LIGHTHOUSE HEROINE.

Ida Lewis, dead in the old lighthouse at Lime Rock, that guards the harbor of Newport, N. Y., does not need to be called the "Grace Darling of America." She needs no glory by reflection. Her fame will endure equally with that of Grace Darling. In the fifties her father, who was keeper of the lighthouse, was paralyzed and his 16-year-old daughter took up his duties. In 1858 she began a series of daring rescues that resulted in saving many lives. A sailboat capsized and four young men were left helpless in a heavy sea. Ida Lewis sailed out in her skiff and took them safely ashore. On a bitter day in 1866 she rowed out through a storm and saved a man drifting helpless in an open boat. During a terrible gale in 1867 she saw two men with a boat load of sheep about to sink in the harbor. After having saved the men she returned and saved the sheep. Neither wind nor wave held terror for this brave woman. This heroine was married in 1870 to William H. Wilson, but she has always been known as Ida Lewis, and as such she will continue to be known. She lived her seventy-two years of life in the lighthouse which had known her father and which was the cradle of her fame.

WE LEAD IN DIVORCES.

As a people we enjoy the shameful distinction of leading the Christian world in the number of divorces. Figures compiled by William B. Bailey assistant professor of political economy in Yale University, show that the average number of divorces in this country for the past five years was greater than in all the rest of the Christian world. On Professor Bailey's list the European nations furnish less than half as many divorces as our nation, and yet had in 1900 a population of more than two hundred million. There is no European country with a divorce rate half as high as that, and in some European countries divorce is almost unknown. In Ireland, for example, only one divorce was granted in the five years from 1899 to 1903.

Even the Democratic party has insurgents in its ranks. With Hearst back in the fold storm signals will have to be hoisted all along the line.

It looks now as if the struggle between the Chow-Chow and the Chop Sueys would soon be over. Yuan Shi Kai is said to be the Celestial Prince of Peace.

Perhaps it would be a good scheme for some of Uncle Sam's agents to investigate the Pacific Coast Lumber Trust.

The Italian army is evidently not enjoying itself in Turkey. The Turks and Arabs have seriously interfered with several excursions planned by the Italians for pleasure trips into the interior of Turkey.

President Taft says in the Philippines they call them El Partido Intependista Explosivita, and he wonders they have any of them in this country.

Of 1,800,000 immigrants into Canada during the past decade 300,000 of these can't be accounted for by Canadian Statisticians. When Uncle Sam's attention was called to the matter he simply smiled and said "guilty."

Only fourteen months until the completion of the Panama Canal and articles of incorporation of the Oregon City and New York Steamship Co not even filed yet.

Who killed reciprocity? "I," said Champ Clark, "with my little bark. I killed reciprocity."

Colonel Bryan says the Republican party has stolen sixteen of his choice political issues. But as yet it has not appreciated his sixteen to one idea.

Colonel says he never knew a William to do anything bad. And yet there are a lot of bad bills in the country.

Thomas A. Edison on returning from Germany, says the Germans are being outclassed in modern architecture. He says the English are the highest type, both mentally and physically in Europe, and he does not believe in the much talked of world-wide industrial dominance of Germany. The American's will soon show Germany what push is, as American drummers are about to invade the land of the Kaiser.

Senator Cummins, of Iowa, thinks he can form a trust law that will put all the trusts out of business. Col. Roosevelt says there are good trusts and bad trusts, but the Iowa Senator proposes to make the innocent suffer with the guilty and make all dissolve.

Personal Opinion

—by MAX MILLIGAN.

We hear much just now of the "commission" or "business" form of government for Oregon City. Little difference does it make what we term it if the new charter board only succeeds in providing us a real "business" form in fact, if not in name. Oregon City has long needed business injected into its municipal veins, and we are hoping for the best from these seven intelligent men who have been chosen to rescue the city. Give us a plan which will provide for one man, if possible, to have control of our civic business; make him directly responsible for all his acts, and do not give him a bunch of advisers on whom he can shift the blame. We must have such a system that when mismanagement is shown we can point an accusing finger at one solitary individual and say "you are the man." If more than one man is needed and can be afforded, make

SEVERAL members of the British parliament recently went to the White City, an amusement place near London, to witness a demonstration of the Brennan Monorail railway. They included Premier Asquith, Right Hon. Lloyd George, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, Sir George Gihb, Sir Ernest Cassel, the Earl of Creve and other distinguished persons. The Brennan car is held on its single track by means of a gyroscope. It journeyed back and forth along its crooked and uneven course as steadily as if traveling on a perfect roadbed supporting two rails. The invention has so far been little more than a toy, though great things have been predicted for it. So long as the gyroscope, which is merely a heavy wheel kept revolving at high speed, is keeping the car will maintain its balance, even on a swaying rope. It works on the principal of the familiar gyroscope top, which scientists pretend to understand, but which puzzles the laymen even after scientific explanations.

them all equally responsible, each for a separate department of the city's business.

