McNAMARA JUDGE ACCUSES DEFENSE

was begun, the defense brought into court today one of its investigators to confront a salesman, R. H. Fitzgerald, a fledgling attorney, took the stand after George W. Johnson, a retired superintendent of an iron and brass foundry, had said he had not told anyone it was his belief that the Times was blown up by union men, and had not talked to anyone about the case.

Fitzgerald testified that he visited Johnson to obtain some statistical information and later talked to him about the Times explosion. He could not remember what was said, he testified, without referring to his report. Attorney Darrow announced that Fitzgerald probably would testify further tomorrow.

Johnson is the man challenged against whom implied bias on the ground that he is opposed to conviction in cases involving the death penalty, was refused by the court specifically on the ground that the defense had no right to prefer it.

Challenges against A. C. Winter and Walter N. Frampton, on the same ground, also were denied, but these met the disapproval of the court as being intended to circumvent a previous ruling that the men were not disqualified because of their expressed opinions that James B. McNamara was guilty of murder.

Both men had contradicted themselves somewhat under examination by opposing counsel, the court pointed out. The court held also that they derived their opinions from common notoriety public journals and magazines all of which are excepted by law from disqualifying a salesman.

To this Attorney Darrow excepted, declaring that Winter's opinion concerning strikes and strikers was based on personal knowledge. Winter having testified that he, as an employer, had replaced a striker one time and was pelted with bad eggs and other missiles.

For the Children

How Margaret Carnegie Helped the Poor Children.

© 1911, by American Press Association.

A charming little girl who has not been spoiled by riches is little Miss Margaret Carnegie, daughter of the steel magnate.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie lives in the most fashionable street in New York, and between his house and that of his neighbor, Mr. I. T. Burden, there is a vacant lot. Through the kindness of Miss Carnegie this lot has been given over to the Parks and Playgrounds association, and all summer long poor children from the east side looked up at the vine covered windows of the Fifth avenue houses as they romped and played and enjoyed the swings and seesaws that had been provided for them. Mr. Carnegie stipulated that the lot should be so well guarded that the children could not annoy the residents of the fashionable neighborhood.

Halloween Lore.

Throw a ball of yarn out of your window and rewind it from within, repeating the paternoster backward as you do so, all the while watching the ball. Presently, if you have good luck, you will have a vision of your future husband's face.

Take two long stemmed red roses and intertwine the stems, repeating these lines:

Twine, twine and intertwine, Let my love be wholly mine. If his heart be kind and true Deeper grow his roses hue.

Look in your glass while combing your hair, at the same time eating an apple and holding a candle in one hand. You must also be alone. If you have good luck you will see your future mate's face peeping over your shoulder in the mirror.

They say that children who are born on Halloween have and retain through their childhood the power to converse with witches, devils and mischief making elves.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Lace Evening Dresses to Be Very Smart This Season.

Lace evening dresses are going to be very popular in the winter, as they have been all summer, and there is a noticeable number of black and white and of black and champagne laces used.

A smart hat trimming consists of a "rib" of black velvet run along a manufactured plume of unusual style. The plume is not of ostrich at all, but thin white china silk, box plaited fully along the center rib and fringed at both sides so that it fluffs out and hangs like a full feather.

A high dinner dress or blouse, if sufficiently decorative, will be considered quite chic for informal occasions. There is an amusing contrast between the evening and day blouses. While many of the former models are high necked, the latter are cut quite low.

CHILD'S FRENCH DRESS.

with a glimpse of plain net that from a distance looks like a full evening waist.

Fur and military braid used together will trim dressy cloth coat and skirt suits.

The long waisted or French dress is one of the prettiest for very little children. The frock illustrated can be made with skirt of embroidery if desired or of the plain material. The same model is a mighty good one for all kinds of wash materials.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

College Fashion in Coats—Side Frills Seen Everywhere.

