Sun sets 4:33, rises 6:45; moon rises 3:25 a. m.; 1:56 p. m., moon in conjunction with Venus, passing from west to east of the planet, 1 1/2 degrees north thereof; seen beautifully near in east before dawn; 6 a. m., Mars nearest earth as it approaches opposition, distant 47,500,000 miles; brightest and giving best opportunity for two years for discovery of possible inhabitants; apparent diameter 19.6 seconds; displays about half the brilliancy of the opposition of 1902; Mars rises as sun sets.

THE ICONOCLAST BUSY.

The iconoclast is a restless individual. He is always smashing something or other. This time it is a saying that man has used so long that there is no record of it.

How often have you used or heard employed the phrase, "blind as a bat"? Well, it is all wrong. The bat is not blind at all, but has a pair of good eyes and a sixth sense of direction. This is the assertion of an Indiana man who has been making a study of bats. He says the bats devote about three-quarters of their time to sleep. They go into winter quarters about the middle of September and hang themselves upside down to the top of caves or walls. There are books on their wings for the purpose, and in that position they remain until the end of March.

It is only in the spring and early summer that the bat flies around nights. The rest of the year very little is seen of him. The sixth sense of the bat enables it to avoid colliding with other objects in the dark.

ANTI-TIP CRUSADE.

The Commercial Traveler or drummer has stood the tip nuisance as long as possible and is now in open rebellion against it. Not only that he has decided to wage war upon it through his powerful organization, the Commercial Traveler's National League.

President Dove of the league says that $50,000,000 is annually distributed by commercial travelers among bell boys, waiters and porters, besides $325,000,000 paid as regular hotel charges. These are huge sums and may be somewhat exaggerated, but it is indisputable that the traveling men are annually imbedded of a large sum of money through the medium of the tip nuisance.

In beginning its crusade against the nuisance the travelers have warned the hotel keepers that they must cooperate with the league or the drummers will arrange for entertainment at places other than hotels and will also secure sample rooms not connected with hotels.

New York hotel keepers profess to believe that the crusade will be a trifling affair. In fact they are rather inclined to laugh at it. There is a constantly growing sentiment against the tipping nuisance and this feeling will be greatly encouraged and strengthened by the position taken by the traveling men. The hotel keepers may not be so strongly inclined to meriment after the salesmen have been busy a little while.

No matter what their color, all motorcycles seem to make about the same noise.

"Don't lie to your wife," advises a Chicago judge. He must have just found out the folly of attempting it.

The innocent bystander appear to be as numerous in China as elsewhere.

China wants a new calendar. Numerous enterprising business houses in this country would be only too glad to supply her with any quantity.

Says the Toledo Blade: "Babies used to be rocked to sleep. Now they are taken to the moving picture show."

The dove of peace is a beautiful bird but a big gun on a warship brings quicker results.

Champ Clark is talking of the annexation of Canada again. Champ insists upon monkeying with the buzzsaw.

A New Jersey man tried to eat soup with his fingers. No wonder that state is infested with mosquitoes.

Says Abe Martin: "There seems to be an unwritten law makin' it all right to steal a umorell."

