

WHY DOC WHITE HAD TO PUT ONE OVER ON CUBS.

Doc White, for ten years a pitcher with the Chicago Americans, has one of the longest heads in baseball. He also is somewhat of a humorist. A few days after the White Sox broke all records by winning three straight series from the Cubs last fall Doc was asked how he managed to hurl so fine a game against the National leaguers in the Sunday battle. It will be remembered that White not only beat them 4 to 2, but got two hits and a pass himself.

WOULD ALTER POLO RULES.

Water Sport is Thought to Be Too Rough at Present.

The revival of interest experienced this fall in the game of American water polo has once more started a movement in the west in favor of revising the rules. Dr. J. H. White, formerly of the Chicago A. A., is at the head of those advocating the adoption by the Amateur Athletic Union of the "thrown goal."

SOCCER TEAM COMING.

Australian Eleven Will Tour United States Next Year.

A prominent Australian capitalist and an enthusiastic supporter of soccer football in that country is now in New York city making arrangements for the visit of an all star amateur Australian team that he proposes to tour this country with next year.

JONES FORCED TO REST.

Champion Mile Runner Sprains Tendon and Will Not Compete This Winter.

John Paul Jones, Cornell's great runner and mile champion of the United States, will not be able to enter any indoor meets in the immediate future, and it is possible that he will do no indoor training this winter at all. Jones has developed a strained tendon Achilles, which is badly swollen, and Coach Jack Mackley of the track team has ordered him not to train.

AUTO RACING DETERIORATING.

Fast Motor Driving Losing Much of Its Popularity.

Waning public interest, the uselessness of demonstrating how fast cars can travel and the needless waste of human life are fast putting automobile racing in the discard. For three years attendance at the big races has steadily decreased.

England's 1912 Golf Tourney.

Great Britain's amateur golf championship for 1912 will take place in the week beginning June 3. For the first time in the history of the event it will be played on the links of the Royal North Devon club at Westward hotel.

Our Lighthouse Service. Although the United States has the smallest foreign going merchant marine in the world, it possesses the most perfectly equipped and elaborate lighthouse service to be found on any coast line.

Oak Tree Bark. The bark of very large oak trees weighs in some cases as much as three tons.

THE EMPEROR AND FATE

By THEODORE BORLAND Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

There was once a young man who lived in a country that had long been ruled by a line of profligate kings. At last the people, maddened by their wrongs and by hunger, rose up in their might, beheaded the king and his queen and secretly made away with the heir apparent so that no successor might inherit the throne.

This young man, who was a soldier by profession, stood by the palace and witnessed the fury of the mob. He had not suffered himself from the royal tyranny, but could understand the vengeance these people coveted. Nevertheless the scene impressed him with the instability of anarchy.

The young man, naturally ambitious, was fired by this success to greater deeds. Obtaining other armies he went on foreign conquests, always returning successful. This won for him the plaudits of the people, and when they placed the government in the hands of three associate governors they made the general the first of the three.

At this time, when he was at the height of his glory and power, one night he had a dream. He dreamed that he was sitting on his throne, the imperial crown on his head, the scepter in his hand, and a throng of courtiers passing before him, bowing to him as they passed.

"Who are you?" asked the emperor. "Fate," he answered. "Fate, are you? What are you doing here?" "I came to implant within your brain that which will accomplish my intentions for you."

The figure turned and looked upward. The emperor's gaze followed in the same direction, and he saw a picture, toward which he seemed to be moving. It was a desolate place, and with him were only a few of those whom he had ennobled.

From this point the emperor's star steadily went down, down. He made desperate efforts to retrieve his falling fortunes, but achieved no permanent success.

He gave himself up to one of the kings who defeated him and was sent to a rock in the midst of a great ocean. There he died surrounded by a few adherents, but neither his wife nor his son were with him.

The Snail's Horns.

A snail's manner of withdrawing his horns is very interesting. He does not pull them back bodily into their receptacles, but turns them inside out, just as one sometimes turns the fingers of a tight glove.

The Plow.

Emperor Shun Nung of China invented the plow and introduced agriculture and medical science in 1200 B. C.

Slender. He who slanders wields a sword which he holds at the point. His own hands receive the wounds.

To Improve the Neck and Shoulders.

Every girl cannot have beautiful shoulders, but every girl can do much toward improving the appearance of a scrawny neck and weak, undeveloped shoulders.

