Mars and Atwood, Aviators, Are Prominent in the News One Day

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

TWO aviators, Harry N. Atwood and C. J. ("Bud") Mars, recently played important parts in the news of one day. Atwood completed his remarkable flight from Boston to Washington and after taking luncheon with the Aero Club of Washington went to Potomac park, where he had left his aeroplane, mounted it and flew to the White House. After flying directly over that historic structure he sailed to the Washington monument, a quarter of a mile away, circled around that shaft several times, occasionally going so close that it seemed his machine would hit the monument, then sailed away, rose to a height of more than a thousand feet, passed over the monument and dropped easily and gracefully to the White House lawn. He shook hands with President Taft, received a gold medal commemorating his flight from Boston, then mounted his machine and sailed away. One of the pictures above shows him just as he had passed over the White House. Mr. Mars had an accident the same day Atwood called on the president. Mars was flying at Erie, Pa., when he lost control of his machine and dropped a hundred feet to the ground. Three of his ribs were broken, and he suffered other injuries that it was thought would be fatal, but a few days later it was said that he would recover. In one of the pictures above Mr. Mars is shown seated in his aeroplane with his wife beside him.

YOU might think that there is little to choose between varieties of vinegars, spices and and mustards. But there IS—and it will surprise you to know that more difference exists between them than amongst grades of meat and brands of flour. So, just as you pick out the best in meat and flour, you should get the very finest in vinegars and mustards. All the flavor and pleasure of eating may depend on that choice. It will make the difference between a good meal and a bad one.

Come in and let us advise you. We carry the most varied and best selected stock in town.

Some prices and suggestions for this week: Pure Cider Vinegar, bot. ....15c. Pickling Spices, mixed, ready Malt Vinegar, bot. ....10c. for use, package .....10c. Pickling Vinegar, gallon .....40c.

The Superiority Of

Electric Toast to the charred, or brittle, or soggy kind made in the tedious old-fashioned way is relatively the same as the superiority of grilled steak to fried steak.

For the merest fraction of a cent per slice the Radiant Toaster makes Perfect Toast faster than you can eat it. It is Perfect Toast because the Radiant heat forces the necessary chemical change in the bread. This insures delicious golden Toast that fairly melts in your mouth.

You can operate the Radiant Toaster on the finest damask table cloth. Its neat porcelain base and cheerful glowing coils add grace and charm to any table.
