

HOLD HORN SCHUCH FUNERAL TUESDAY

Christian Hornschuch, one of the well known and highly respected real estate men of this city, died at the family home, Seventh and Monroe streets, Saturday morning at 1:30 o'clock of heart disease. Mr. Hornschuch was apparently in the best of health when he retired Friday evening. Mrs. Hornschuch, who was stricken with paralysis about one year ago, and who never recovered her health, heard her husband gasping for breath, and managed to get to the residence occupied by her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Elliott, which adjoins that of the Hornschuchs. Since Mrs. Hornschuch's paralytic stroke, her voice has become affected and she is unable to speak loudly. After reaching the Elliott home she awoke Mr. and Mrs. Elliott who telephoned for a physician. Mr. Hornschuch's death occurred soon after he was stricken. Mr. Hornschuch was kind and considerate to his family, and was well known throughout Clackamas county. Mr. Hornschuch was born at Heiderbach, near Suhl, Prussia, September 5, 1847, and was sixty-four years of age. His father died when he was a boy and he came to America with his mother in 1853, and settled at Ashland, Pa. Here he married Miss Gottlobina Glather in 1870. The family came to Oregon in 1878, where they have lived ever since, except for a short time in Seattle. Mr. Hornschuch lived for many years near Shubel, where he owned one of the finest farms in the county, which he sold about one year ago. He moved to Seattle where he remained until last summer, when he went to Salem, later coming to Oregon City. He was arranging to have a beautiful home erected. Mr. Hornschuch is survived by his wife and the following children: Henry Hornschuch, of Portland; Emil Hornschuch, of Seattle, Wash.; Theodore Hornschuch, of Tacoma, Wash.; Edward Hornschuch, of Bellingham, Wash.; Mrs. Rose Wenger, of Salem, Oregon; Lawrence Hornschuch, of San Francisco; Mrs. Lena Ernest, Seattle, Wash.; Albert Hornschuch, of Portland; Otto Hornschuch, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Lydia Elliott, of Oregon City. Mr. Hornschuch's parents died many years ago. He had three brothers, William, who died in Germany; Lawrence and Edward, who died in this city several years ago. Mrs. Charlotte Bullard and Mrs. Rosamond Schuebel, of this city, are sisters. His nieces in this city are Mrs. Richard Schoenborn, Mrs. Emma Baker, and nephews, Attorney C. Schuebel and Christian Bullard. He has several other nephews and nieces in Clackamas county living near and at Shubel. The funeral services will be held at the Evangelical church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Wieweck officiating. There also will be services in English by one of the ministers in this city.

Enjoying a Novelty. "The newest cook we've got seems to be satisfied," announced Mrs. Hill last week high proudly. "Has she made up her mind to stay with us?" "She has." "Discharge her at once!" "Hiram! Just when we've got one at last who—" "Yes. We've had a dozen cooks in as many weeks, and we've never had a chance to fire one yet. Go on. I want to see how it feels."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Contrasting Fabric For Overskirt the Latest Vogue. The notion of a separate tunic or overskirt above a skirt of contrasting material grows by leaps and bounds. All the French suits are made in this way, and American tailors are adopting the style. This idea of a contrasting skirt will be hailed with joy by the woman who has been wondering what to do with last year's tailored suit. The graceful household gown always makes an important part of the winter wardrobe. The model picture is charming, yet altogether simple. It can be

CROSS COUNTRY RUN IS POPULAR

Big Colleges Devoting Attention to This Branch of Athletics.

CORNELL AFTER ANOTHER TITLE

Ithacans Have Splendid Team This Season—Material Poor at Pennsylvania—Dartmouth to Be Watched. Harvard and Yale Weak.

