CORRESPONDENCE

MILWAUKIE.

A. J. Harmon, of Dayton, Wash., has purchased the Milwaukee bakery. Mr. Harmon is a practical baker of several years' experience and will use every effort to keep the Milwaukee bakery up to the highest standard set by his predecessor, and second to none in the state for first-class goods. He will make a specialty of all kinds of pastries and quick lunch goods. We bespeak for Mr. Harmon a liberal patronage.

Mrs. Anna Buhler, widow of the late Rev. Buhler, of Chicago, Ill., has been visiting friends in our city the past two weeks.

Ralph Klasel, of Hood River, who was en route to Redland, Cal., spent a day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Emmel.

At 11:30 a. m., Sunday, the pastor of the Evangelical church will continue the discussion of the subject, "Impressions and how to test them."

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bozell and son, of Tacoma, Wash., visited the first part of the week with Mrs. Roberts. Mrs. Hanson was quite sick this week, but is much better now.

Professor Goetz, the new principal of our school, arrived Friday.

The Grange fair committee will meet Saturday afternoon in Grange Hall and prepare the program for their fair. The Milwaukee band will play Thursday evening and the Oak Grove Girls' Band Friday evening. Hoesley's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. Let every one attend this fair and make it a success.

The Young Peoples' Dramatic Club will give a dance Wednesday evening, September 13, at Crystal Lake Park, for the benefit of the Catholic building fund.

Mrs. A. H. Dowling spent Sunday with her husband in Eugene. Mr. Dowling is with a surveying crew there.

Mrs. B. F. Dreese left Thursday for a visit of several months with her parents in Colorado.

A Tiring Task.
Instead of reprimanding the office boy for soldiering over his work the manager unctuously requested him to count the ticking of the clock for five minutes. For five minutes the boy counted. At the last second he attacked his work with unusual earnestness, and for the rest of the day his interest never flagged.

"That is a scheme they tried on me when I was a youngster and inclined to be lazy," the manager said. "To this day I do not know the secret of its success, but I know that to deliberately count the ticking of a clock will cure the worst spell of indolence."
—New York Sun.

A Witty Scot.
At an auction sale in a Scotland village the auctioneer was trying to sell a number of domestic utensils, including a porridge pot. As usual, he was making a great fuss. Finishing, his keen eye caught a well known worthy, the headie, standing at the back of the crowd, and he shouted out:
"Maister McTavish, make an offer for this pot. Why, it would make a splendid kirk bell!"
"Aye," replied the headie, "if your tongue was in it!"

Smoking in Berlin Streets.
Before May 23, 1832, no smoking was allowed in the streets or parks of Berlin, and offenders were punished by a fine for the first infraction of the rule and by imprisonment afterward. The king of Prussia in those days detested smoking, and the police and the military men were under strict orders to arrest any one who dared to smoke in public. It is recorded that when Napoleon occupied Berlin a hundred years ago the Berliners eagerly took advantage of the opportunity to smoke and took a special delight in puffing smoke in the faces of the police, who had then no power to arrest them. In 1832, however, the restriction was withdrawn.

How Well He Looked.
"Good morning, Mrs. Simpkins!" said a suburban lady who is very shortsighted. "Your husband must be very fond of gardening. I see him the first thing every morning down at the bottom of the garden. And how well he looks, to be sure!"
Mrs. Simpkins slammed the door in her neighbor's face. The latter went to tell her daughter.
"And you said, mother, that—the thing in the onion bed was her husband?"
"I did."
"Ah, well, that explains the matter! What you took for Mr. Simpkins is a scarecrow!"—London Tit-Bits.

Mean Man.
"Does your husband turn his salary over to you?"
"Yes," she sadly replied.
"Then why are you so downhearted?"
"Oh, it doesn't do any good. He often makes a few dollars extra, which he spends for his own pleasure without letting me know about it."

"MISS NOBODY FROM STARLAND."
Spectacular Musical Comedy This Week at the Heilig Theatre.
Olive Vall's title role in Mort H. Singer's big musical comedy production, "Miss Nobody from Starland," will be that of Miss Nobody, of the chorus, who makes people believe that she really is somebody when she is off the stage and away from the footlights. She is a shy little enchantress who has all sorts of schemes on foot for her own aggrandizement. She has beauty and a manner that makes all men fall in love with her to such an extent that she uses them as pawns in her little plots. Everybody wants to marry her, and, on an Atlantic voyage, she annexes several "papas" and "brothers" who do not discover the entanglements resulting therefrom until the last curtain falls on a show door scene at the Heilig Theatre where "Miss Nobody from Starland" will be seen for six nights, starting Friday, September 8, with special price matinees Saturday and Wednesday.

Max Bloom, the Funny Comedian who is featured with Boyle Woolfolk's well known musical comedy, "The Sunny Side of Broadway," which opens the season at Baker Theatre, Sunday, matinee, September 10. The popular song show will remain a week with matinee Wednesday (the gain day) and Saturday.

Seidl's Silent Tongue.
One of the most striking anecdotes told in Hermann Klein's "Thirty Years of Musical Life in London" relates to Anton Seidl's first interview with Wagner in the library at Welfried. Seidl found the room dark, and, imagining nobody was there, pulled out his letter of introduction and began silently rehearsing its speech he had prepared. Seidl, from out of the gloomy corner Wagner appeared, and Seidl was so nervous that he could not bring out a sentence of his speech. This proved to be his salvation, for Wagner, observing "If you can work as well as you can hold your tongue you will be engaged him on the spot."
