The Value Of Saving Small Things.

To impress upon its employees the value of economy in small things the enterprising management of the Pere Marquette railroad has issued a pamphlet giving the cost in terms of mileage of a number of common articles. As an illustration, every time a postage stamp is wasted, that represents to the company the hauling of a certain class of freight three miles. Other simple illustrations are: Lead pencil, two miles; lamp chimney, 10 1/2 miles; broom, 35 miles; track shovel, 90 miles. While freight rates in the middle west are very low, the railroads are not accustomed to carrying a ton of any first class freight three and one-half miles for the price of a single postage stamp. But, while the figures appear incredible, they must be correct else the railroad would not promulgate them officially. The pamphlet furnishes an impressive lesson of the value of economy in even the smallest things.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

Corning, Cal., Aug. 21, 1911. Editor Enterprise:—If you will give me space in the Enterprise I will try to make good the many promises and try to write about Corning and the country. We have been here two weeks. We employed about all the real estate men in town for the first week to take us over the country. We found them a clever set of fellows, willing to give us a free ride anywhere or anyway from a donkey cart to a 40-horse power automobile.

After working them to what we thought about the limit we decided the country good enough to tie to. We bought a fruit farm one mile from the depot. Corning is an incorporated town of about 2,000 persons. The town was incorporated in September, 1906, as a city of the sixth class, and was voted a dry or no-saloon town. The city contains 1,170 acres within its corporate limits. The city is spoken of as the Maywood colony. The leading industry at Maywood is fruit growing.

The fruit produced here is of rare quality. There is no time when the fruit growers are begging for a market. The fruit always commands the best prices of any California fruit. The packers tell me the fruit grown here and by the Maywood colony is bid for before it is ready for delivery. Excepting oranges and grapes Maywood makes no shipment of green fruits to Eastern points, the fruit being sold in dried or canned form.

There are located here a large canning plant, a packing house, three large sundrying plants and evaporators and many individual drying plants. A mill for the manufacture of olive oil and a plant for pickling ripe olives is in operation here, which affords a market for the crop of olives that are grown here. The olive oil plant is kept running at night as well as day, throughout the fruit picking season. There is work for all and I am told the wages run from one to three dollars a day. It is mostly picked by the box. The picking season extends through the most of the year. There are now about 12,000 acres of the colony land set to fruit, the first planting having been done in 1894. The leading varieties are the peach, prune, pear, almond, apricot, olive, fig, grape and lemon. I see all these varieties growing and maturing to perfection. Strange as it may seem to some it is nevertheless a fact, the oranges here are in the upper Sacramento Valley ripen fully a month earlier than they do at Riverside, Los Angeles and other places in Southern California. The Smyrna fig, the genuine fig of commerce, is being largely planted here.

SUGAR MARKET HAS UPWARD TENDENCY

There is a much firmer tone in the sugar trade. A further advance of 10 points in the Eastern market caused increased strength along the Pacific Coast.

Raw sugars are now quoted at $5 in the New York market and are firmer at that figure than they were a short time ago at the lower market. While there was no advance in the Pacific Coast sugar market Wednesday the advance in the East is taken as a sure indication that higher prices will follow quickly. That has been the history of the Coast sugar trade recently.

The advance in New York is due to the much greater strength noticed recently in European centers. The best market abroad is the firmest ever known. The crop is below former expectations and with practically no surplus of refined on hand, together with an increased demand, the outlook is exceedingly good.

STANDARDS FOR BREWING HOPS.

Value Reckoned on Basis of Hop-Bitter Acids and Aroma.

The following standards have been adopted by the committee on awards for hops entered at the grand international barley and hop prize exhibition at Chicago, Oct. 12 to 22, 1911.

All hops will be valued under one standard, irrespective of geographical origin, on the basis of their hop-bitter acids and aroma, 20 per cent of hop-bitter acids and exquisite aroma receiving 80 points each, penalties being provided for excessive amount of (1) seeds, (2) leaves and stems (poor picking).

CLUSTERS OF FEMALE HOPS AT DIFFERENT STAGES OF GROWTH.

(1) moisture and dryness (poor kiln drying), (2) sulphuring, (3) damage by wind, mold and insects (4) off color and appearance.

Standard hops should range from 100 to 50 points, the relative merit or value of the specimen being expressed in the percentage of points it receives.

For every per cent of hop-bitter acids below 20 and down to 15, inclusive, one point is deducted; for every per cent below 15 and down to 10 two points are deducted; for every per cent below 10 and down to 8 three points are deducted; for 1 per cent below 8 four points are deducted.

The scale of quality as to aroma will range from exquisite with fifty points, to inferior with twenty-five points, the grades being: Exquisite, 50; very good, 40; good, 35; fair, 30; inferior, 25. Contents of leaves and stems and seeds will be penalized one point for each per cent; moisture 1 per cent for each per cent above 10, up to 14; dryness two points for each per cent below 8 and down to 6 inclusive, as indicated in schedule.

Hops will be disqualified if they contain: (1) Less than 7 per cent of soft resins or hop-bitter acids, (2) more than 14 per cent of seeds, (3) more than 12 per cent of leaves and stems, (4) more than 15 or less than 6 per cent of moisture, (5) if strongly sulphured (heavy reaction in five minutes), (6) if heavily damaged by mold or insects, (7) if strongly discolored or strongly off in appearance, (8) if abnormal in odor, disagreeable, cheesy or rank.

