CANDIDATES AND STATUSES.

One of the beneficial results of the Ohio direct primary law is that it has entirely destroyed all that was left of the chances of one John R. McLean becoming a United States Senator. No one knows this better than McLean himself. Through the columns of his paper, the Cincinnati Enquirer, he is indulging in walls of distress over the great misfortune in store for the nation from direct primaries and other forms of direct legislation.

know the history of Ohio politics beginning with the year 1883 can not help but wonder when corruption in politics began to be a source of worry to McLean.

Of course, the Enquirer is opposing a progressive constitution. Of course it is fighting shoulder to shoulder with other interests against the election of delegates to the constitutional convention pledged to the Initiative and Referendum. It is possible that some future legislature may be open to the kind of argument necessary to secure repeal of the direct primary law and of course it would not be hard to convince such a legislature that the owner of a certain five-cent Cincinnati morning daily is the proper man for United States Senator. But that possibility will cease to exist as soon as the Initiative and Referendum becomes part of Ohio's fundamental law.

Plutocratic papers were some weeks ago exploring the case of an Oregon judge named Coke. It seems that in a murder case Judge Coke charged the jury in a way that resulted in acquittal of the prisoner. Some persons did not approve of the verdict and started a petition for Judge Coke's recall. Of course, the recallers failed to get the required 25 per cent of the voters to sign. Few voters will sign a recall petition without understanding that there is sufficient cause for it, and in this case the sufficient cause seems to have been lacking.

Now that the actual result of the test has been to prove how groundless are the objections that have been urged against recall of the judiciary it is interesting to note that none of the papers which went into its over Judge Coke's prospective "martyrdom" has yet informed its readers of the outcome of that case. What is more, it will probably be a long time before the New York Times, Philadelphia Ledger, or other papers of that kind, will do so in a manner that will enable readers to learn the whole truth. That shows that extreme caution is necessary before accepting at face value any account published in these papers of the practical working of progressive measures.

Wall Street wants the world to divide sympathy with it, but nothing else.

LIVE WIRELETS

(BY EDGAR BATES.)

This happened at the last County Fair. The attendant at one of the local merchants' booths was busy handing out advertising cards to the children and samples of medicine to their parents. Along came a woman who was surrounded by eight children of various ages. The dear lady looked as if she was having the time of her life and bustled up to the booth with a smile and the question, "What have you got for nothin'?" The attendant handed her a small package and said a few words about the value of the medicine and she went away very happy. In about an hour a very different looking woman came back to the booth. She gave the man in charge a beautiful curtain lecture on the topic of "pokin' fun at women," and said that it was a mighty good thing "for that sleek lookin' young feller, that her man was to home." A rather amusing discussion took place, but the woman could not be pacified and finally went on her way muttering that it was "real smart of that fresh city chap to give me a bottle of liver medicines."

Between seven and ten in the evening the benches in the Seventh street square don't seem to be occupied like they were before the public fountain with the lighted dome was placed in the center of the park. Is it a case of being too cold or a little too much light to suit the bench warmers who used to flock there in twos and twos and two's and more two's?

'Tis about time that "maw" digs down in the old trunk and pulls up some of that winter underwear that don't stop at the knees.

A sign in a local window says "hunting season will open the 15th." Don't think that this means pheasants. Nothing for two years more.

A young Oregon City girl who just entered the University of Oregon wrote to her parents that she was coming home unless they sent her the Morning Enterprise every morning. She said that she was so home sick that she could hardly stand it, but if she received the Enterprise every day along so she could keep in touch with all the happenings in her home town she might be able to stick it out.

Clackamas county takes front rank among those interested in the Capital Highway. With plenty of suitable material at hand, an ideal location for a rock-crusher promised at New Era we are ready to begin operation. Governor West says he has a number of convicts selected for transportation to the scene of activity, and everything seems to be ready. Let the good work commence.

A Portland paper takes a half column to tell how people are packed in cars like sardines on the return trip on Sunday on the Oregon Electric. We have the very same thing to contend with every evening coming out of Portland between 5 and 7 o'clock. Each car carries more than twice the normal load, many persons being compelled to stand all the way to Jennings or Meldrum.

What kind of a citizen do you think you are? Are you too busy to notice the forward movement that is going on, on all sides of you? You know that we have a new high school, but have you visited or examined this modern and splendidly-equipped institution of learning? What do you know of the public library? Have you seen the beautiful new fountain in the City Park? Have you noticed the attractiveness of the McLoughlin Home and the surrounding pretty lawn, with the fountain, flower gardens, and shrubs? Have you taken a walk about the residential district of the city since all of those street improvements have been made? Have you noticed the number of new houses which have been built lately, the majority of them having beautiful lawns and cement walks? Take an hour off today, walk up the hill, look about and see what a pretty town we really have.

