"Where did you get that hat?"

"At the hat store," replied the funny man.

"I am surprised. I should think such an original person would buy his hats at the shoe store or the tin shop."

same time he will probably attempt to revive the public dock project.

The Live Wires Tuesday unanimously adopted a resolution memoralizing the County Court to make a special levy of one-quarter mill, for state and county fair purposes. The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, At the recent State Fair held at Salem, Or., Clackamas county was successful in securing the second prize in county competition and it is reported to us by those in charge of such county exhibit that if a proper effort were made Clackamas county could secure the first prize at such exhibit and,

"WHEREAS, The Clackamas County Fair Association has recently held its fifth annual session and has closed one of the most successful fairs ever held in Clackamas county and,

"WHEREAS, We believe that great good can be accomplished among our own people by such agricultural exhabits and that it is a fit, proper and successful method of advertising Clackamas county.

"WHEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Live Wires in session at noon luncheon this 30th day of October, 1911, that we favor and recommend that the County Court at its January session in 1912 shall levy upon the taxable property of Clackamas county a one-quarter mill to be expended under the directoion of the County Court for state and county fair purposes."

HUMANE SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

ber of the society an injured horse was shot by the sheriff."

An effort will be made by the members of this organization to see that the dumb animals will be looked after the coming winter and see that they are protected from the cold.

Several complains were reported at the meeting of persons neglecting to feed pigs. This matter will at once be taken up and the owners notified. There also was a complaint of an owner of a lame horse that is being worked daily.

There have been more complaints of cruel treatment of horses than of any other animals, and the members of the Humane Society are determined to have the owners punished unless they treat the animals with more consideration.

After the routine business was transacted the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year.

President, Miss Anita McCarver; vice-president, G. A. Harding; treasurer, E. G. Caufield; secretary, Mrs. E. G. Caufield; board of directors, to serve three years, Mrs. Adam Wilkinson, Miss Anita McCarver and Miss Nan Cochran. There are nine directors, the others being, John R. Humphrys, Adam Wilkinson, E. G. Caufield, Mrs. E. G. Caufield, G. A. Harding and Mrs. G. A. Harding.

Miss McCarver, the president, has held that office for the past thirteen years and was re-elected for the fourteenth term. She has taken an active interest in her work and like the other members, is looking out for the interest and welfare of the dumb animals.

E. G. Caufield, Mrs. E. G. Caufield and G. A. Harding, also officers, have done faithful service, and the other members thinking their offices could not be held by any taking more interest than the incumbents, they were unanimously elected.

The Clackamas county society will endeavor to enroll more members during the coming year. Much good is being accomplished, although the membership is not large.

CHURCH HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL BIG SUCCESS

The Hallowe'en social at the Congregational church Tuesday evening was largely attended, about seventy-five appearing in costume. The first prize for girls was awarded to Lorraine Lee, of Canby, and Violette Evans, of Portland, who represented twin fairy butterflies, received the first prize for the handsomest costume. Carlotte Pace, representing the "Little Coon" received first prize for the most comically-dressed girl. Clare Miller won first prize among the boys. He was "Skiddoo 23." Joseph Cook won first prize for the most comical boy's costume. Mrs. H. J. Bigger, who was the fortune-teller, did a thriving business. There was a fireplace, and pumpkin pies and cider. Scores of boys and girls were dressed as fairies and Mother Goose characters.

HORSES RUN WHEN LOAD FALLS ON THEM

While brick were being unloaded from one of the wagons of the Oregon Commission Company at its Main street warehouse Tuesday afternoon the team frightened and ran away. The wagon crashed into a buggy in front of Frank Busch's big house-furnishing store, but fortunately no one was in the vehicle. A shaft and several wheels were broken. Manager Robbins, of the Oregon Commission Company, said the wagon was unloaded from the rear which caused the brick in front to tilt the bed, throwing the load on the hind feet of the horses. Billy Gadke and S. W. Hair, who were in charge of the wagon, stopped the horses.

Miss Mears Wins Honors For Battleship.

MISS WINIFRED MEARS.

Miss Winifred Mears, a California girl, well known in San Francisco and Washington society, is the originator of the idea to have the battleship Oregon, known the world over as the "bulldog" of the navy, lead the combined fleet of the nations through the Panama canal on its completion in 1915.

Congressman Foss, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, has publicly and officially approved her plan. Miss Mears has sent petitions all over the United States in behalf of the Oregon, and these are being signed by leading officials and professional and business men of the country and are being forwarded to Washington.

Some time ago the secretary of the navy stated that if the people desired this honor for the Oregon he would have no objection to it. The Oregon was placed in commission recently after having been out of commission five years. It is understood that the placing of the great ship of war in commission was due to the efforts of Congressman Kahn of California.

