Church charities received $1,500,000 from Mrs. Rhinelander King. Mrs. Mary Lathrop Peabody of Boston, gave $700,000 for like purposes and one million dollars was given to charity each by Mrs. Emily Moir, of New York, and Mrs. Emily Yarnell of Philadelphia. Mrs. Mary Harriman, widow of the noted financier, gave $200,000 for hospital work on the Southern Pacific railroad.

During the year the universities have been well remembered, Columbia having received $2,535,000, Harvard King George's Equerry In a Pillow Fight on the Medina

PPARENTLY the fact that the Medina was bearing King George and his fortunes did not weigh upon the spirits of his entourage or keep them from the usual sports with which ordinary passengers beguile the tedium of an ocean voyage. Our illustration shows his majesty's equerry, Captain Bryan Godfrey-Faussett (facing the reader), engaged in the pleasing but highly undignified contest known as a pillow fight. The fighters, seated facing and astride of a spar securely lashed, belabor each other with pillows, meanwhile endeavoring to keep their balance on the slippery perch.
