CONDEMNED MEN IN DEATH FIGHT

PRISONER TURNED INTO CORRIDOR GRAPPLE UNTIL ONE GOES DOWN.

BREAST PIERCED BY SHARPENED ROD

Man-Tiger of California Blays Ancient Enemy in Folsom Penitentiary—Jailer Takes Assassin's Weapon.

FOLSOM, Cal., Sept. 19.—Jacob Oppenheimer, man-tiger of California penitentiaries, stabbed to death his ancient enemy, Francisco Quijada, in the corridor of the cells for the condemned in Folsom Prison this afternoon.

Both men were murderers and under sentence of death. Quijada had frequently said he would die happy if Oppenheimer preceded him to the gallows.

Frank P. Estudillo, assistant turnkey, accompanied by a "trustee," according to the prison custom, opened the cell doors of the four men in the condemned corridor, for ventilation this afternoon.

As his door was opened, Quijada sprang to the center of the corridor and shouted a challenge to Oppenheimer.

Oppenheimer replied to the defiance of the Indian by a sudden rush for his cell. Before Quijada could raise a hand in defense, the point of a sharpened bit of iron, six inches in length, which Oppenheimer had concealed, had pierced his breast just below the heart.

Estudillo separated the men and placed Quijada in his cell. Turning to Oppenheimer, the turnkey said: "Give me that, Jake."

"All right, sir," said Oppenheimer, and calmly surrendered the deadly weapon, which in some unknown manner he had managed to fashion from a short iron bar.

Estudillo then sent for the prison physician. Before the doctor arrived Quijada was dead. The turnkey said: "Give me that, Jake."

Quijada, who had a strain of Yaqui blood, was first sentenced to life in Folsom for murder in Los Angeles. He figured in the attempted break at Folsom, December 19, 1904, being seriously wounded by Captain Murphy. One bullet entered his arm, amputation being necessary.

Both Quijada and Oppenheimer figured in a recent attempted jail break and both were sentenced to hang, under a new law which makes it a capital offense for a life term to attempt a jail break.

TWO ROUTES PLANNED FOR GREAT HIGHWAY

PORTLAND, Sept. 19.—(Special.)—Two roads to Oregon City, as parts of the Pacific Highway, will probably be built, one on the West Side through Oswego and the other on the East Side through Milwaukie and Jennings Lodge along the river. J. F. Kercheim, who has been active in the movement, is confident that this plan will be adopted. The route on the East Side connects with the Milwaukie road and comes into the city over that street for some distance. Milwaukie street will be paved to the city limits next year. It is also expected that East Seventeenth street will be opened, and that Grand avenue in Portland will be extended from its present end at Woodward to a connection with Milwaukie street near Holgate. These streets will be the Portland end of the East Side road to Oregon City.

DEWITT, Ia., Sept. 19.—John A. Rosenbaum, of Chicago, was killed here late this afternoon when his aeroplane fell from a height of 50 feet. He had been in the air only twenty minutes when he lost control of the machine.

FREE ADVERTISING TO GO UNDER BAN

OREGON EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION EXPECTED TO TAKE UP FIGHT.

MEETING WILL START TOMORROW

Scribes Coming To Oregon City Saturday To Visit Mills And Be Guests Of Commercial Club.

The press agents of Oregon, and others who seek to obtain advertising through cleverness and not financial reward will be dealt a hard blow if plans now in a formative state mature at the annual meeting of the Oregon Editorial Association in Portland, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, which is expected. That the press of the smaller cities and towns is more imposed on in this respect than the dailies in the large cities is the consensus of opinion in newspaper circles, and it is believed the time is ripe to call a halt. In the larger cities the copy of press agents is given no consideration unless accompanied by a paid advertisement, and, in many newspaper offices not then, if it is not considered legitimate news.

That the same policy should be pursued by the so-called country newspaper editors is the belief of a majority of the publishers in this state, and decisive action is expected. They realize that they are the victims of clever men, who boldly make contracts with their clients at fabulous salaries to obtain advertising—which by many is considered the best kind of advertising—at no cost, and it is remarkable how successful some of them are. It is probable also that an effort will be made to have the publishers unite on a policy regarding the extent of free advertising that is given persons in business in their home towns. Many of the publishers realize that they give away annually hundreds and thousands of dollars worth of advertising to their friends, which should be paid for and there is no more reason for it being dispensed gratis than there would be for the pharmacist to give away his medicine.

Other matters of vital importance to the publishers will be considered at the meeting and an earnest effort will be made to have them act more in unison than ever before. An interesting program has been prepared and there will not be one dull moment during the meeting of the several weeks ago, will be adhered to except in the case of the addresses to be delivered by W. S. U'Ren and Dr. Chapman. They will speak tomorrow afternoon, Mr. U'Ren in defense of the Single Tax, and Dr. Chapman against it. Mr. U'Ren has announced that he will answer all questions submitted to him.

The scribes will come to Oregon City Saturday morning to visit the paper mills and electric plant, and will be the guests of the Commercial Club at luncheon. The Portland Press Club will take care of the visitors during the evening, entertaining them with a "High Jinks" program. W. A. Shewman, secretary of the association, Tuesday sent copies of the following invitation to all members of the association:

"Meet us at Portland Commercial Club, Thursday morning, September 21. We'll all be there. Biggest one on record, and something doing."

