SAILOR NOT SLAYER OF HILL FAMILY

BOYS ADMIT CONCOCTING STORY IN HOPE OF OBTAINING REWARD.

MASS SKEPTICAL FROM BEGINNING

Hobo Lads When Subjected To Searching Examination Become Confused, and Finally Reveal Conspiracy.

Sheriff Mass, who returned from Portland late Saturday night, said that the case against Richard Leopold Holmberg, the Swedish sailor, the suspect in the Hill tragedy had fallen flat.

District Attorney Stipp, of Clackamas county, who accompanied the boys on the trip to Ardenwald and listened to an extended cross-examination of Howard, said no complaint would be issued against Holmberg, as he agrees with the officers that the story of the boys is a "frame-up."

Although pretending to have lived in Portland nearly all the time for the greater part of four years, Howard was unable to give a single address of places where he has stayed or where he has worked.

Widely Breaking Curves of Philadelphia Twirler Fatal To McGraw's Men—Score Is 2 To 1.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—In the presence of what probably was the greatest throng of baseball enthusiasts ever gathered together, the National League pennant winners, the New York team, defeated the American League title holders, the Philadelphia aggregation, 2 to 1, in the first game of the series for the world's baseball championship of 1911 at the Polo Grounds.

The National commission announced that 38,281 persons had paid admission to witness the contest, and that the gross receipts were $71,259. From an artistic point of view the game was ordinary and there were scarcely any difficult chances or opportunities for sensational plays such as frequently bring a crowd to its feet.