In her petition Miss Mears states:

"Other sea fighters may be of more ponderous proportions; others may loom with more impressive outline on human vision; others may have a longer roll call in their complement of men and an armament of weightier and more numerous guns. But of all the ships that ever sailed the sea, of all the fighting machines that ever cleared for action, not one in all history has a record as sailer or fighter that equals that of the good ship Oregon.

"Nothing would so emphasize the completion of the Panama canal as the U. S. S. Oregon leading the navies of the world on this occasion, as she would symbolize at once the militancy of the United States in naval creation and her skill in canal building."

Men With Memories.

Seneca the Wise could repeat 2,000 words in the uninterrupted succession in which they were read to him. The greatest Roman orator before Cicero, Hortensius, could recite all the prices given at a public auction. Themistocles, who considered it a greater art to forget than to remember, learned the Persian language inside of a year.

The Alexandrian Library.

Most celebrated of ancient libraries was that at Alexandria. It contained 700,000 volumes.

FIRMER TONE SHOWN IN OATS' MARKET

There is a firmer tone in the oats market and the price is showing a further advance of 50c a ton for spot delivery. Sales are reported as high as $30.50 a ton for No. 1 white.

Barley market is firm with no change in values. A few small lots of feed and brewing are reported sold at Idaho points at higher figures.

Movement of hay to market is heavier and the wants of the trade are quite well supplied. Choice stock of all varieties is holding steady at previous quotations.

Wheat market is weaker and generally 1c a bushel lower in the local territory. Flour market is quiet for all grades.

QUARTET PLEASES KNIGHTS AND LADIES

The committee in charge of the entertainment given at the Woodmen hall Monday evening by the Knights and Ladies of Security, deserves much credit for the success of the affair. Woodmen hall never looked prettier and more attractive than it did on this occasion. The Hallowe'en decorations included jack o'lanterns, yellow crepe paper, black cats and autumn leaves. In one corner was a tent of Oriental design and presided over by Mrs. Pauline Schwartz, who acted in the capacity of a fortune teller. All the fortunes were satisfactory and the "gypsy's" patrons were only too glad to pay her price. Many returned to the tent to have a second reading while others returned for the third time. Another booth, made of a very pretty design of autumn leaves, was presided over by Mrs. G. J. Howell, Mrs. Anna Johnson and Miss Lindquist. Fruit and punch were served.

Among the attractive features of the evening was the fancy drill by twelve guards of the order, who were attired in sheets and pillow cases. Each one carried either a jack o'lantern or an imitation of a black cat. The drill brought forth great applause. The singing by the Canemah quartet, composed of A. Long, Harry Confer, Edward Confer, Jake Smith, Frank Alldredge as manager, and Mr. Holsclaw as accompanist, was liberally applauded. All of the numbers on the program were delightful.

After the program the evening was devoted to dancing, the music being furnished by Oscar Woodfin. There were about sixty visitors of the Knights and Ladies of Security Lodge of Portland, who came here in a special car.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was as follows:

Entertainment, Mrs. Henry Henningsen, Mrs. Bertha Rau, Miss Lilie Trembath; refreshments, Mrs. M. P. Chapman, Mrs. G. J. Howell, Mrs. J. W. Davenport; decoration, Mrs. M. P. Chapman, Mrs. G. J. Howell, Mrs. Mary Cannon, Mrs. Thomas Trembath, Mrs. David Catto, Mrs. Z. T. Wood, Miss Nellie Lindquist, Mrs. Annie Johnson, Mrs. Henry Henningsen, Mrs. George Woodward, Miss Lilie Trembath, Mrs. J. W. Davenport, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Lulu McGeehe, Miss Bertha Rau, Mrs. Pauline Schwartz, Miss Myrtle Gross.

FOR HALLOWEEN.

Pumpkins and Witches of Crape Paper.

SPOOKY ROOM DECORATIONS.

Women who are arranging Halloween affairs will find many things in the crape paper line that are adapted to their needs.

Witches riding upon brooms come in all sizes in plain black or white to use against contrasting backgrounds, with bats, bugs, beetles, owls and cats and tiny black goblins of all sizes. Then there are Jack Horner pies in great variety, one of pumpkin blossoms tied with narrow black ribbons, with little black goblins hidden in the blossoms; another a silver moon, with black cats and witches perched on its surface.

A decoration to hang over the table is a child's hoop of small size covered with pumpkin vines, with little pumpkins forming a sort of fringe, cats and owls perched on the rim and witches floating around the center.

Favors take the form of hats, bon nets, wands, fans, flowers, vegetables, shoes, caps and candlesticks, while pumpkin pies in individual size and very true to life hold a half dozen favors.

