STONEHENGE.

Stonehenge, like "Hamlet," remains a mystery so far as its actual builders are concerned or the actual purpose for which it was erected. The famous stones that stand on Salisbury plains, in England, are the remnants of some sort of structure supposed to have been built about the year 440 or 450 in memory of the Britons who were murdered by Heugist the Saxon. They are probably the remains of a Druid temple or inclosure. About the Druids we know very little except that they were the priests of the Celtic peoples of Great Britain and France in the early pre-Roman times. - New York American.