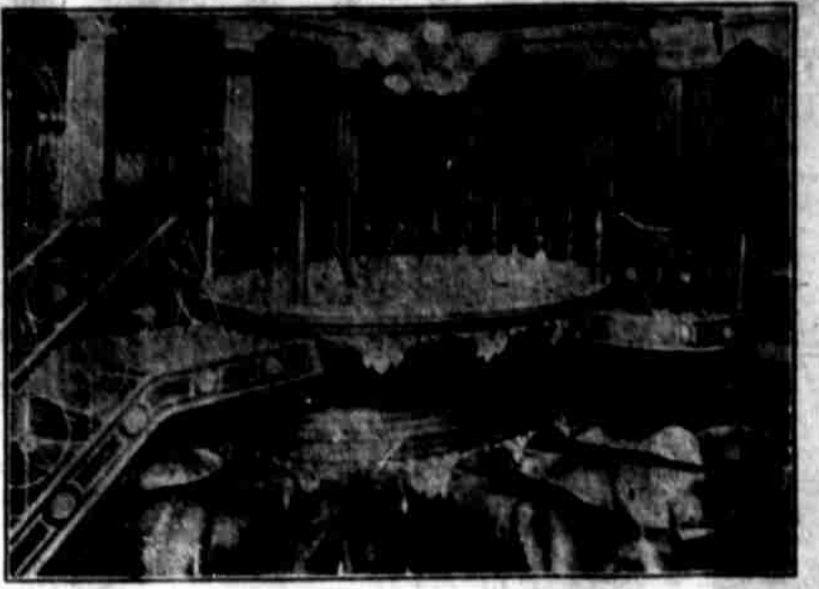

Clapp-trap is the way some of the unkind newspapers of the Middle West refer to the utterances of the Senator from Minnesota.

Liquid Fuel Oil. It has been shown that oil with a flash point of 230 degrees Fahrenheit will not ignite if fired into with a shell, and if dynamite is exploded in a reservoir of this oil it only throws up jets of oil which do not ignite. The only dangerous liquid fuel oils are those which have not parted with their volatile, inflammable gases, such as absolutely crude oils. In all ordinary commercial fuel oils these portions are removed, and the oil is safe and contains no power of spontaneous combustion. Oil with a fire test of 180 degrees to 200 degrees Fahrenheit is as safe as coal, and it will not ignite when stirred with a red hot poker nor when hot coals are thrown in it.

Playing on my vanity. Mr. Potts (to his wife)—My dear, the air is chilly. Fermes in fenetre. The Visitor (sotto voce)—Why do you ask your wife in French to shut the window? Mr. Potts (ditto)—Because you are here. If I asked her in English she wouldn't do it, as she won't take instructions from me before visitors. But if I say it in French she gets up and does it at once, so as to let you see that she understands the language.—London Answers.

The Gorgeous Baptismal Font In the Great Mormon Temple

Copyright by Joseph F. Smith, trustee in trust for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 1911

ONE of the most splendid structures in the United States is the Mormon temple in Salt Lake City. Begun in 1853, it was finished and dedicated in 1893. The building, with its furnishings, cost about $4,000,000. It is used for marriages, baptisms and all the secret rites and ceremonials of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, to give the Mormon church its full corporate title. None but Mormons have been permitted to enter it since its dedication, and until recently no photographs of the interior, which is said to be more richly decorated than was Solomon's temple, have been published. The font decorated in the picture is made after the pattern of the brazen font, or laver, as the King James version (1 Kings vii: 23) has it, which stood in the court of the Jewish tabernacle and afterward in the temple and contained water for the ablutions of the priests and for the washing of the sacrifices in the temple service. Only the statues of the oxen supporting the Mormon font are overlaid with gold.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

YOUR THINKING. How often do you think? "Why," you say, "I think practically all the time except when I am asleep." If so you are a rare person. Most of us do not really think very often or very much. We only think when we think.

Most of us let our minds drift. We give very little time to genuine reflection upon things that are worth while.

For instance— You drive along a country road. One moment you think of your horse, and the next a rabbit lopes across the way and interrupts your train of thought. You get started when you meet a neighbor who suggests something else. And so on. You may put in an entire day in that sort of mental drift and do scarcely any thinking.

Or— You are in a trolley car and look out the window. Your mind goes scurrying to keep up with the kaleidoscopic changes of the street scenes. "My, that auto just missed the car; there goes Mr. So-and-so. Such a noisy new-boy! How very warm it is!"

Your thoughts have drifted as a boat, unattended, goes down the stream. You have not been thinking at all, only dreaming. The wheels of your mental machinery have gone round, but no grist is turned out.

Real thinking requires concentration and continued mental effort. You shut your mind's eye to things about you—the subconscious mind being on guard—and think and think.