Napkins show patterns of corn, pumpkins, cats, witches and bats and all sorts of flowers.

Papers for decorating are very attractive. It is quite a popular idea to cover the walls of the dining room with paper that carries out the idea of the party in coloring and decoration. For instance, for a Halloween party cover the walls with gray paper, with a wide border of black with white witches, cats and moons, or cover them with yellow paper, with a border of black stewn with yellow pumpkins.

Hats For the Small Girl.

Millinery for the small girl this season is very like that of her mother. Indeed, many of the shapes are decidedly old for childish faces, but the smart little hat pictured is an exception to this rule.

It is just the thing for the four-year-old girl. The sharply pointed crown is covered smoothly with black velvet, and placed flatly against it is a long looped bow of black satin ribbon. The brim of shirred velvet is partially covered with a fluffy band of black and white marabou.

The Hoopskirt Is Here.

Hoops are actually seen in the costumes this fall after years of prediction, and that at a time when straight silhouettes are at their slenderest. It is not the old hoopskirt that is back—far from it—for the new skirts hang in as close around the feet as ever, though they may be a trifle wider. It is a hoop—a thin, pliable wire usually—around the bottom of a tunic that keeps the gauze of the overdress slightly out from the foundation slip under it, or it is a featherbone at the bottom of the abbreviated sleeve that hangs above a longer lace or gauze one. These, of course, are mere fancies of the hour, which might, to be sure, develop into something more as the season advances if they happen to strike the fancy of style creators. But just now the wire and the featherbone in these connections are ultra and extreme, and no little dressmaker around the corner is going as yet to have any dealings with them.

Architecture.

Architecture is the art of making four brick walls and sundry partitions look like something else than four brick walls and sundry partitions. As the logicians would say, all houses are houses, but all houses are not created equal. In this climate every man must live in more or less of a house, but the object of architecture is to make one forget that a house is a house, and, in that way, to make one forget that one is a human being forced, as other human beings, to conform to the ordinary necessaries of life.—Judge.

"Human Hearts" To Be Played At Opera House Next Sunday

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Successful in its tenth season can be said of few plays, but it can be said truthfully of "Human Hearts." A drama which provides healthful recreation for the public and which seems to instruct while appearing in the form of amusement, is a boon to any community. So many questionable forms of amusement are thrust upon the public, the young and old alike find much in this beautiful living story to think over and enjoy long afterward. Rich in incident, in its variety of characters, in its stage settings it is one of the few attractions of great merit on the road. The spectator is carried into the delightful atmosphere of life in the hills of Arkansas. The trouble which falls upon the simple folk of the Logan farm, reminds one of the line—"The Trail of the Serpeant." Wait. The author has struck many true notes in this play and the well chosen cast blend their harmonies with fine effect.

It is with pleasure that the manager announces "Human Hearts" at Shively opera house November 5.

The advance sale opening at the usual time in advance at Jones' drug store. Regular prices will prevail.

MRS. EVANS HOSTESS AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

One of the most enjoyable Hallowe'en parties given in this city was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Evans on Center street Monday evening, when their daughter Lucile entertained about thirty of her girl friends. Games appropriate for the occasion were enjoyed, and prizes were won by Aleen Phillips, Lenora Beatie, Alice Holman, Alice Dawson. The decorations were very attractive. The electroliers were entwined with asparagus ferns and yellow shades were used. The reception hall, parlor, living room and dining room were in yellow and green. Jack o'lanterns were to be seen everywhere. The table decorations were very pretty. From the electroliers hung festoons of yellow crepe paper caught in place at the corner of the table with rosettes of the same. In the center was suspended a brass hanging basket filled with maiden hair ferns. In the center of the table was a huge golden jack o'lantern. Covers were laid for twenty.

Mrs. H. Hendry, Mrs. T. P. Randall and Mrs. A. L. Beatie assisted Mrs. Evans in entertaining the young people. They were attired in sheet and pillow cases. They met the young people at the door. All the guests were masked and many attractive costumes were in evidence. Dancing was among the features of the evening.

The guests were Margaret Beatie, Lenora Beatie, Alice Holman, Marie Walker, Helen Lovett, Bernice Johnson, Marie Andresen, Helen Andresen, Norma Wills, Violet Beaulian, Alice Dawson, Ellen Grace, June Scott, Dorothy Hedges, Aleen Phillips, Dorothy Stafford, Virginia Shaw, Velma Randall, Lucile Evans, Teddy Hendry and Irwin Evans.

MAIN STREET HOUSES SOLD.

The dwellings at Nos. 1005 and 1007 Main street were sold Tuesday by Mrs. Griessen to V. Harris, the grocer. It is understood that the consideration was $6,000. The houses are among the most desirable in Oregon City.
