In one passage in it, in speaking of the fight at Hampton Roads in 1862 between the Monitor and the Merrimac, which was called the Virginia by the Confederation at that time. Wilson's book said: "On the 9th of March these two novel craft made trial of each other, and the Virginia was worsted." This excome to light, has called out an indignant protest from a resident of Portsmouth, Va., who says he saw the encounter, who denies that the Gladstone, Friday evening in honor Virginia was beaten, and who adds: 'If this is the way a Virginia-born historian writes her history, may the

PUZZLING TO TRADE

The price of turkeys is more mystifying than ever. While a small amount of sales have been made in Portland at 22c to 25c a pound for selected dressed birds, few sales were reported. The same prices prevail in Oregon City.

As a rule receivers were not anx-ious to let go; in fact, some of the leading handlers refused to make a price.

Receipts in Portland were fair again, but were not nearly as beavy as some had expected. The bulk of the shipments is due Monday. The formal Thanksgiving price will be set Monday morning.

Owing to the fact that consumers have their ideas set for low priced turkeys this season, it is not believed that the market can be forced very high. It is stated that one of the leading packers has been offering and selling selected dressed turkeys to the trade for Thanksgiving delivery at 22c to 23c a pound.

John Cort will present Lawrence Orsay, the actor with a personality the Earl, the refinement of speech and the unconscious humor are all a delight. The lines of the comedy are witty and D'Orsay is so acreamingly funny that one can laugh intelligently and be on good terms with one's self for laughing. The story of the comedy is amusing, the chief character is that of an English Earl masquerading in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria under the name of an American friend. It shows the idealism, the hopes, excitements and frailties of life and it shows them without strain, and yet in the clean, unproblem-like way which makes the performance something which everybody may see. "Give every man a square chance," ex-President Roosevelt wrote on New Year's Day, six years ago. That is what "Checkers" wants in the play. He gets it and wins, to the well-assumed delight of the other characters in the play and the delectation of the people on the other side of the footlights. It is pleasant to record the success of Hobart Cavanaugh in the title role, to which he has been assigned by the management for this season's tour of the play. Sterne Borrowed It.

There are many persons who think the sentence "He tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is to be found in the Bible. You would search the Bible pretty thoroughly before you would find that sentence in it. Where you would find it would be in Sterne's "Sontimental Journey." Sterne gets a good deal of praise for the origination of this sentence, but it was originated. as a matter of fact, before he was born. In a collection of French proverbs published in 1594 we find, "Dieu mesure le ven' s la brebis tondue."