Track athletes at the big universities say that cross country running is becoming one of the most popular of outdoor fall sports. There was a time when little attention was paid to this branch of athletics, but such is not the case now. College men each year are becoming more and more interested. Judging from the way the different university teams have been working for the annual intercollegiate run, which is to be held at Brookline, Mass., Nov. 25, no one can doubt the sport's popularity. College coaches this year have been drilling their men with one purpose, and that is to win Cornell. Of late years Coach Moakley has been as successful with his hill and daiers as has Coach Courtney with his carmen. Cornell stands out as the leader in cross country running, and, judging from the Ithacans' present outlook, it already begins to look as if Cornell again will capture the intercollegiate title, although several other universities are credited with having formidable teams. Cornellians are interested more in the sport than other college men. Moakley, as a rule, has very much the largest squad from which to pick a team, and maybe that is the reason why he has been so successful. Princeton, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Yale, Dartmouth and others are displaying a different spirit from that shown in past years. That they are paying more attention to cross country running is evidenced by the fact that more men try for the teams now than was the case in the past. On early form Cornell looks to be the one best bet for the intercollegiate title this season. The Ithacan collegians claim five of last year's point winning team, and this is a big help to the Red and White team. John Paul Jones, who won the race for Cornell last year, and Berna, who finished second, and several other veterans form a very likely looking squad. The other teams have done so little work that the coaches as yet have not been able to make their selections. Little is known of the untried and inexperienced material. Both Harvard and Yale have suffered because most of their best runners were lost through graduation. Massachusetts Tech promises a strong team and is looked upon by many as a possible "dark horse" for the big race. Pennsylvania has not any too much material. Coach Mike Murphy, it is said, is worried over the prospects because of the lack of good men. Murphy has a big squad at work, but few of the men have displayed real championship ability. The same holds true at Princeton. Trainer Keane Fitzpatrick recently urged the undergraduates to come and try for the team, but whether the untried candidates develop into stars remains to be seen. Dartmouth will be watched this year. Coach Harry Hillman has had a lot of success with his athletic team, and he is looked upon to furnish one of the surprises of the big race. Columbia in past years has been hampered for lack of training grounds. Things are different this year, however. The new management has the men trained over a course obtained in Van Cortlandt park, New York. There the Blue and White boys have been preparing for the coming event.

ATHLETES MUST RANK HIGH. Only Those Having Good Records Will Make Olympic Team. If the rumblings from the different A. A. U. districts are any sign of the times, an agitation will soon blossom forth in favor of sending only those athletes to Stockholm next year who will earn the right to be selected by their performances in the tryouts. Ample opportunity will be forthcoming when the proper time arrives, and any man who has the least pretense to form will have the proper chance to display his ability. There will be tryouts in the north, south, east and west and out on the Pacific coast, so that every foot of America will be ransacked for athletic material. On account of the improvement of late among European track and field men a strong team will be necessary to win, and America is going to leave no one at home who can score a point. Australian Tennis Cup Defenders. The latest news from Australia is that Rod Heath and A. W. Dunlop have been selected to defend the Davis cup, with Norman Brookes, against the American team composed of W. A. Larned, Beals C. Wright and Maurice McLoughlin. Creating a Knight. The ceremonies at the creation of a knight have varied at different times. Thus, a box on the ear and a stroke with a sword on the shoulder were at one period given to the recipient of the dignity. A blow with the naked fist was in use among the ancient Normans, and this was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight, a ceremony which has survived, with some modification, to the present day. Needed It. "As soon as Adam awoke and saw Eve he coined the word 'trouble.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

ROOSEVELT LAUDS BURDS FOR WORK

(Continued from page 1.) The trail "went beyond Indianapolis." Where Kaplan and Schmidt are is not known, Burns saying that the McNamara knew where the two were living and adding: "You won't have to wait long, now, before they are taken in." He added that inasmuch as Chicago newspapers covered the territory between the Rockies and the Appalachian Ranges, the Chicago papers probably would be first to print the news. This is his first intimation that the men were not, as first reported, under surveillance by his operatives on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Burns answered a telegram he received from Theodore Roosevelt with the following message: "Please accept my sincere thanks. It is the words of encouragement from men of your sterling character that urge us in the faithful and vigorous performance of our plain duty." Mr. Burns said he would leave tomorrow or Monday for New York, return here in three or four days, and go immediately to Los Angeles. The future of the dynamiting cases, he said, hung on the desire of District Attorney Fredericks. Drawing the Lines. A London tailor made his pile and retired to a Welsh castle, where he set up as a squire. But the tailor had hardly got established as a squire when a London hatter retired and set up in a neighboring castle as a squire also. It was disgusting. A friend, apropos of the former hatter's coming, said to the ex-tailor: "Will you call on him?" "Not I," was the reply. "One must draw the line somewhere." "And so," said the friend, "you draw it round the neck, eh?"

POISON OF WORRY

Worry is one of the few things that we can lay down a law against, as it is absolutely poisonous. Unlike other poisons, it does not simulate, but is a depressing, paralyzing and breaking up poison. It is a sheer waste of energy, and life would become much more bearable if only people would take things philosophically, as a matter of course.—Eustace Miles.
