Governor Woodrow Wilson is a native of Virginia, but Ohio insists that Virginia is now the grandmother of Presidents, not the mother. In the latter role Ohio presents the names of Taft and Harmon, both of Cincinnati.

The President intimated in a speech the other day that he thinks his function in government is just as sacred as is that of the Senate. This is not likely to surprise anybody but the senators. To them it will sound like presumption.

Governor Hooper, of Tennessee spent two days experimentally in the Nashville Penitentiary living on common prison fare and talking to the convicts. The governor learned so much in forty-eight hours that he was entirely ready to parole himself.

Have you calendared yet? Christmas, Leap Year, Easter, and baseball.

Italy is making slow progress in her attempt to change the map of Turkey.

Now they blame the cow for the scarcity of butter. It used to be the grass.

Those Cincinnati girls who lived on eleven cents a day will never go into vandeville on that basis of compensation.

That Oklahoma man who found $10,000 in an old wooden leg has no kick coming.

SPICY SPORT CHATS

By TOMMY CLARK. It is argued that because his team won the pennant last season McGraw will not make any change in his lineup before next season, but that is extremely doubtful. McGraw has undoubtedly been convinced that his team lacks class. The Athletics proved that to him in a most decisive manner, and if the slightest opportunity to better conditions presents itself it goes without saying that McGraw will not allow sentiment to stand in the way of his getting a better ball team. And it must be admitted that there is room for improvement on the Giants.

Though fears are expressed that Ad Wolgast might never regain his old form because of the operation for appendicitis which he had to undergo, there is no logical reason why he should not be every bit as sound after he recovers as he ever was before. In fact, he may be better, for there is no doubt that he has felt the effects of this ailment for some time, and to have it eliminated should be a great relief to him. So soon as the shock of the operation wears off and the wound heals thoroughly Wolgast should be just as capable to defend his title as he ever was.

Though fighters in other classes are just as able to furnish interesting bouts, it is a fact that any time there is a slump in the heavyweight class the game does not prosper and interest is on the wane. It has been a year and a half since Johnson took the title from Jeffries, but there has not been a heavyweight bout since then which attracted more than passing attention. Not only has there been no one who figured to have a good chance to beat Johnson, but the colored champion has not shown a disposition to dig up any opponents who might be figured to have a look in. In fact, he has not been in this country for many months, nor does it look as if he had any intention of returning or defending his title.

Though Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh wangled innumerable hits that he had played his last game and that he would manage the Pirates from the bench hereafter, the owners of the Pittsburgh club do not take this announcement seriously. The fact is pointed out that Clarke played as good ball last season as he ever did in his career and that there is no occasion for him not to play. But Clarke takes a different view of the matter. He insists that he has reached that stage where it causes him excruciating pain to get himself into playing condition. His legs won't stand the strain any longer, he contends, and that this is the reason for his retirement.

But the club owners insist that Clarke will break back into harness just as soon as he finds his services are needed, and it is hinted that it will require but a few games to convince Clarke that he has no player who can take his place. When Ulric Morris, brother of Carl Morris, the "white hope," secured a position on the Tulsa (Okla.) fire department recently it became necessary to order a special seven foot bed and extra length bed clothing. Ulric Morris, while only twenty-two years old.

New Seating Plan of the House And Its Two Principal Figures

WHAT promises to be one of the most interesting sessions of congress within recent years was opened on Dec. 4. With the Democrats in control of the house of representatives attention will be principally focused upon that branch of the national legislature, of whose new seating arrangement the accompanying photograph gives a good idea. The desks of individual members have all been removed, and each row of chairs has in front of it a continuous shelf, on which books and papers can be placed. The change has been made in order to accommodate the increased membership in less space, the acoustic qualities of the old chamber having been so poor as to make it advisable to reduce its size. Under Champ Clark (whose portrait appears at the right) as speaker and with the leadership of the door of Oscar W. Underwood (at left), the house will, it is expected, deal with such important questions as the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law, tariff reduction, currency reform and the arbitration treaties with France and Great Britain.

Receipts for the week have been 962 cattle, 46 calves; 485 hogs; 612 sheep and 19 horses. The holiday spirit hit the market heavily in point of receipts and the few shippers who kept in touch with conditions realized higher prices. The steer market showed an advance of fully 25 cents on all grades. The calf market was strong with tops at $8.

Approximate receipts for 1911 were as follows: Cattle 88,384; Calves 6,818; Hogs 17,563; Sheep 306,627; Horses and mules 2,259; Carloads 5,846.

As compared with 1910 there was a decrease of 1,349 cattle, a decrease of 1,479 calves, an increase of 2,360 hogs, and increase of 133,209 sheep, an increase of 518 horses and mules and an increase of 433 carloads. Since the establishment of the yards in September, 1909, there has been received: Cattle 198,673; Hogs 205,769; Sheep 509,137; Horses and mules 4,530; Carloads 12,671.

Table with 3 columns: Animal Type, Quantity, Price. Includes Steers, Hogs, Sheep, Cows, Calves, Horses, etc.

LET us cherish the hope that the day is not far off when the REIGN OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE will be firmly established on the earth; when the spirit of the gospel will so far sway the minds and hearts of rulers that standing armies will yield to PERMANENT COURTS OF ARBITRATION; that contests will be carried on in the council chambers instead of on the battlefield and decided by the pen instead of the sword.
