LAST CAR LEAVES FOR OREGON CITY AT MIDNIGHT

SCENE FROM THE MUSICAL COMEDY, "THE SWEETEST GIRL IN PARIS" AT HEILIG.

Harry Askin will present the brilliant comedy success, "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," at the Heilig Theatre, Seventh and Taylor streets, for four nights, beginning Sunday, October 8, with a special price matinee, Wednesday.

"The Sweetest Girl in Paris," Harry Askin's premier musical comedy, in repeating on tour the success which it enjoyed for six months in Chicago. In every city in which it has been seen, and it has played many of the metropolitans of the Middle West, the critical command has been flattering in the extreme. This production, with the original cast, will be seen at the Heilig Theatre four nights, beginning Sunday night, October 8.
Take, for instance, the opinion of the Milwaukee News: "It isn't often that a company goes on tour without change. Shrewd managers have a habit of cutting down expenses by cheapening the production through the cast, but in this instance the manager may safely plead not guilty. The funmaker who delighted Chicagoers are still doing stunts under the spotlights, a fact which should be thoroughly appreciated by playgoers. A full measure of amusement is served to them by a well balanced, energetic company, which seems to lack none of the essentials of success.
"In these days of stage pictures of dazzling beauty, lavish expenditures for unique costumes, and broad search for the usual, even the big musical shows which are slow and dragging, have much to recommend them. But when the spectacular features are truly entertaining, the book funny and the music good, there is reason to rejoice, especially when the entire company is what it should be. All this applies directly to 'The Sweetest Girl in Paris.'
The Minneapolis News has said: "The Sweetest Girl in Paris" is described as the highwater mark of a great many highwater marks in Chicago, and one would not care to undertake the delicate task of detaching one from the other. Certainly 'The Sweetest Girl in Paris' is so lavish and colorfully complex, and so brimful of humor, and so manifold in its electric effects, that the spectator becomes more or less bewildered, his critical faculties become numb, and he ceases to think or care. So it fulfills the reason of his being, and is of the best of its kind."

THE old fashioned clothes game was a good deal different. Today it's only a question of color and fabric when you come here for clothes, because

THE FLOWER OF THE RANCH.

Supernatural Musical Comedy at The Baker Next Week.
Most musical comedies flit gaily into view, have a butterfly life for a season or two and then vanish into darkness. A play with a longer life is "The Flower of the Ranch," for it was produced in New York two years ago, then played a whole summer at the Garrick, Chicago, and is now making a complete tour of the states and Canada. "The Flower of the Ranch" has the merit of possessing a well developed story, with characters drawn consistently and incidents free from exaggeration. The songs have a fascinating charm and all in all it is a play that really makes theatre-going worth while. At the Baker all this week, opening Sunday, matinee. Bargain matinee Wednesday.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR BAPTIST CHURCH
The annual meeting of the First Baptist church was held Friday night. The roll call showed ninety-four responses. The present membership is 474, of which 301 live in Clackamas county and the rest are scattered over Oregon and other states. The reports of the treasurers showed that the year has been fairly prosperous from a financial standpoint. There is a small indebtedness, part of which was incurred by the improvement of the church. Miss Amy Purcell was appointed church missionary. She will devote her time to visiting and will assist in the young people's work, conducting mission study and Bible classes. John W. Loder was re-elected treasurer of current expenses with Leo Burdon assistant. Miss Edith Smith was re-elected treasurer of benevolence. S. P. Davis was elected deacon for a full term of three years. W. W. Marrs was re-elected deacon. Lincoln Roll was elected deacon to fill out an unexpired term. Harvey E. Cross was elected superintendent of the Sunday school. The reports from the various auxiliary societies of the church show much activity and great progress. The pastor announced tentative plans for the winter's evangelism and spoke of the unity of action which has always characterized the church. An enthusiastic and systematic effort is being made by the officers of the church, to rally all the members to special work this fall and winter. This is rally day and the program will include the Sunday school hour and the regular hour for preaching. Miss Veda Williams is doing excellent work as superintendent of the intermediate department of the school and also serves as Sunday school visitor.

LOGAN.
Get busy now. Logan is on the map and no mistake. Fix the location in your mind for future reference. If "the proof of the pudding lies in the eating" the "proof" was at Canby in the Logan booth. Grains and grasses of every variety, also fruit and vegetables. The members of Harding Grange have cause to feel proud of the excellent showing made by this locality. The Clear Creek Creamery also have cause to feel proud of the high score received, 96 per cent, which speaks highly for the management.
A heavy frost Wednesday night will prove a disappointment to many of the good housewives here who were waiting for late corn and tomatoes for canning.
Automobiles with chain tires are a menace to our improved roads. A few automobiles can soon undo all the work in a short time as the chains throw the gravel out of the track and scatter it in all directions.
Even the Stork delivers his parcels by auto now. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson were visited by his Majesty October 1 and a little daughter left to gladden their home.
School begins Monday in Lower Logan.
Potato digging and prune drying keep some of the farmers hustling early and late.
Mr. F. S. Hutchins came home from Canby with blue ribbons on his Gurnsey hard.
News was received here of the death of Peter Smith at Coeur D'Alene last week which was the result of an operation.