What sentimental poet has not sung the praises of a graceful neck and pretty, well rounded shoulders? And what girl of the day does not covet them? If she is the lucky possessor of both can any one blame her for being the least bit proud?

Balancing the shoulders properly is necessary at all times. If they are well formed it is necessary to walk or sit correctly in order to keep them so.

Lunch hour gives scarcely enough exercise for those whose occupations compel them to lead a sedentary life. Don't call a messenger for every trifling errand. Get up occasionally, stretch the limbs, throw back the shoulders and walk about a few times between morning and noon and between noon and going home in the evening.

When the shoulders are thin and hollow correct carriage, with daily applications of a good skin food, which should be massaged with a firm, rounded movement of the palm of the hand and rubbed well into the skin, will prove beneficial.

Wash For the Hair.

The washing of the hair is especially important now that the hair is worn flat, and hair not properly washed might just as well not be washed at all. Parisian beauty doctors are using a hair washing paste the foundation of which is powdered soap.

After the paste is thoroughly worked in the rinsing must begin. Many persons do not understand how difficult it is to rinse the hair properly.

Live on a diet of eggs, fruit, vegetables and milk as much as possible. Take a warm bath daily and a sweet bath once a week.

Dress loosely and not too warmly. Wear no heavy clothes or heavy hats. Go to bed early and get up early.

Be temperate in all pleasures. Remember, when these things become habits you are far on the road to beauty, health and happiness.

IN THE KITCHEN.

Many Brushes For Modern Dishwashing.

Modern housekeeping requires dozens of brushes and a towel for every sort of dishwashing. This photograph, taken in a model kitchen, depicts the various brushes necessary to clean properly coffee cups, coffee-pot tumblers, pans, sieves and even coffee and tea pot spouts.

At the Glove Counter.

"No woman," said the woman shopper, "ever tries on bargain counter gloves or any gloves that are sold for a dollar or less a pair. Why? Because it is the unwritten rule that they shall not be tried on, as every woman knows."

"Here was a bargain sale of men's gloves at a price under a dollar, and there were twenty men around the counter buying them. And were they trying them on? Why, certainly, very openly, frankly, naively, standing facing the counter and trying them and standing on the outskirts of the crowd and facing away from the counter and trying them, this not to make them selves invisible, but simply turning that way to get more room."

Ordinarily the announcement that one of the major leagues had thrown down the gauntlet to the other would cause quite a stir, but the resolution passed by the American league recently at the meeting in New York failed to create this impression.

This Is Fashion's New Tam-o'-shanter.

The tam crown reappears ever so often, and this is fashion's last version of this ever popular hat crown. A cap of marten fur, mounted on a narrow brim of velvet, fits the head closely, and at the top of this fur cap is the huge crown of velvet which has the effect of a great bird, just alighted on the small hat.

Tube Skirt a Menace to Health.

The hobbie and tube skirts and other tight fitting garments are given as causes for tuberculosis by Dr. Herman Spalding, chief of the bureau of medical inspection of Chicago.

Some doctors say a regular diet of beef makes people ill tempered and cross.

Probably nothing else of the same area is as conspicuous as a dent in a derby hat.—Atchison Globe.

The term "cottage" was first applied to a small house without land in the year 1275.

Eye of a T-y. It has been estimated that the eye of a fly can discern an object one five-millionth of an inch in diameter.

SPICY SPORT CHATS By TOMMY CLARK. Ordinarily the announcement that one of the major leagues had thrown down the gauntlet to the other would cause quite a stir, but the resolution passed by the American league recently at the meeting in New York failed to create this impression.

Quite Natural. "I wish to see the lady of the house," said the tramp at the back door. "I am she," answered the lady. "Go on—send me the missus," said the hobo.

A Place of Lost Hopes. Newark, the English racing town, has often sent its pitious grumbling away. There was Cole o' Norfolk, for instance, who in his younger days visited the "horse" town and came away a poorer man and remembered the fact all his life.

Telling the Bumps. The antiquity of palmistry is in striking contrast to the modernity of "telling the bumps," with which it is often associated in popular estimation.

NOT EXPENSIVE Treatment at Hot Lake, including medical attention, board and baths, costs no more than you would pay to live at any first class hotel. Rooms can be had from 75 cents to $2.50 per day.