TUFTS AND COMRADE MEET AT ROUND-UP

A notable event of the Round-up at Pendleton was the meeting of J. A. Tufts, treasurer of Clackamas County, and John Gerdain, of Pendleton, who served in the same company through the Civil War. Mr. Gerdain, although eighty-seven years of age, is hale and hearty, and declares that he will live to be 100 or more. Mr. Tufts is much younger. While registering at the Grand Army Encampment at Hood River seven years ago Mr. Tufts was told that another man had registered as having served in the same company as himself—Company E, Fourteenth, Wisconsin. Mr. Tufts turned over the page and written in a bold hand was the name "John Gerdain." The men had not seen each other since they were discharged from service at Mobilis, in 1865, after serving under General Sherman on his March to the sea. The meeting was affecting and the comrades have met several times since. Mr. Gerdain has served two terms in the Oregon Legislature, and is a prominent resident of Pendleton.

HOPPIKERS-RETURN WITH PLENTY MONEY

About ninety hoppers, who were employed in the yard of John Walling at Lincoln, returned to Oregon City Tuesday evening. Jack Frost, who was check boss, said that the yield of Mr. Walling's yard was larger than that of last year. The health of the campers was good throughout the season, and all did well financially. The weather, however, was not favorable for the work, and the pickers had plenty spare time in their tents. Mr. Frost said that Mr. Walling's crop amounted to 3,420 boxes. All the pickers employed by him, with the exception of seven or eight, live in this city.

ATHLETIC STAR SEEKS DIVORCE

F. C. SMITHSON, CHAMPION HURDLER, MAKES SENSATIONAL CHARGES

WIFE STRUCK HIM, SAYS PLAINTIFF

Jennie McVicker, in Suit, Declares Husband Hurled Tool Chest At Her—Custody of Child Asked.

Charging that his wife has an un-governable temper, and in June, 1909, struck him, Forrest C. Smithson, world's champion hurdler and famous athlete, Tuesday morning filed suit for divorce in the Clackamas County Circuit Court, through James E. Craib, of Portland. Smithson alleges that soon after their marriage his wife called him vile names, and one day when he protested mildly she struck him. He pleaded milderly in August, 1910, she heaped upon him a tirade of abuse and again struck him, whereupon he told her he would have to leave her if she repeated the offense.

Smithson avers that his wife promised not to lose her temper in future and conduct herself in a proper manner. However, it is alleged, that on December 15, 1909, the defendant accused him of paying attentions to immoral women, which he declares was false and hurt his feelings. He says in August and December last year she accused him of immoral conduct and struck him when he denied the allegation. The plaintiff's wife deserted him March 11, 1911, and her conduct has caused him much mental anguish and pain. They were married in Seattle May 17, 1909. The defendant is said to be living in British Columbia.

Jennie McVicker has sued James E. McVicker for divorce, alleging that he treated her cruelly repeatedly and in April, 1910, threatened to kill her. She says he struck her with a tool box. The plaintiff further alleges that her husband, July 9, 1910, forced her and her daughter, Stella, ten years of age, to leave home. They were married in San Francisco, August 18, 1899. Mr. McVicker asks the custody of the child.

TAXPAYERS URGED TO SETTLE PROMPTLY

Sheriff Maas announced Tuesday that a record had been made for the payment of taxes due for the last half of the year. It is believed that there will be fewer delinquents than ever before. All persons who pay taxes prior to March 15 are given a rebate of three per cent. Those who do not take advantage of the rebate may pay half of their taxes prior to the first Monday in April and the other half prior to the first Monday in October and escape paying a penalty. It, therefore, behooves all property owners to settle with the sheriff as soon as possible.

OLDEST PRINTER IN STATE DIES

EBENEZER WARNER, NINETY-THREE YEARS OF AGE, SUCCEDES AT MEDFORD.

FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Well-Known Citizen Survives Wife Only Short Time—Family Came To Oregon City Many Years Ago.

Ebenezer Warner, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of this city, died Monday afternoon at Medford after a ten days' illness. The remains will be brought to this city tomorrow morning for burial beside those of his wife, the late Louise Warner, who died in this city March 4 last.

Ebenezer Warner was born at Gallop, O., April 12, 1818, and November 5, 1874, he and Miss Louise Barker, of Berlin, Wis., were married. After residing in that state for several years they moved to Nebraska, and from there to Oregon, first settling at Mist, Columbia county. After a residence of about two years there they decided to come to Oregon City. Mr. Warner left this city on August 15 for Medford, where he has been visiting his brother, L. B. Warner, it being his desire to remain until after the fruit season. He was taken ill about ten days ago. His condition was not thought to be alarming, but he was taken to the hospital in that city, and his daughter, Mrs. George Ely, of this city, advised of his condition. She was preparing to leave for the bedside of her father when a message arrived stating that Mr. Warner had died and that the remains would be shipped to this city.

