other forms of insect life, more annoying than the housefly for the reason that they sometimes follow one to bed at night. It may be true that we are to have an early fall. Some things, much more nearly infallible than croakers, indicate that possibility. But just now, reveling in clouds after six weeks of refrigence, we would think it safe for the affirmative to call for a referendum on a proposition that it is as easy to get too much sunshine as it is to get too much of any other good thing.

Chicago is to have a soul hospital. We presume that surgery will be used. Nobody in Venezuela has been able to see Castro and his army. The first seen of them, we believe, was in London.

is an especially youthful color, and the wall of Troy trimming may be bought by the yard, which simplifies the making of this one piece model.

Good and Bad Corsets. The good corset is laced about the hips and holds its place independent of garters or straps. It has a straight front. It is only form fitting or loose about the waist and bust. It does not diminish the waist measure. It laces from below upward by means of two or more lace strings. A bad corset exercises its greatest compression about the waist and diminishes its measure from two to four inches. It is loose about the hips and held down by garters or by the tight lacing above.

PRICE OF BUTTER IS RAISED THREE CENTS

The Portland creamery men on Tuesday raised their prices on butter, and in some quarters the advance was 3 cents. This put standard local make butter up to 31 cents a pound, in box lots. Outside make was raised accordingly. At the new quotations, local makers and dealers reported the output working off in the best of shape, and there is little doubt that the market will continue its upward course during the fall. Cheese of all kinds was firm in the extreme, but no changes in prices were noted, flats holding at 15 1/2 cents and Young Americas at 16 1/2. It is believed that the home supply will be very nearly sufficient to run the grade up to the end of the year. Shipments now coming in from the Tillamook country are taken about as fast as they come.

She Had Improved. The Princess Charlotte, daughter of George IV., was a young woman of great spirit and originality. One day one of her teachers chanced to enter the room when the princess was revolving one of her attendant ladies in great wrath, and after giving her a lecture on hasty speech, he presented her with a book on the subject. A few days later he found her still more furious and his language even more violent. "I am sorry to find your royal highness in such a passion," said he. "Your royal highness has not read the book I gave you."

"I did, my lord," cried she tempermentally. "I both read it and profited by it. Otherwise I should have scratched her eyes out."

PORTLAND TAX ROLL TO BE $290,000,000

PORTLAND, Aug. 8.—This city will have an assessed valuation of property of approximately $290,000,000 when County Assessor Sigler completes his assessments for this year, according to conservative estimates. This means that the total increase in valuation of the assessment this year over that of last will approximate $15,000,000. This will yield additional taxes of approximately $330,000. County Assessor Sigler has increased the assessed valuation of practically all the real property from the center line of the blocks between Fourth and Fifth streets west through the new uptown shopping districts and from Burnside street south to Harrison.

Upper Alder street is the pivotal point from which the increase is made. On this thoroughfare the increase is 10 per cent from Fifth street west to its intersection of Washington street. On all other parallel streets from Burnside to Harrison the increases are gradually lessened to about 2 per cent. The reason assigned for levying the greatest increase on the real estate on Alder street is due to the rapid strides this thoroughfare has made as a business district.

As an example of the increase in the assessed valuation, the quarter-block occupied by the Yeon building last year it has been increased to $250,000. The quarter-block directly west across Fifth street, on which the Lipman & Wolfe department store is being erected, last year was assessed for $255,000, while this year it has been assessed for $270,000, or an increase of $15,000. The southeast corner of Sixth and Alder, occupied by Meier & Frank, last year was assessed for $230,000, while this year it has been increased to $250,000. The selling block has been increased from $255,000 to $270,000. Like increases have been made in other property in this vicinity. The quarter block at the southeast corner of Fourteenth and Alder last year was assessed for $36,000, while this year it is assessed for $42,000. The quarter block on the southeast corner of Seventeenth and Alder has been increased from $32,000 to $36,000.

The increases on upper Washington, Morrison and Yamhill are slightly less. The increase on Washington street, however, reaches as far west as Twenty-third street. A considerable advance has been made on the East Side, particularly in Central East Portland. The increases, however, are not so heavy as on the West Side. In residence districts where many improvements have been made during the past year, the assessed valuation has been raised slightly.

"I am of the opinion that the total increase on real property over the entire city will approximate about 5 per cent more than last year," said County Assessor Sigler today. "This will amount to increase in round figures of about $15,000,000." There will also be increases in the personal roll and in improvements, which have been taken into consideration in the estimate of the increases.