There is an unsightly spot at the head of the Seventh street steps at the point where the stairway railing intercepts the Singer Hill railing. The ladies organization which has the "city beautiful" at heart would no doubt be pleased to see that roses and flowers are maintained at this spot if the city or some public-spirited individual would provide a little soil to plant them in. It is private ground but would be given over for this purpose no doubt.

You who take pride in your homes and surroundings, how do you like to have a majestic telephone pole stuck in your parking rig in front of your house, the said majestic pole embellished with fourteen cross-arms, four hundred wires, a cable and a couple of tin cans? Seriously now, did you ever before see a city where these poles are allowed to be placed promiscuously as they are here? While the streets are being improved and many of these poles are necessarily removed from the ground there is an excellent chance to cause them to be placed on the street corners and on the edge of the alleys where they properly belong, an ally well regulated city. We know that these telephone companies are poor, struggling corporations and the burden of removing these poles would be almost disastrous, but we insist that while the property owners are being compelled to pay large sums for street improvement, whether they wish to or not, these corporations, to whom the people have granted franchise privileges, should be made to do a little improving too, whether they want to or not. Verily we do need a "business" administration.

It is plainly noticeable that a new spirit has taken hold of Oregon City. Civic pride is manifest; the character of homes now building shows it, and the tendency to keep up lawns and parking is another proof. No place can ever be attractive with unkempt lawns and streets. Let us fervently hope that this spirit will spread to the uttermost parts of town.

LADIES' AID GIVES YOUNG FOLK TREAT

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church of Parkplace gave a banquet to the young people of the church Friday evening. There were about sixty in attendance. The early part of the evening was devoted to Grace Barnett, reading Miss Edith Lilly; vocal duet, Milton and Charles Miller; recitation, Miss Amy Peckover; vocal solo, Miss Rita Holmes; recitation, Miss Fay French. The banquet hall was prettily decorated with autumn leaves, and the table with roses and other cut flowers. Mrs. Coffey, who is president of the Ladies' Aid Society, was assisted by Miss Katie Brunner, Miss Myrtle Holmes and Mrs. F. E. Lucas. Following the program and banquet there were music and games, and a most enjoyable time was had.

MRS. FIELDS HOSTESS OF BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. E. T. Fields was hostess of a bridge party at the Busch Hall Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock when about 50 of her friends attended. The hall was prettily decorated in cosmos, golden colored marigolds and ferns. Indian baskets filled with ferns were used along the sides of the hall, making a very artistic effect. Mrs. Fields was assisted by her daughter, Miss Clara Fields, Miss Dolly Fields, Miss Dolly Pratt and Miss Ruth Brightbill. The prizes, which were hand-painted plates, cup and saucer and pitcher, were won by Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. W. S. U'Ren, Mrs. G. A. Harding, Mrs. E. W. Greenman and Mrs. George Shankins. A delicious repast was served.

Those attending were Mrs. John Lewthwaite, Mrs. L. L. Porter, Mrs. A. L. Beattie, Mrs. M. D. Latourette, Mrs. H. P. Brightbill, Mrs. Nieta Barlow Lawrence, Mrs. J. R. Humphry, Mrs. W. A. Women Need Not Be Drudge In Servantless Home

By Mrs. FRANK A. PATTISON, Who Made the Experiment at Colonia, N. J.

SCIENCE in the kitchen means that the woman of average income and average family can actually have a SERVANT-LESS HOME and not become herself the household drudge. By dignifying and simplifying domestic labor modern improved methods will put domestic service on a higher plane than ever before, and the servants employed in future will be WORTH WHILE. It is time the present class of servants quite disappeared. The servant system is a SLAVE SYSTEM. Mistresses insist on long hours and little freedom for the maids. No wonder the latter swarm into factories and shops. It is true that the COMPETENT general houseworker is so rarely found that she may be called practically extinct.
