INSURGENTS' REDEMPTION.

The union of progressive republicans and progressive democrats in the United States Senate which forced the reactionary Finance Committee to report out the Wool Tariff bill and the Farmers Free List bill is a most encouraging sign of the times. It happens at a time to relieve the insurgent republicans of some of the doubt and suspicion which their attitude toward the reciprocity treaty had cast upon them.

Although the President's reciprocity program promises but small and insufficient relief from tariff exactions and although its errors of omission are glaring and exasperating and clearly made in the interest of oppressive trusts, still its adoption seemed hitherto to be about as much as could be obtained during the present administration.

But now they have done much to redeem themselves. If they succeed in forcing on President Taft the choice of signing measures giving real and immediate relief from the trusts whose interests he handled so carefully while framing the reciprocity treaty, or of taking on himself the responsibility of defeating his own program they will have performed a service of great value.

Chaunauqua ends next Sunday. How many times have you been?

Patience Required Of Business Men

By E. H. GARY, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation

I AM thoroughly convinced that, with the conditions existing in this country today in the matter of crops and everything that helps business, within a comparatively short time we will all be busy and have PLENTY TO DO. In the meantime it is going to require patience.

IF WE HAVE PATIENCE I AM SATISFIED WITHIN A VERY SHORT TIME WE ARE GOING TO BE VERY WELL PLEASED WITH THE TRADE CONDITIONS IN THIS COUNTRY.

CROWDS TOLD HOW TO FIGHT DISEASE

serve hand and humorous reading by Sarah Mildred Willmer. Miss Willmer captivated the audience with her fine work, and made even a better impression than she did last season with "The Sign of the Cross."

A picnic will be given at the Chaunauqua Friday evening at 6 o'clock by the Oregon Agricultural College Alumni Association of Clackamas county. All members are urged to attend.

Lecturer Wins Audience.

Dr. Lena K. Sadler lectured at the close of the class. The lecture was illustrated with demonstrations a trained nurse and others assisting. The speaker went into details on the causes of colds and the prevention methods in use. Miss Kellogg, the trained nurse, showed the best methods of face and nasal massage, and how to use the hot blanket pack.

After the concert by the Naval Reserve Band in the afternoon Dr. William S. Sadler spoke.

"Man was made to live in a garden," said the speaker, "but may not live in a garden all the time, owing to climatic conditions. Fresh air and sunshine are essential to the health of plants and animals. It is a great deal better to take the cure and prevent the disease than to take the disease first and then the cure. Not one person in a hundred breathes correctly. We should breathe like babies and calves, all the way down. Keep the curve in the back and don't let it straighten out. When resting be sure that the chair permits you to recline slightly and keep a pillow under the hollow of the back."

Food Best Health-giver.

"You can't get health out of a bottle or pill box. You have to get your health out of your food and exercise. A lot of people are sick because they are lazy. I do not believe in hard work—only moderate work—just enough to bring the perspiration to the face."

"Over-exercise, like college athletics is wrong, and does not bring health, but over development of the muscles only."

"You can lead a strenuous life in the counting room and the office if you lead the simple life in your dining and bedrooms."

"Beware of artificial flavors; use only natural flavors and many ills will disappear."

Dr. William S. Sadler lectured in the evening on "The Physiology of Faith and Fear," or "The Mind in Health and Disease."

The chaunauqua restaurant has been put under the management of Mrs. C. O. T. Williams, who has had much experience in the work, and the service now is excellent.

ASSESSOR'S FORCE FINISHES FIELD WORK

TOTAL VALUATION WILL BE ABOUT $24,000,000, SAME AS LAST YEAR.

Assessor Jack announced Tuesday his force of estimating valuations by his force of deputies for the year had about been completed. It is thought that the total valuation of realty and personalty in the county this year will be about the same as last, $24,000,000. The Board of Equalization which is composed of the County Judge, County Clerk and Assessor, will meet on the third Monday in October to hear complaints and correct any mistakes that might have been made. The field men have gone all over the county visiting the farmers and other property owners, comparing the property with that listed the previous year. The levy last year was fifteen mills.

Rev. J. V. Silcox and wife, of Kansas City, Mo., have arrived in this city with the former's brother, W. H. Silcox, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, and family. Rev. and Mrs. Silcox have visited in Oregon before, but this is their first visit in Oregon City, and they are more than pleased with the city as well as the state. W. H. Silcox is trying to persuade his brother and his wife to become residents of the state. Rev. and Mrs. Silcox will return to their home by way of Seattle, where the former is to address an assembly at the Congregational church, he being pastor of the Congregational church in Kansas City. They will also visit in Canada before returning home.

Young Prince of Wales Receives Insignia of Order of the Garter

ONE of the important events of the recent coronation festivities in London was the investiture of the Prince of Wales with the insignia of the Order of the Garter. The affair was conducted with great pomp, ex-King Manuel of Portugal taking a prominent part. In the above picture the ex-ruler is shown preceding the future ruler of Great Britain. The Order of the Garter is so old that its origin is a matter of doubt. Some historians say that it was founded by King Richard I. at the siege of Acre, when he caused certain of his officers to tie leather thongs around their legs as a distinction. The generally accepted story, however, is that it owes its existence to King Edward III, who picked up a garter dropped by the Countess of Salisbury at a ball and adjusted it around his own royal leg with the remark, "Honi soit qui mal y pense." This remark, which means, "Shame be to him who thinks evil of it," usually translated as "Evil to him who evil thinks," became the motto of the order when it was instituted by Edward III. some time about 1350. The number of knights of the Garter is limited to twenty-six, including the reigning sovereign, though since 1786 princes of the blood have been admitted as supernumerary members. The order is frequently conferred on rulers of other nations. The emblem of the order consists of a garter of dark blue ribbon edged with gold bearing the motto, a pendant of gold, a mantle of blue velvet with a hood of crimson velvet, a hat of black velvet bearing a plume of white ostrich feathers, having in the center a tuft of black heron's feathers and a gold collar made of twenty-six pieces, each in the form of a garter.

THIEF FRIGHTENED AWAY. Man Tries to Enter Apartment of W. L. Little. While Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Little were in their store on Seventh street, Saturday evening, a thief tried to enter their apartments on the upper floor through a window at the rear of the building. It is thought by Mr. Little that the would-be housebreaker was frightened away when he and his wife left their store to go to their rooms. The windows showed an effort had been made to enter by removing the glass. Mr. Little's store was broken into last spring, and goods were taken from a window. The thieves escaped.

BERRY AND CHERRY RECEIPTS ARE LIGHT

MARKET WELL SUPPLIED WITH WATERMELONS OF GOOD QUALITY. Oregon City was pretty well supplied with watermelons Tuesday and now that indications are for warmer weather it is expected that they will move more freely. The melons are of good quality, but the prices are, of course, high. Receipts of berries were not very heavy and few cherries came in. Royal Annes are quoted anywhere from 5 to 10 cents, according to condition. This is the time of year when loganberries and raspberries should be coming in goodly quantities. The season is a little late this year, however.
