

WACK SAYS THOMAS IS BEST CATCHER.

"Best catcher in the business." This is high praise, even if it is unenthusiastic, and the words which make the remark is some other than "Catcher McGilchrist." The reason is this: McGilchrist is in the "big league" and this year has it all over any of them in either league. I think he has never been given proper credit, anyway," exclaims Crandall. "Because he is such a big fellow. People like to be with the little men and often slip by the big fellows and never land them on what's due them. That's the way with him. I wouldn't give him now for any catcher in the business, and there are a number of first class catchers in both leagues. His work in the world's series was the best ever witnessed in those contests, and this year he is even better."

CRANDALL HANDY MAN.

New York Pitcher Can Play Any Position on Team.
Old Crandall, who this pitcher, was this shortstop, some time outfielder and always a consistent hitter, is one of the most useful baseball players ever developed in the major leagues. The New York Giants are fortunate in having a man who can fill any position on the diamond with credit to himself and his team.

It is said that Crandall's chief ambition is to become a catcher, and he

His manager, Harry Turner, exclaims, "It will be no trouble the entire season of Harry and the custom and delivery of McGilchrist like a second Jeffrey King. Crandall is too good a pitcher, however, to be situated off to other positions where there is danger of injury to his pitching hand or arm. In this light McGilchrist would do well to strengthen his arm with an other efficient utility player. One is needed and needed badly."

WON TOO MANY GAMES.

Contract Called For Compensation in Number of Games Won.

A pitcher who has lost his last job because he won too many games has just been signed by Joe Castillon of the Minneapolis club and has joined the Millers. His name is Howard McClintock, and he recently worked for the Rockford club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league. He is a twenty young man and throws with his right arm, pitching mostly on a spiral which he thinks will soon lead him to big league company.

McClintock wasn't satisfied with the salary offered him by the management of the Rockford club and proposed a contract which was accepted by the management. The contract read that he was to be paid for games he won and nothing for games he lost; also he was to be allowed to pitch when ever he felt so disposed.

The day after he made this contract he felt like pitching and the manager sent him in. He won his game so easily that the next day he thought he would work again, and sure enough he won.

When he was two more games in three more days the management sent out a hurry call for him to go to the office, where a new contract was made out for him. He refused to sign and quit the team when not allowed to be paid for winning games.

Joe Castillon, who used to manage the Senators, believes that McClintock will greatly help his team.
