BENNY HENDERSON TOYS WITH SENATORS

PORTLAND, Aug. 25.—(Special).—The Beavers again took the Senators in tow by a score of 4 to 1. Henderson pitched, and he pitched well. The visitors only made three hits off Benny's beaver. What a pity that young fellow has been an outlaw and has queered himself with the big leagues. If Benny had always thought as well as he pitches he would have been another $22,000 "beauty." He has everything on the ball field. Thompson also pitched well, allowing only five safeties.

The results Friday follow: Pacific Coast League—Portland 4, Sacramento 1; Oakland 1, Los Angeles 0; Vernon 8, San Francisco 5. Northwestern League—Portland 13, Victoria 3; Vancouver 14, Seattle 4; Spokane 8, Tacoma 5. American League—Washington 18-6, Detroit 2-7; Chicago 6, New York 3; Boston 3-6, St. Louis 2-2; Cleveland-Philadelphia game postponed—rain. National League—New York 3, Pittsburgh 2; Cincinnati 8, Philadelphia 4; other games postponed on account of rain.

Velocity of Raindrops. Of course we all know that it would be an utter impossibility for storm clouds to form and rain to fall were it not for the miles of atmosphere that rises above our heads. But, supposing it were possible for human beings to exist in an atmosphere that only rose to a level with their mouths and that storm clouds could form in the region outside such a low grade atmosphere, then every raindrop would prove as fatal to earthly creatures as if it were a steel bullet fired from a dynamite gun.—London Nature.

Humor and Philosophy

By BUNGAN N. SMITH

THE WANDERER.

Another comet is in sight. Astronomers who work at night have seen its long and fiery trail. Against the distant nothing trail, and very soon the naked eye will see it glisten in the sky.

Then timid ones will have a fit and say that they are certain it is coming on by through express to dash us into nothingness. To butt us with its fiery nose and bring all contracts to a close.

The foolish ones will sell their land and act as though the cash in hand would serve them better on the day the comet wiped the earth away. And they will stand around and wait that warm and awe inspiring date.

The wise will calm themselves and buy choice bargains from the ones who buy from danger by the silly route of packing up and selling out. Who do not care to meet their fate while loaded down with real estate.

And then the comet, as of yore, will nite us million miles and more and to the place from whence it came will hurry with its tail adame. And we will, puzzled and perplexed, wait to be frightened by the next.

Better Than None.

"I hear he is on the stage." "Yes; he has a minor role." "Indeed!" "He rolls up the curtain."

Slandered. "I do like to keep old acquaintances." "Do you?" "I do, indeed." "Then what Mrs. Brown said about you isn't so." "What did she say about me?" "She said you always run them down."

No Chance For Suspense. "Are you engaged to Mabel?" "No, but I have asked her to marry me, and she has promised to give me her answer tonight." "You don't seem to be much worried about it." "Why should I? She has told me what it will be."

Necessary Accompaniment. No man can rise or forward press by constant, aimless drifting. There must, if he would win success, be lots of heavy lifting.

The Frivolous One. "Young man?" "Yes, sir." "You should learn to be useful." "You wouldn't have me despise myself, would you?" "What do you mean by that?" "I hate useful things."

Mar Version. "Well, boys will be boys." "Not always," snapped Lizzie. "No?" questioned mother. "Not on your life. Sometimes they are sissies."

Queen Bee. "You are as busy as a bee, Lucy." "I am that." "What are you working for?" "A honeymoon."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Dying is merely the process of getting used to things.

It is all right to make a living provided it's your own living.

You can't always tell the real thing for sometimes it won't listen.

It is a heap easier to criticize than it is to get paid for it.

Don't lose any time sassing back. Just get busy.

The trouble with some people is they never even try to try.

One reason why so many persons visit the divorce courts is because there are so many unattached Romeo and Julietts.

We'd be willing to leave well enough alone if we could find it.

When trouble comes by the peck we don't complain that the pecks are short.

The chill of fear is lost in the heat of battle.

LIFE'S TESTING GROUND.

The middle of life is the testing ground of character and strength. There are many who hold a foremost place in the heat of youth, but sink behind when that first energy is played out, and there are many whose follies happily die and whose true strength is only known when serious existence with its weights and responsibilities comes upon them.—Richard Bonasley Sheridan.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

FISHIN'.

A delicious unguor of boy time steals away the spirit of your vision, and the lure of rippling waters decoys you from the dusty places of the town so where you may toil in leafy shade.

You straighten your shoulders to say: "I'm not fishin'." (When under the spell it is proper to put your final 'g's.)

You are quite sure you have not mistaken the sweet ailment. Diagnosis of the symptoms reoutes the apostle Peter's recipe.

Well—Donning the disreputable clothes that match your vagrancy, you dig in the back yard for worms. A bamboo pole, cork lead—no fancy outfit for you.

If you are a city man you take the car as far as it will go and slouch—literally slouch—over the countryside to the stream in the woods where you dangle your frank outcements to the little fishes.

You get scarcely a nibble. Concerning which you little rock or care. Having obeyed the primal impulse, it is the duty of the fishes to do the rest. And as you hold out your inducements from vantage rock or ancient log the pole droops more and more.

As you nod you dream. You dream of a tow headed boy who lived some where back at the beginning of things. His one suspended trousers are rolled upward to the semblance of a breechcloth, and his happy feet are in the sand. Gray, wide eyes are open, mirrored to every stirring mite of earth and water and to the long circling hawks of the sky.

The boy has a hickory pole, a twine string and a pin hook.

His hand braided hat of straw, wet and fashioned by cunning fingers into fantastic mold, is discarded on the bank. His pole droops into the water, and the boy dreams. And you wonder what the boy dreams.

Does he dream of the string of fishes or of a girl with curl encircled face and a polka dotted dress? Why, there's something about that face that is like the face of that old sweetheart of yours. And which face?

You straighten up and look about you. Nobody is looking, and it's nobody's business but yours anyway.

Decidedly you have been asleep for some time. And as you slowly plod back to the car, sans fish, already you feel the gibe of the boy over your empty handedness.

But what an afternoon! While you nodded and dreamed old Mother Nature crooned her most soothing lullaby.

Not News to Her. "I've got great news for you!" cried Jack excitedly. "What is it?" asked his Cousin Jennie. "I'm going to marry Minnie Prettyman."

"Pshaw! That's not news. She asked me a month ago if I'd be her bridesmaid."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Masonic Chapters Organized. C. J. Buchanan, of this city, grand high priest of Royal Arch Chapter of Oregon, returned Thursday evening from Athens, Or., where he constituted a chapter of Royal Arch Masons. Mr. Buchanan constituted a chapter of the Royal Arch Masons at Forest Grove, Or., July 28.

A Record in Governors.

Mrs. Richard Manning of South Carolina had the distinction of being the only woman on record who was the wife of a governor, the sister of a governor, the niece of a governor, the mother of a governor and the aunt and foster mother of a governor.

Not a Matter of Choice.

"Did they allow stopovers on the train you came through on?" "Allowed them?" They compelled them."

"How was that?" "We were kicked off at nearly every water station."

Quite Absurd.

A man was walking down the street. And he was feeling high. Now, wasn't that a foolish thing? For any man to do?

Capable.

"I always shudder at the inevitable." "I admire it." "How funny? Why?" "Because it is always able to take care of itself."

A Rap.

"I have a good head on me." "I notice it is good for one thing." "What's that?" "Butting in."