The way to think is to think. If you hold them long enough from somewhere—I know not where, do you?—from somewhere here, there come to you thoughts that are worth while.

So that if you want to do some real thinking you must be careful your mind does not slip around the corner at some outside suggestion.

If it does go thus scampering take it by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the breeches and bring it back. Bring it back seventy times seven, if necessary, or until you can make it do some thinking for you.

Kept Busy. "You seemed well acquainted with him," remarked the new manager to the shoe salesman who had just been talking with a customer.

"Yes; I meet him frequently." "Same lodge, maybe?"

"No; nothing outside the store. He has two small boys and gets all their shoes here."—Buffalo Express.

Unique Poor Farm. Providence, R. I. owns the most valuable municipal poor farm in the world. It is in the center of one of the most fashionable residential districts of the city, and the property is valued at $1,000,000. The farm is a bequest made by Ebenezer Dwight Dexter to the city in 1824, and none but those who once owned and paid taxes on real estate in Providence or whose father or mother was a real estate taxpayer in that city will be admitted to the farm.—Boston Globe.

Venus and Jupiter. The "earth's twin sister," Venus, is 67,000,000 miles from the sun. It receives more heat than we do. Very little is known of Venus, and so few markings are seen that it is not known whether Venus rotates on its axis once in twenty-four hours or once in 230 days. Jupiter, the giant of the sun's family, is covered with a shell of clouds which change so rapidly that conditions there can be interpreted only in one way—that Jupiter is so large and it has cooled so slowly that it is still far too hot to support life.

Tourists in Italy. How great an influence is wielded by the tourist travel abroad is apparent when it is considered that Florence, Italy, and indeed most of the towns of the district are largely dependent on sightseers, this being the fact that the district is primarily agricultural in character. A good or bad tourist season has in reality a greater effect on financial conditions there than a good or bad agricultural year. It is estimated that over 400,000 visitors arrive in the district annually.

Beattie Wants Dock at Best Location. Dr. A. L. Beattie said Wednesday that a wrong impression had been created by the published report of his address at the luncheon of the Live Wires Tuesday relative to the construction of a free dock. He was reported as having said that the consent of the War Department would be necessary before a free dock could be constructed. His reference to the dock was as follows:

"According to the best information obtainable, a dock could not be constructed if it extended beyond an ordinary stage of water without the consent of the War Department."

"I am in favor of a free dock at any place at the least cost where it will be of the most benefit to the people," said Dr. Beattie Wednesday.

A Brilliant Admiral. When Lord Carlisle visited Constantinople in 1854 he met a Turkish admiral whose ignorance of naval matters was equalled only by his horror of the sea. If he went for a cruise he was invariably seasick. On one occasion, when prostrated in his cabin, hearing a noise which aroused on his nerves, he inquired whence it proceeded. "From the rudder of the ship," was the reply. "Then have the rudder removed immediately," ordered the afflicted admiral.—London Standard.

There Is a Wonderful Difference between the light afforded by an ordinary carbon incandescent and the brilliancy of the new MAZDA lamp. The latter radiates two and one-half times as much light with the same amount of electric current. A 40-Watt MAZDA Affords Twice The Light of the 50-watt carbon lamp now in general use and costs one-fifth less to burn. We recommend its use to our customers, as it more than cuts their light bills in two, making electric light so inexpensive that no home, however humble, and no store, however small, can afford to be without it. Suffragists of Nonmilitant Type Will Get Ballot First By Governor WILLIAM SPRY of Utah

NOW, we have entirely disassociated the idea of suffrage out west with ideas of violent actions or UNWOMANLY CONDUCT. Women go to the polls there as quietly and with as much propriety as they would go shopping. They want to help their sisters everywhere to win the ballot, but they find it strange to think of helping out those who clamor for it with a LOUD NOISE and an UNSEEMLY MANNER. They believe quite generally in my state, I think, as I believe myself, that the suffragists, the nonmilitant group, are campaigning in a MORE EFFECTIVE MANNER than the others and that when the victory comes it will be to their banners.