We can hardly believe the report that comes from our sister state on the north. A man who was convicted of a certain charge was sentenced to serve a number of years in the penitentiary. Upon hearing the sentence this man, who was out on bail, voluntarily went to the depot and purchased his ticket and unaccompanied by any officer or guard, has started on his journey to begin his sentence.

This Alaskan matter will certainly have some bearing on the next presidential election. This question is one of the really important matters that will soon have to be settled in some way that will be satisfactory to all parties concerned. Secretary Fisher, on his return from his trip of investigation, did not seem to have very much to say but intimated that nothing could be done immediately. Taft says that Alaska will be opened soon. This "soon" will not suit a large number of people, who will insist upon action at once. The outcome of the matter will be most interesting.

Motor That Whirls Aeroplane Propeller Occupies Little Space

THE aeroplane, like the automobile, owes its existence to the wonderful improvement made in recent years in the gasoline engine. Without these powerful and comparatively light motors the modern automobile and the heavier than air flying machine would be impossible. The picture above shows a detail of the propeller used by Grahame-White, the English aviator now in the United States, and the manner in which it is driven by the Gnome motor. This particular engine, small though it is, develops seventy horsepower. The striking feature of the Gnome motor is that the cylinders are arranged in a circle instead of in one or two rows. It is much lighter in proportion to the power developed than the other type of engine.

POTATO BUSINESS HAS FINE PROSPECTS

There is increasing business in the potato trade so far as shipping is concerned, but local transactions are limited. Buying for California account is progressing around $1 per cental U. S. country shipping points for best quality. This means practically 95c in the country. There is not a great amount of potatoes offering at this time because a large amount of the early crop has not fully ripened. The quality is excellent while the crop is fair. Sizes are good and taken altogether the early crop is all that consumers can wish for, except quantity. So far as late potatoes are concerned, the prospects are unusually good. Tests made by digging at various points in the Willamette Valley show that the crop has already reached maturity and the only thing needed now is a good frost which will ripen the tubers. The sizes of the late potato crop are said to be the best produced in this state during the past few years.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows: HIDES—(Buying)—Green hides, 5c to 6c; salted, 5c to 6c; dry hides, 12c to 14c; sheep pelts, 25c to 75c each. Hay, Grain, Feed. HAY—(Buying)—Timothy, $15 to $16; clover, $8 to $9; oat hay, best.

ATHLETICS ARE AIDED BY DOYLE'S INJURY. NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Gloom pervades the rank and file of Giant supporters here today as a result of an injury to Captain LARRY Doyle, who is out of the game with a sprained ankle. The fans fear that Doyle will not recover in time to participate in the world's championship series with the Philadelphia Athletics. New York would be materially weakened without their crack second baseman. The Enterprise has a position open for you. Call at once.

Aeroplane That Can Defy Rough Weather Is the Chief Need. By GLENN CURTISS, Veteran Aviator.

IT IS OBVIOUSLY APPARENT that the aeroplane which will be of the GREATEST value to MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS is the one that can be operated under any and ALL WEATHER CONDITIONS. This is more important than the matter of carrying explosives, inasmuch as the explosives would be of no value for this purpose if there were no aeroplanes to carry them in rough weather.

Under ACTUAL CONDITIONS of WARFARE there could be no waiting until the weather conditions should become favorable. The military aeroplanes MUST BE READY for IMMEDIATE ACTION in any emergency. Such a machine would not only meet the most IMPORTANT REQUIREMENT of MILITARY AVIATION, but it would also be the most useful machine for COMMERCIAL PURPOSES.

If one army equipped with SPEED BIPLANES should encounter an adversary having SLOW FLYING, weight carrying aeroplanes and ROUGH WEATHER conditions should prevail the resultant advantage to the army equipped with speed machines would be EVIDENT.

I would summarize the points to be taken into consideration in determining the best type of military aeroplane as follows, naming each point in the order of its importance according to my views:

- DEGREE OF SAFETY WHEN OPERATED IN ROUGH WEATHER. SPEED IN ALTITUDE CLIMBING. SCOPE OF VISION OF OPERATOR AND PASSENGER. FACILITY FOR ALIGHTING ON EITHER LAND OR WATER AND RISING FROM EITHER LAND OR WATER. FACTORS OF SAFETY IN DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION. WEIGHT CARRYING.

REACHING OUT FOR BUSINESS

Every effort to attract trade helps, even if it only draws a child's wish for candy. Electric light for windows and signs should be given a chance to be useful. Every merchant can now get double electric light at no increase in cost for electric current by using MAZDA lamps. Made in all sizes. We have them and will be glad to tell you about them.
