Commercial Club Chat

"WE NEED MORE Industries to benefit the agricultural products of the County."

Said Secretary Lazelle of the Oregon City Commercial Club, "Oregon City should have a canning industry to take the best advantage of the fruit and vegetable crops that are grown and the hundreds of tons more that would be produced if the farmers were assured of the sale of their crops. This section is adapted to the production of all kinds of fruit and berries and also many vegetables and at the same time other sections are supplying the field that we should have with canned goods.

The following is a letter received from the secretary of the Monroe, Washington Commercial Club:

"Years of the 19th cent. at hand relate to our condensation. We have a large condensation operated by the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, with offices in Seattle. They operate five or six plants on the coast and are a great help to the country where they are located. The plant here has caused land values to increase at least fifty per cent. and has increased the number of cows tributary to Monroe from 2866 in 1908 to 5996 in 1910.

A TRIFLE GOSSIPY

Charles Meckler and Bob Thompson, of Portland, and E. T. Fields, E. P. Elliott and Edward Rechner, of this city, formed a party that left here Saturday evening for the Tom Scott cabin at Molalla, and from that place they went to Molalla river to fish Monday. The fish stories these men are telling since their return would fill a book, and many of their friends here are believing some of their tales, while others go unbelieved. One of the features of the day was the accident that befell Mr. Fields, who became imprisoned under a log, which he had attempted to climb under.

130,000 VOTES ARE POLLED

It will not be surprising, however, for some candidate to run away from the field before many days. So far a real big leader has not developed and it should be a hard matter to guess from the present outlook just who the ten lucky ones will be.

Strange Peoples From All Over
The World Attended Coronation

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

KING GEORGE of England rules over diverse peoples, and they sent representatives to London to take part in his coronation. Some of these visitors were official, but many of the most interesting were entirely unofficial, and had flocked to London by the lure of the English and the English.

A TRIFLE GOSSIPY

Mr. Fields. As soon as Elliott saw the fish taken from the water by Fields, he hurried to the spot and measured the spotted beauty. Fields peered over Elliott's shoulder as the latter was measuring the fish, a broad smile illuminating the former's face, and his companions knew at once that the cigars "were on" Elliott. Elliott had a supply of these on hand, and Fields was allowed to smoke several before he proceeded to again fish.

130,000 VOTES ARE POLLED

Mr. Elliott, one of Oregon City's champion fishermen, who had accompanied to accompany the party, took it upon himself to act as guard, and no man in the party was allowed to catch a fish smaller than six inches in length. The largest fish was caught by Mr. Rechner which was 18 inches in length, and the smallest, by Mr. Fields, who was 14 inches long.

Aid to Perfect Health.

That the body may be in a perfectly healthy, normal condition, it is necessary that the various organs perform their natural functions in the regular manner. This is particularly true of the liver, the principal work of which is the separation of various poisonous materials from the blood. Unless these are withdrawn and disposed of, they are re-absorbed into the system, resulting in a gradual poisoning of the whole system.

REMEMBER the same number of votes are allowed on old subscriptions, that are given for new ones, and old subscribers are always ready to sign up far in advance to help their candidates. You have a clear field now, and the fact that the Enterprise has a large subscription list is no handicap to you. It gives your friends who are taking the paper a chance to help you, as well as people who are not subscribers. Everyone has an even chance now, and remember the prizes will be awarded solely on merit.

CUT ON HEAD WITH CUP, HE ASKS $1,000

Peter Theoforos has filed a suit against Constantine Karas in the Circuit Court through his attorney, Max G. Cohen, of Portland. Theoforos alleges that while at River Hills, Clackamas county, on July 4, 1911, Karas, without cause, violently and maliciously assaulted him and beat and struck him several times and threw a coffee cup at him which struck him on the right side of the head, causing a scalp wound about four inches above the left eye. The plaintiff says he lost several days from work as a result of the wound. He asks $1,000 damages and $5 which was the amount of the physician's fee who attended him.

WIFE CHARGES DESERTION.

Dora M. Anderson Sues for Divorce From A. E. Anderson.
Dora M. Anderson has filed a suit for divorce against Andrew E. Anderson to whom she was married at Santa Pedro, Cal., September 24, 1904. Mrs. Anderson alleges her husband deserted her without cause on October 13, 1906. She is represented by George C. Brownell.

THE POWER OF THE EDITORIAL.
There is considerable truth in the oft-repeated assertion that the editorial utterance of the large city dailies has not the same influence upon the public mind they had two or three decades ago. The decline has been steady and several reasons have been advanced to account for it.

Card of Thanks
We desire to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors for their kindly sympathy during our recent bereavement in the death of our wife and mother.

Honeymoon Over, The Newlyweds' Troubles Begin
By Justice JOHN FORD of New York Supreme Court
IT HAS BEEN MY OBSERVATION THAT THE DANGER TIME IN THE LIFE OF MARRIED FOLK IS THAT PERIOD WHICH COMES IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE HONEYMOON.
A young man and a girl are presumably very much in love with each other when they marry. Their engagement has been one long love song. They go away on their honeymoon in the same spirit. They have NO troubles, NO cares. He is away from his business and has BANISHED IT from his mind. She has no household duties and nothing else to WORRY about.
Then they come back to a new and strange home of their own and to the new and strange idea of living together for the rest of their LIVES. The woman finds that the man has OTHER interests which are highly important to him, and he shows SOME faults that she has never seen before.
