GREAT WORK BY WOMEN

ORGANIZATION HAS RE IN EFFORT TO BEA CITY.

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS AR Report of Mrs. Norris, Re dent, Gives in Detail Accomplished—Park B Aid to City.

The Woman's Club has had its most successful year, and the accomplished has been of great fit to the city. A study of the achievements of the organization has been of a civic nature, but it has been of service to our city. Work covers a wide scope, as chronicled in detail in the report of the retiring president, Mrs. Norris. The report in full follows:

Another year has passed with profits, pleasures and perplexities. We list profits first, and then pleasures, and finally perplexities, either of men or women, have together for the common good, fail to derive profit, both as a club and individually, from such a profit. By profit, we do not mean monetary profit. While this is of innumerable value to a successful achievement of material results, the profit that comes in the broadest horizon, greater forbearance, a deflected motive in the work done, in the intellectual uplift that must come, the profit beyond price.

The pleasures of the year have come from a sense of duty well done by each club member. The perplexities, there's the rub; these come mostly to the president. How to conduct the duties of her office profitably for the club, and acceptably to the Congress, often failing when making the best effort. Still these failures must not discourage us, but inspire us to greater effort. May we be pardoned if we speak of some of the perplexities and embarrassing things that the officers of the club have to meet, and especially embarrassing and perplexing to the presiding officer. The greatest is a neglect of the duties that should be observed by every organization and individual member of the arranged program; each woman should feel herself a hostess and host or the person invited on the program by her presence at the club.

Don't Overwork "George."

The business meetings to be successful must be of interest to each member. It is all very well to say, "Let George do it," but it is pretty hard on "George." So I bespeak for the new president a good attendance and your hearty support at each meeting of this year.

The Woman's Club stands for greater possibilities for women. Already the men in legislation, in Congress and those desiring better laws for humanity are appealing to the Women's Clubs to come to their aid. This is it not worth while for us to join heart and hand and say we will stand by our club first, social duties second.

The work done by this club during the year has been largely civic. We have found a ready response from the City Council, and the people generally in helping the work along, there is yet much to do before we have a "City Beautiful."

Our new president says we must have the Junior Civic Improvement League. Good for her, and we will have it, too. This means more beautiful school grounds, boys and girls cultivating a taste for the beautiful and refined.

The Shakespeare department of the Woman's Club, under the direction of Mrs. Lanwood Jones, has taken us away from the light magazine fiction to walk with "The Uncrowned King" through the realms of fact and fancy wherein he has portrayed the strength, grandeur, love, weakness and hates of humanity so splendidly that we stand wrapped in amazement.

The crowded houses that greeted Eugene Sothern and Julia Marlow, in Portland recently, is no doubt due to the Shakespeare department of the Woman's Club educating the women away from the problem, and frivolous plays. Only a few years ago the greatest Shakespearean star could not attract a half-filled theater. This alone should make every club woman proud to say she belongs to a woman's club.

The material side of club life, while not entirely pleasant, must be attended to; raising money by markets, entertainments and cash subscription, while yielding satisfactory returns has been arduous to a few. The financing of the club must be assumed by each member, that is, each member should feel it her duty to do her part cheerfully, in raising the money to carry on the work of the club. We would suggest that each member keep an account of her expenses in the club.