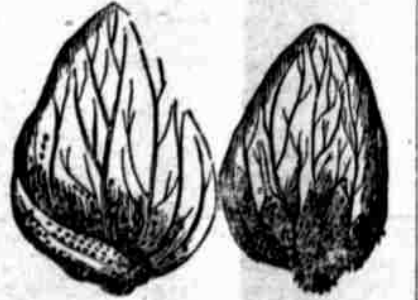

THE AWARDS FOR EXHIBITS OF BARLEY.

Cash Prizes Totalling Seven Thousand Dollars.

Awards for exhibits of barley at the second international barley and hop prize exhibit at Chicago, Oct. 12-22, will be made as follows:

The awards will consist of over 100 cash prizes, totalling about $7,000, which have been contributed by a number of associations of brewers, maltsters and individual manufacturers. The highest individual prize is $300. For the purpose of prize distribution each of the four botanically different types represented by (1) Marchia, (2) Bay Brewing, (3) White Club, (4) Chevallier will constitute a class by itself.

Prizes are also awarded according to geographical origin—by states and commercial importance of the crop in the discretion of the committee on awards.

LEAVES (BRACIS) OF THE OONE OF HOPS.

awards. Special awards will also be made in accordance with the conditions imposed by contributors.

The amount of barley offered for exhibit must be at least sixty pounds in bulk, with a shear of barley of at least twelve heads each.

The specimens must represent a fair average product of one field on which they were grown and must be taken by the grower himself from a quantity of 2,000 pounds at least.

All samples of barley must be properly certified to have been grown by the exhibitor according to the "rules and regulations" to be obtained from the committee on awards, 1808 Republic building, Chicago.

CONTEST NOTES

(BY THE CONTEST EDITOR.)

I observe Miss Story still retains the lead in District No. 1. Very good Miss Story; stay there if you can.

At last, Miss Kent, you have taken my advice and have started to gain your old position at the head of the list. You are now in second place. That's very good, but first place is better.

Miss Meyers! I see Miss Kent has usurped your position on the "Roll of Honor." Don't stand for it. Change places with her tomorrow; or better still, go to the top of the list.

I knew you could do it if you tried, Miss Cross. A few more votes will put you in third place.

Didn't hear from Mrs. Zimmerman yesterday. Expect to today.

Very good for you, Miss Smith. You have passed the 200,000 mark, but don't get reckless. Continuous application to vote-getting will cause you to be a winner, but you must keep busy as in the past.

Don't know what to say about you Miss Closser. Am going to wait until tomorrow, then perhaps I may be able to "sell 'em all" you are in the lead.

Miss Ream! Your position seems to be as firm as the rock of Gibraltar, but don't be content with third place.

Mrs. Mack! I knew you were going to forge to the front. I see you have passed one candidate already.

Miss Batorf! Mrs. Mack changed places with you yesterday. That means that your name is a notch further down the list. I expect you to reverse the situation today.

I knew my prediction concerning Miss Thomas would come true. I expect even better results when she is permitted to devote her entire time to "vote getting."

Miss Gardner has taken a vacation and gone to the mountains, but that doesn't mean she has quit the race.

I hope to hear from you today, Miss Hattie, and am not going to be satisfied if you don't climb up a notch or two in the "Roll of Honor."

That's all. I am on my way to the "Candidates' Ball."

TIMELY BAT WORK WINS FOR BEAVERS

PORTLAND, Aug. 23.—(Special)—

Timely hitting, together with the wildness of Pitcher Byram, gave the Beavers another victory over the Sacramento team today. McCredie's Braves, with the manager and Buddy Ryan absent, beat the California capital contingent by a score of 5 to 2.

The Beavers tallied three of the quintet of aces in the first inning, and with Bill Steen occupying the bill for the home club, this proved amply sufficient to decide the game, though the Beavers tallied a score each in the second and third innings, swelling the total and clinching the decision.

Walter McCredie was forced to watch the game from his uncle's box in the grand stand, for President Graham headed Empire Heiberbrand's assertion that the Beaver leader was real saucy to him Sunday, and for that reason the presiding genius of the Pacific Coast League has decided Walter is too strenuous a person to be allowed on the ball field for an indefinite period. Buddy Ryan was absent because his sore hand still bothers him, but it is possible that he will get back in the game today.

The results Wednesday follow: Pacific Coast League—Portland 5, Sacramento 2; Oakland 12, Los Angeles 4; Vernon 5, San Francisco 4.

Northwestern League—Portland 6, Victoria 2; Vancouver 3, Seattle 0; Tacoma 5, Spokane 2.

American League—No games scheduled. National League—Chicago 6, New York 2; Brooklyn 6, St. Louis 1; Cincinnati 5, Boston 3; Philadelphia 3, Pittsburgh 2.

Cat Medicine

The ancient physicians had a firm belief in the healing powers of different portions of the cat, probably from some confusion existing in their minds with regard to its nine lives. One of them gives as a valuable recipe to cure fevers two parts of water mixed with three drops of blood taken from the ear of an ass and certain parts of a cat's digestive organs.

Turkish Booksellers.

A writer who spent much of his early life in Turkey observed that Turkish books and booksellers were among the curious features of the country. "The Turkish bookseller," he said, "has a soul above trade. He rarely or never attempts to push his wares and treasures some of his more valuable books so greatly that he can hardly be induced to sell them, although they form part of his stock in trade. Many of the books displayed by the book seller are in manuscript, which the old fashioned Turks esteem more highly than print. The Koran he may not sell. He gives it away in return for a present of its value in money."

HONESTY.

Every man takes care that his neighbor shall not cheat him. But a day comes when he begins to take care that he do not cheat his neighbor. Then all goes well. He has changed his market cart into a chariot of the sun.—Emerson.