It is generally supposed that the stoniness of bread arises from its becoming actually drier by the gradual loss of water, but this is not the case. Stale bread contains almost exactly the same proportion of water as new bread after it has become completely cold. The change is merely in the internal arrangement of the molecules of the bread. A proof of this is that if we put a stale loaf into a cellophane covered tin, expose it for half an hour or an hour to a heat not exceeding that of boiling water and then allow it to cool, it will be restored in appearance and properties practically to the state of the new bread. ing in their best efforts. They know that the one who gets the diamond ring will stand the best chance of winning the piano and every one in the race is working her hardest to be the winner of one of the supplementary prizes that is to be awarded August 14.

Hard Work Necessary. The best of this contest is that the work you do in an effort to get the supplementary prizes does not go to waste when you get one of the diamond rings or not. The work that you do between now and September 5 will also be added to your credit for the piano and other prizes.

Don't lose an hour between now and August 14, and see that you vote early and often in this battle for ballots during the next four weeks.

Elephants, as most young people know, are very fond of bathing, and in their native jungles frequently seek the rivers and lakes to enjoy a water frolic. Down at Coney Island the pachyderms take a swim in the surf and greatly enjoy buffeting the salt billows. When bathing at the beach the huge beasts are accompanied by trainers, who sit on their necks and guide them from the water when their time is up. This is necessary, for they are show animals and must be in their places when the performance begins. If left to themselves they would probably forget all about their engagements. The elephant in the picture is Hattie, the famous performing elephant in the Central Park zoo. The photographer caught her as she was getting her daily bath from a hose. Her expression shows she is enjoying it hugely.

An Old Timer. Turtles are one of a few kinds of animals that live longer than men do. They look their age too. A turtle that had a date mark on him, though not the date of his arrival in the world, was found a few days ago in New York, not far from Poughkeepsie, where the boat races are held on the Hudson river in the early summer. The turtle, which was a land tortoise, was found by David B. Sleight, who lives on the farm where his father lived for many years. On the turtle's back, but in the hard shell, Mr. Sleight found his father's initials, A. W. S., and the date 1854, cut deeply and still plainly visible. He added his own initials and the date and turned the little creature loose to live perhaps until another generation of Sleights come along.

A Bathtub by the Sea. A few miles below Delmar, Cal., there may be seen in a rocky ledge a peculiar basin cut out of solid rock. It measures 6 ft by 4 feet and its depth is about five feet. At high tide the basin is filled; at low, it and the surrounding rock ledge are laid bare. Above the basin are gutters, which allow the escape of surplus waters. It is supposed that the bath was used by the Indians in early times and that they heated the sea water by means of heated stones. It is not improbable that the sick redskins obtained relief from skin diseases and other ills by baths in the hot salt water of this peculiar basin.

It is quite well made and shapely and would have been very convenient for such a purpose.

A Doll's Silver Set. A set of silver for the doll's dressing table can be made from tin foil, so it is a good plan to save all the tin foil that comes around candy, etc., and smooth it out nicely. You may make a mirror for the dressing room or the doll's boudoir of the tin foil with a border of gold paper. Cut out a piece of cardboard in any shape you desire and then cover it with tin foil. The gilt border should not be plain, but should be cut into ornamental corners or used to cover a raised frame of cardboard. If you are going to use the mirror for the dining room or library of the doll's house make the mirror in the same manner with a double cardboard frame around the edge and cover this frame with dark paper in the wood tones.

CONTRADICTORY. Why are good boys like dough? Because we need them. Why is it impossible for a boy who leaps to believe in the existence of young ladies? He takes every miss for a myth. Why are printers liable to bad colds? Because they always use damp sheets. Why is an empty discourse like a solid one? Because it is all sound.

Federal Law Needed to Put an End to Trusts. By JAMES J. HILL, Railroad Magnate. There would be no trusts, in the accepted meaning of the term, if we had a federal law requiring every corporation to prove that its capital stock is fully paid up before it is allowed to do business in any of our states.

There would be no trusts, in the accepted meaning of the term, if we had a federal law requiring every corporation to prove that its capital stock is fully paid up before it is allowed to do business in any of our states. That would PREVENT false inflation of values and the wide sale of stock in enterprises that are not solidly founded. There is PLENTY of money in the country and it is being offered at a low rate of interest for short time loans, but little of it seems to be going into the creation of NEW BUSINESS ENTERPRISES. On the contrary, much of our money is going to foreign
