CONTEST NOTES

(BY THE CONTEST EDITOR.)

The "Candidates' Ball" promises to be largely attended. I regret very much our inability to mail personal invitations to friends of some of the candidates who brought in their list of names too late, but this should not keep them from attending. Candidates are authorized to extend their personal invitation.

Miss Lena Story still heads the "Roll of Honor" in District No. 1. Very good, Miss Story. If you can remain there until after 9 p. m., September 2, you will have caused to be the happiest young lady in the United States.

Miss Meyers: We recollect that you once occupied the head of the list on the "Roll of Honor." You cannot win one of these beautiful grand Upright Kimball pianos unless you get back to the same place and stay there until 9 p. m., September 2. You can't you try?

Miss Kent: Why don't you exchange places with Miss Story. I remember when you were at the head of the class. Take my advice, get back there and stay there and "some rainy afternoon," after September 2 (providing you extend an invitation) it will be passed to call on you and listen to a rendition of Mendelssohn's Spring Song on one of those Kimball pianos you have your eye on.

Now Miss Cross: You started off in the lead and held your position for some time. Now you occupy fourth place on the "Roll of Honor." That isn't as it should be. I know you are going to figure with the winners September 2, but why not take the lead again and capture the first grand capital prize. You can do it.

Mrs. Zimmerman: I would not be surprised, and hope to see you exchange places on the "Roll of Honor" with some of those who are ahead of you at this time, before August 24.

Miss Smith: You have done remarkably well thus far but don't be over-confident. Miss Clouser is right on your heels and you will have to keep going or she is liable to "nose you out" before September 2.

Miss Clouser: I never did praise you very much for your excellent work, but surely it is coming to you. You have done and are doing remarkably well. Why not let Miss Smith have your place for a while, just to see how pleasant the feeling is to be "in the lead."

Miss Ream: You are a good, steady worker and have any number of friends who wish you success and no doubt will stand by you to the finish. But Miss Batdorf is crowding you closely for third place, so you had better continue to do your best. I know you will.

Miss Batdorf: I look forward to a big increase in your "vote total" before the close of the "double vote" offer, August 24. Please don't disappoint me. I have you figured out as a contestant for first place. September 2.

Mrs. Mack: I haven't heard from you since Saturday. Guess you are too busy getting more subscriptions to waste valuable time (only twelve more days remain till the close of the contest). That's right, pay no attention to me, but increase your vote.

Miss Thomas: Considering the fact that you have been considerably handicapped in making an active campaign on account of having to remain in attendance to your mother, whose unfortunate accident is regretted by all, you have done remarkably well, and deserve success for having fought an uphill fight. I assure you I hope for a speedy recovery of your mother and your success.

Miss Gardner: I know you don't need any encouragement, or advice. You are gradually coming to the front and if you continue to do as good work during the next twelve days as you have in the past you will capture the prize you are seeking.

Miss Rakel: Why don't you exchange places with some of those who are in the lead? Your chances are as good as the rest, if you get down to business. Now get in and see what you can do before the close of the "double vote" offer. It doesn't require many votes for you to take third place.

Righteous indignation. She (walking home from church—Did you notice that lovely Parisian hat Mrs. Styler was wearing? I could think of nothing else the whole time. He—No, my dear, can't say I did. To tell you the truth, I was half asleep most of the time. She—Then you ought to be ashamed to own it. A nice lot of good the service must have done you, I must say. Loubon T. L.

Power of an Air Brake. Some idea of the power of an air brake may be gained from the following facts: It takes a powerful locomotive drawing a train of ten passenger cars a distance of about five miles to reach a speed of sixty miles an hour on a straight and level track. The brake will stop the same train from a speed of 60 miles an hour in 700 feet. Roughly it may be stated that a train may be stopped by the brakes in about 3 per cent of the distance that must be covered to give it its speed.—Exchange.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Washable Chamamo Gloves Worn by Small Girls.

Receipts of satin or supple changeable taffeta are used on both afternoon and evening dresses.

Feathers for dressy afternoon hats and for evening shapes are more beautiful than ever.

Buckles are little seen, as the new corslet skirts have deprived them of their ornamental and helpful duty.

Washable chamamo gloves now come in sizes to fit the small girl.

On linens and chiffons, on embroideries and on point d'esprit nets there is a passion for worsted flowers.

In Paris waistcoats with huge revers to turn back over the outside coat are in vogue and have plain short backs of lining material, so that the waistcoat may be worn with several coats if desired.

This gown is designed to give the fashionable pointed effect. Batiste with all over embroidery, figured forward and plain satin, shantung plain and dotted, are combinations that make up well in this pattern.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for a thirty-four to forty-two inch bust measure for the blouse and from 22 to 30 inches waist measure for the skirt. Send 25 cents to this office, giving numbers 274 for the blouse and 681 for the skirt—and either of them will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. Send 20 cents and both of them will be forwarded. If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

FASHION FEATURES.

