BOUT PROMOTERS ARE EAGER FOR BATTLE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The Wolgast-McFarland fight, which was to have taken place here tonight and which was declared off on account of opposition from the state authorities, is being eagerly sought by fight promoters at New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

After the sidetracking of tonight's bout, Wolgast agreed to meet his old enemy, Knockout Brown, of New York, if a guarantee of $15,000 could be secured.

YOUNG PITCHERS HAVE SET PACE

Alexander and Gregg Make Veteran Filingers Look to Laurels.

LATTER KEPT NAPS IN RACE.

Cleveland's Young Southpaw One of Season's Greatest Finds—Phillies' Right Hander the Big Noise in National League.

This season has been replete with surprises in the pitching end of baseball. The peculiarity thus far is the rise from obscurity of a pair of young twirlers barely out of their teens. They have set a pace in the two big leagues.

Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Nationals, known as Alexander the Great, who barely escaped going to the minors in the spring, has the distinction of being the first pitcher in the older organization to win twenty games this season and has worked in and won more contests than any other twirler.

No other man who ever broke into the league, with the exception of Russell Ford of New York, has approached this record. Ford won twenty-six games last season, but Alexander bids fair to surpass that figure by many games before the season is over.

In the American league Van Gregg, a youngster secured by Cleveland from the Pacific coast, who had a fair reputation when he came east, has proved invincible and has the remarkable record of fourteen victories—out of the first sixteen games in which he has worked.

Unlike Alexander, however, great things were expected of him when he came to Cleveland, but in their fondness for the Forest City club owners never thought that the coast player would deliver the goods as he has done against virtually all of the clubs which faced him. All batters look alike to him.

Alexander of the Phillies came to the team unheralded, an outcast of two major league clubs. Manager Charlie Doolan had about determined to sell the youngster, whom he secured from the Syracuse club of the New York State league for $450 when the latter asked for a chance to pitch against the Athletics in the annual spring series between the National and American league teams of Philadelphia.

Doolan, who was loath to let any of his men go without a fair chance to show, gave him the opportunity, and after Alexander had held the world's champions to two hits Doolan decided that he would keep the state leucur for at least another month.

Doolan's decision to hold the pitcher has kept the team in the race for the National league flag, for Alexander has won more than one-third of the contests for his team and is such a strong worker that he has asked to work every other day. He is after the record made by Jack Coombs of the Athletics last year, when the latter won thirty-one games and lost nine, and hopes to even better this mark.

It is a noteworthy fact that this same pitcher, who is the sensation of the National league, was turned down by Connie Mack, a manager whose mistakes can be counted on the fingers of one hand. He would come in handy now, with the Athletics battling to win the American league pennant again.

Philadelphia is not the only National league team that can boast of a new star. The New York fans have waxed enthusiastic over Rube Marquard, who has at last delivered the goods after three years' trial. The man who for two years had to stand the jeers and witticisms of the fans of the whole circuit has at last shown his form.

Manager McGraw's judgment in paying $11,000 for him has been vindicated. With Rube going along in his present form New York fans are looking for a pennant and a possible world's championship.

While New York fans are enthusing over Marquard, they have not lost sight of the fact that Nap Rucker is pitching the greatest ball of his career for Brooklyn and that he holds the record of twelve consecutive wins to his credit. The work of this pitcher is the more creditable in that he is with a second division club and therefore has to pitch remarkable ball to win his games.

Lefty Riehl, the genial pitcher of the Cubs, is holding his team in the race by his great work, and Earl Moore, a Philadelphia man, is at his best this season and has been quite a surprise to the fans of the old league.

In Pittsburgh "Babe" Adams is again working in great form this season, doing the bulk of the work for the Pirates. Adams is another youngster who sprang into fame in a year by his great work in the world's series against the Detroit team in 1909, when he won the world's championship for the Pittsburgh team.

While his work this season has not been as spectacular as that of some of the other pitchers in the league, it is mainly due to his good pitching that the Pirates are fighting for a berth in the first division.

The fans of St. Louis have discovered this season that the Cardinals are harboring three of the best pitchers who ever played in the league. Saltee, Steele and Harmon are the men, and it is their work which helped St. Louis to make a fine showing.

Making the Shoes Safe.
One may travel the Bowery for many years, but never will see a pair of shoes exhibited in any of the outside showcases. It is the belief of the shoe merchants of this section that a pair of shoes hanging in a showcase is too great a temptation for those who happen to need them. The mate of each shoe exhibited is kept in the

At a summer resort in the Catekill mountains there was given not long ago a masquerade party for the little folks. The photograph shows two of the participants who took the characters of bride and groom. The bride was very much admired by all who saw them and complimented on her sweet and demure demeanor. And here is where the joke comes in, for there was much laughter when the truth was made known. It turned out that the beautiful bride who had been so much admired was a little boy dressed in bridal array, while the proud groom proved to be a girl in boy's clothing. They were the big hit of the masquerade.

How to Make a Compass.

A magnetic needle is very easily made where a magnet may be had. This, as you know, is used to ascertain the presence of iron.

A bit of fine steel wire, or a long thin stocking needle which has had a quarter of an inch cut off at the point, is to be heated in the center until it is capable of being slightly bent; then, while hot, a piece of sealing wax is attached to the center, and the point which was cut off, being made hot at the thick end, is to be fixed in the wax, so that the sharp end may serve as a pivot, descending about one-eighth of an inch below the center, taking care that both ends of the needle fall enough below the pivot to keep it from over-turning.

It is now ready to be magnetized. This may be done by sliding an end of the magnet half a dozen times or so from the center to one end of the needle, and treating the other end in the same manner. A small brass thimble is best for the support, the point of the pivot being placed in one of the indentations near the center of the top, when, if well balanced, it will turn until it points due north and south. If one side tends to preponderate, it should be nipped until balance be restored.

Oldest Newspaper.

The Tsing Pao, or Peking News, is the oldest newspaper in the world, having been issued regularly for nearly 1,400 years. Its circulation is about 10,000. The extreme care necessary in publishing this paper is shown by the fact that until recent years the punishment for an error in printing was instant death. Another Chinese newspaper, the Kin Pan, is a thousand years old.—Grit.

One Busy Potato.

Did you know that if there were but one good potato in the world and that was placed under the care of a first class gardener it would probably produce 10,000,000 other tubers in ten years' time?

Marjorie's Feast.

"Oh, won't you have a piece of nice mince pie?"
"And here's a bit of lobster salad, dear. These oysters, fried, you'll surely like to try."
"And do you take your coffee strong and clear?"

Much more I heard behind the maple tree About ice cream and caramels and oaks. I thought, "What careless mothers there must be When children these forbidden dainties take!"

I passed the open gate and entered there, The Land of Make-Believe—enchanted land! And Marjorie, with hospitable air, Gave me a generous dish of clean, white sand.