Mr. Warner was one of the oldest if not the oldest compositor in Oregon. He was highly educated, and although he reached the age of ninety-three years, he retained his mental faculties. He was not only a compositor but a writer as well, and many of his articles appeared in the newspapers of the state. It was Mr. Warner's custom when making a visit to the business section of the city to visit the printing office, where he had been employed years before, and those who were employed with him held the old gentleman in the highest esteem.

Mr. Warner is survived by two sons, Henry and Fred, of Michigan, and an adopted daughter, Mrs. George Ely, of this city. He also leaves one brother, L. B. Warner, of Medford, and several sisters in the East.

The funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Holman undertaking parlors, Rev. J. R. Landborough, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. The interment will be in the Mountain View Cemetery.

OREGON CITY HER THEME.

Mrs. George T. Carley To Give Three Lectures Here.

The lectures to be given by Mrs. George T. Carley next Sunday and Monday evenings have attracted much attention in Oregon City. Mrs. Carley is a fluent speaker and knows her subjects thoroughly. Monday evening, in addition to lecturing on "How to Reduce the Cost of Living," Mrs. Carley will speak on the following two subjects, "Portland, the Center of World Power," and "Oregon City, the Power City." Both extra subjects will be handled in a masterful manner as Mrs. Carley knows Portland and its possibilities and has been making a special study of Oregon City and its economic possibilities.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY MORNING

Owing to a defect in the plumbing of the new high school, it was decided Tuesday evening by President Harding of the Board of School Directors and Superintendent of Schools Toose not to open the high school until Monday. It had been planned to open the school today. The plumbing will be given attention at once, and everything will be in readiness for the opening Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The attendance at the grade schools was largely augmented Tuesday, and the classification and other preliminary work was about completed. Superintendent Toose expects to obtain a complete list of the pupils today, and all other necessary information regarding the schools.

ALL ARE INVITED TO BOULEVARD MEETING

All persons interested in the proposed Capital Highway between Portland and Salem are invited to attend the meeting of the East Side Capital Association at the Commercial Club this evening. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock. J. F. Kercheim, president of the association, called the meeting for the purpose of devising ways and means of raising the money necessary for building the section of the boulevard in Clackamas county. Governor West has intimated that the convict labor for building the road would be sent to this county first, if the enthusiasm shown by the Clackamas county citizens does not abate. For this reason President Kercheim and Secretary Latourette urge all who can possibly attend the meeting this evening to do so.

FOOTBALL TEAM PRACTICES.

Eleven Will Play First Game Sunday After Next.

The Oregon City Football team practiced for the third time this season Tuesday night in the Commercial Club gymnasium. The team will practice again next Sunday and the following Sunday will play the first game of the season. Two former stars have been signed, and the team promises to be superior to the one of last year. The following have been signed: W. Montgomery, "Auk" Smith, C. Berry, P. Long, C. Freeman, R. Sells, E. Young, C. Carothers and F. Freeman. Martin Root is captain and Harry White, manager.

SPRINT FOR TRAIN KILLS AGED MAN

W. E. HAND, WEALTHY FARMER, DIES WHILE ON WAY TO SEE PHYSICIAN.

BODY IS FOUND AT O. W. P. STATION

Victim Late When He Left Home And Coroner Wilson Thinks Exertion Caused Heart To Give Out.

W. E. Hand, a wealthy farmer of the Escadada section, is dead today as a result of his running to catch a train that he might keep an appointment with a physician in Portland. He had long suffered from heart trouble and the exertion was too much for him. He reached the Deep Creek Junction station on the O. W. P. just after the train he desired to board had gone, and there his body was found by a construction crew. Mr. Hand was sixty-five years of age.

Mrs. Hand told Coroner Wilson that her husband was late when he started for the station and said he would have to hurry. The coroner thinks that the man went at a rapid gait for one of his years, and the ailment for which he was seeking medical aid caused his death. The tracks made by him in the road indicated that he ran, and it is believed that an extra effort made by him to reach the station when he saw the train, caused his death. Dr. H. V. Adix, who was called by the coroner to make an examination, said death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Hand expected to catch the train which left the Deep Creek Junction station at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. His wife told Coroner Wilson that it was almost that time when he left home, and he had about half a mile to go. The next train for Portland left the station at 10:30 o'clock, and had Mr. Hand waited for this he would have been too late for his appointment in Portland. The funeral probably will be held at Gresham today. Mr. Hand is survived by only his wife.

PAPKIES GO FREE ON THREAT CHARGE

Justice of the Peace Samson Tuesday dismissed the case against Frank Cynic and Carl Herman and Henry Papkie, who Charles Hinze charged threatened to kill him at Mount Pleasant, August 31. All the defendants and several witnesses testified that the charge was untrue, while the testimony of Mr. Hinze was only substantiated by that of his wife. Gordon E. Hayes, who represented the defendants, called attention to the fact that Miss Anna Papkie, daughter of Carl Papkie, had filed suit for $50,000 for alleged defamation of character against Mr. Hinze in Portland. One of the defendants will be a witness in that case, and Judge Hayes said if he were held over to the Grand Jury it would prejudice the jury against him in the damage suit. Justice Samson said the evidence was not sufficient to hold the defendants.