A New Sleeve is Booked For Early Arrival.

In the evening frocks the wrapped tunic dominates entirely.

Two shades of blue, one very much lighter, are used on linen tailored suits.

Blind embroidery and English eyelet are both favorites for the separate white apron.

Velvet apricots, plums, apples and peaches are much in evidence. They are placed on the fabric hats for afternoon wear.

Many skirts show a slashed effect at the side over an underskirt of contrasting color.

The fancy for stripes has extended to socks for the little boy or girl, the stripe ranging from a narrow line to a medium width band, in black, gray, pink, coral or blue.

A change in sleeves is predicted. The elbow length is still in favor, but some of the newest sleeves seen on semitransparent frocks bulge at the elbows and are continued quite wide, but brought into a band at the wrist.

A simple infant's slip is illustrated here. It may be made of fine lawn batiste or linen. If a more elaborate design is preferred, lace or embroidery may be added to suit the taste.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in one size only. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number 703, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

Cleaning the Mud Away From the Battleship Maine Is a Slow Job

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

ALL of the water has been pumped from the inside of the cofferdam inclosing the wreck of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, but the wreck has not yet been entirely exposed to view, as it is buried in mud about thirty-five feet deep. Removing this mud is a slow process, because it is searched closely for the remains of the men whose bodies were not found at the time the battleship was destroyed. Bones that have been recovered belonged to eighteen or twenty bodies, and more are being found daily. Until all the mud is removed, which will not be for several weeks, it will not be possible to answer the question as to the original explosion that destroyed the Maine. One of the pictures above shows the inclosed hull of the battleship, while the other shows that portion of the vessel most severely damaged by the explosion that sent her to the bottom.

ROADSTERS BEAT VICTORIA; 7 TO 2

VICTORIA AUG. 21.—(Special.)—Portland had no trouble beating Victoria today. The score was 7 to 2. The game was again up by the Roadsters in the third when two bases on balls and a two-bagger by Stovall, with the bases full, scored five men. Lake was relieved by Surpliss, but it was too late. Jensen pitched good ball for Portland.

The results Monday follow: Pacific Coast League—Vernon 3, Oakland 3; called end of 12th inning. Northwestern League—Seattle 6, Vancouver 1; Portland 7, Victoria 2; Spokane 9, Tacoma 0; forfeited by Tacoma.

National League—New York 3, Chicago 2; Pittsburg 10, Philadelphia 7; St. Louis 6, Brooklyn 1; Cincinnati 7, Boston 6.

American League—Detroit 5, New York 4; Washington 7, Chicago 4; no other games played.

Climbing a Coconut Tree.

Coconuts when they fall to the ground and when necessary are plucked by men who climb up. It sometimes makes one's blood run cold to see them run up the trees like monkeys. Two ways are practiced for mounting the trunk. In the case of a small tree or at an odd moment the man walks up the trunk, keeping his feet flat against it and throwing his weight back from it as much as possible, retaining his position at the same time by the tension of his arms. The other and safer plan is to pass a loop of cord around the feet, which are thus kept close together, and grasp the trunk of the tree, the arms meanwhile assisting the climber, who moves upward in a series of jumps.

Ruskin's Impulsive Generosity.

One day, walking near Radley, Ruskin's attention was caught by a group of little girls playing in the road, and he went and talked to them. One of them specially attracted his attention. He asked her why she was playing in the dust. Had she no garden at home? Did she love flowers? What was her name? She replied modestly, with wonder in her eyes. On reaching home he gave orders to his solicitor to look out for and buy a cottage with a garden in Radley and have a deed of gift made out in the little girl's name, which was done accordingly, and she, full of wonder, with her astonished parents, entered at once into possession of it.—From "Ruskin in Oxford."

Putting It Pleasantly.

"Oh, Billy, tell me quick! How did the game come out?" "We almost won."—Life.

CONTEST NEARING END; WORK HARD!

candidate may mean victory for her. Would not the knowledge that you have helped her win a valuable prize amply reward you for the outlay of a few dollars, when at the same time it brings to your home the only daily newspaper between Portland and Salem—a newspaper that contains all the news and particularly that of Clackamas county and vicinity, that which is nearest your home and therefore of real interest to you and your family.

You all are interested in the success of one candidate or the other. Have you done your part to increase her vote total? If not let the ensuing twelve days show her she has a friend in you by giving her a subscription—which means votes.

As a last thought we wish to impress upon the minds of each and every candidate—those in the lead and those at the bottom of the list—that every moment lost from now on is opportunity neglected. Make this your slogan. WIN OR BUST, and see that each morning's paper shows a decided increase in your vote total.