Blazer flannel in the various college colors is sold at a very reasonable price now. It is just the thing for the girl going off to college this fall, when she will want a light and bright coat for wear on cool days when playing tennis or when indulging in any outdoor sport.

The side frill appears on every sort of waist now, from the tailored one of striped stuff to the sheer chiffon of lingerie affair. Sometimes it is of white just edged with the color of the blouse fabric.

A freak of the early fall is to have fur coats trimmed with deep rich fringe.

A wide band is put on a handsome blouse in rather an unusual manner. It starts on the right shoulder, goes around the back of the neck and runs down over the left front simulating a revers.

Braid around the foot of the skirt and fringe on the jacket trim a handsome coat suit in black velvet. The only touches of color are insets of purple satin in the collar and large bone buttons with purple centers and black rims.

Every mother knows the convenience of a little sack like this one. It can be made from flannel or from washable silk lined with albatross or it can be made from cashmere or pique. The sack in the illustration has its edges scalloped, and a little dot is worked in the center of each scallop.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in one size only. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 718, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

In the Fashion.

The wearied searcher for apartments in New York had ended his hunt. When he announced the result to a friend he delivered himself of this epigram:

"There are just two kinds of apartments in New York, those you can't afford to live in and those you wouldn't live in anyhow."

"What did you do?" asked the friend. "Oh," said the searcher's wife, "we followed New York fashion and took one we couldn't afford to live in."—New York Sun.

If we charged more for Wunderhose we would only improve our profit—it couldn't improve the quality nor the wear. To show the good faith of this statement we sell you Wunderhose with the specific understanding that if a single pair punch through sole, heel or toe within four months after purchase, you are entitled to new hose free without quibble or question. It must be a source of unending satisfaction to every mother to know that darning can be completely eliminated from the household cares. Stockings of the children, the husband, the daughters and herself can be depended upon each week to be as free from holes as on the date of purchase.

REV. HAYWORTH SCORES DIVORCES

man can put asunder. This then, as in the case of Felix, is the real reason why more men are not Christians, namely, that their lives are absorbed in sinful lusts which war against the soul.

Felix Not Sincere. Felix, however, trembled when brought face to face with the truth, and gave an alleged reason that he wanted more time to consider the question. The fact that he sent a letter from the Apostle, procuring that in the expressed desire for more time to consider, he was not sincere. Few men are really sincere when they ask for time to consider whether they should yield to the ten commandments or continue to violate them with impunity. If sincere in their request for time, they will invariably be brought back to a more favorable rehearing of their claim upon the moral conduct. The desire for delay in settling the issue, is simply a subterfuge—a postponement of the issue in order that the stings of the guilty conscience may be softened. Men seek peace by the wrong methods. They deaden the conscience by persisting in the wrong and in shutting their ears to the truth. Such a peace is false. It is the peace of the pilot who sleeps while the waves are drifting toward the breakers; it is the peace of the skater who can not hear the thing ice cracking, nor see the deep water bubbling through; it is the peace of the drunkard in his besotted bed while the beams are burning and the rafters are splitting in the flames; it is the peace of the village which like Johnstown heeds not the call of alarm. The true peace is that which is obtained from repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. He who bends his trembling knees in humble prayer and supplication to a God of mercy, will like the publican justified and rightfully related to God his Father and man his brother. This is the peace of a genuine healthy soul and becomes the foundation of hope not only for the present but for eternity. Such a peace, would bring happiness to homes now blighted with jealousy and envy. Love would be enthroned and the joy of living would be fully realized.

GROWERS OF POTATOES AWAIT HIGHER PRICE

Reports from the potato-growing districts say that the producers show little disposition to recede from the bullish position taken a week or two ago regarding the sale of their crop. At shipping points they are now offered at 90 cents for a hundred, but at these figures they are not letting go at all freely. This is perhaps just as well, for the demand in the South is yet limited. The onion-growers have for some time been busy with the gathering and curing of their crop, and for that reason have given the market little atten-
