

Men and Young Men

ARE YOU SAVING? IF YOU ARE NOTICE THESE SAVINGS.

- $12.50 Suit or Overcoat...$7.35
- $15.00 Suit or Overcoat...$9.35
- $18.00 Suit or Overcoat...$11.85
- $20.00 Suit or Overcoat...$13.65
- $25.00 Suit or Overcoat...$16.85

INVESTIGATE OUR CLEARANCE SALE BARGAINS.

OREGON CITY, OR. ASK FOR PREMIUM TICKETS.

$10 REWARD

For the arrest and conviction of any person or persons, who unlawfully remove copies of The Morning Enterprise from the premises of subscribers after paper has been placed there by carrier.

Double Affliction.

"Women suffer more than men in the dentist's chair."
"Can't stand the pain?"
"Yes; and they can't talk."

LOCAL BRIEFS

Fred Lindsey, of Carus, was in this city on business Tuesday.

Charles Spence, of Beaver Creek, was in this city Tuesday.

Mrs. E. C. Warren, of Oak Grove, was in this city Wednesday.

Bessie Roberts, of Jennings Lodge, was in this city Wednesday.

Samuel Bailey and brother, of Clairmont, were in Oregon City transacting business Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Spangler, of Carus, was in this city Wednesday, and while here visited friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mueller, of Clarkes, were among the Oregon City visitors Wednesday.

John Busch went to Eugene Wednesday evening to attend a dancing party given by the university students.

Mrs. Margaret Mulvey, who has been very ill at her home on Eighth and John Quincy Adams streets, is improving.

Miss Anna Dean, after a week's illness of tonsillitis, is improving, and was on Wednesday able to resume her position at the court house.

J. W. Kirkwood, who has just returned from Hood River, was in this city on business Wednesday. Mr. Kirkwood will leave today for Molalla.

Mrs. G. W. Grace and Miss Echo Spence, who have been visiting with friends at New Era, have returned to Oregon City.

Mrs. Lee H. Bequaith, formerly Miss Eula Schuebel, of this city, but now of Portland, was in this city Wednesday, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Schuebel.

Having purchased at a bargain a large amount of wire fencing, farmers will do well to investigate at Duane Ely's, Seventh street.

Lawrence Nathe, who recently underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis at the Oregon City Hospital, has recovered, and was able to leave the hospital several days ago.

Today is Ground Hog Day, and if the old fellow comes out and sees his shadow he will hike back to his haunts and not show his nose for at least six weeks, when winter will be over.

The Commercial Club has arranged to give its annual ball on Wednesday evening, April 10, at Busch's hall, when the best of music will be provided, and this promises to be one of the social events of the season.

Mart Spangler, of Oakland, Cal., who was called to Corvallis by the death of his father, the late John Spangler, arrived in Oregon City Wednesday to visit his sister, Mrs. L. L. Porter, of the West Side.

Miss Maybelle Foster and Miss Merle Wooddy, of Portland, teachers of the Stephens school of that city, were in this city visiting friends and the Oregon City schools Wednesday. It being the end of the term the teachers are given a week's vacation.

Miss Foster was formerly a resident of Oregon City, having taken part in concerts here, and Miss Wooddy was for some time a resident of Gladstone.

Mrs. Eber A. Chapman will entertain the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club at her home on Sixth and Washington streets this afternoon.

Miss Agnes Watts, of Portland, a vocalist of that city, is in Oregon City a guest of Mrs. Nieta Barlow Lawrence.

Samuel O. Dillman, who was injured by falling from a walk near the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company's plant on the West Side, and who was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, Portland, where he underwent a surgical operation of the knee, an injury caused by the fall, is improving rapidly, and will be able to resume his position within a few days.

William Avison, who has been for the past year at Molalla, making improvements on his tract of land, has arrived in Oregon City to remain until spring, when he expects to return to Molalla.

Judge Elkins, municipal judge at Salem, was in this city Tuesday, being a guest at the home of Mrs. W. R. Ellis, of Gresham.

Judge Thomas F. Ryan, of Salem, was in this city on business Wednesday.

Miss Maud Mattley, teacher of Portland, was in this city Monday evening visiting at her home.

Professor Ringler, of Portland, one of the dancing teachers of that city, will open a dancing school at the Willamette Hall Thursday evening for adults as well as children.

Mrs. Pauline Moore Riley, Grand Worthy Matron, Order Eastern Star of Oregon, will officially visit the Oregon City Chapter February 8.

Miss Maude Cooke, who teaches in the Portland schools, is spending the mid-year vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooke, in this city.

The czars of Russia say that they have two generals on whom they rely to drive out an enemy, these warriors being General January and General February.

Among those flying before the redoubtable General February was Peter Aphonson, a middle aged bachelor, who took a train for Hampton Roads. Mr. Aphonson, sitting one evening, when the first faint balm of spring was coming up from the south, on a bench facing the water, saw a lady pass him whose face seemed vaguely associated with some previous existence. She was walking with an elderly woman, who appeared from a likeness between the two to be her mother. The ladies walked on for some distance, returned, and the elder, seeing the opposite end of the bench from the one on which Aphonson sat unoccupied, insisted on resting there.

Ten minutes later the ladies arose and went on. Aphonson followed them with his eyes till they were lost in the throng of promenaders and still longer with his thoughts. Presently rising, he was about to leave the spot when he saw a purse where they had been sitting. He took it in charge.

Expecting he might find something to give him a clue to the owner, he opened it; but, seeing nothing except money, he closed it again. He had little doubt of finding the lady who had dropped it, for there were not many people at the place and they in a narrow compass. Indeed, the very next morning in a sun parlor of his hotel facing the "roads" he saw the owner of the two ladies sitting alone. Approaching her, he handed her the purse. She thanked him, it seemed to him mechanically, or rather, without surprise.

Place in company a man and a woman, both unmarried, not too old, and ten to one they will sooner or later get on the subject nearest to their hearts. The subject nearest to the hearts of both men and women of middle age is finding some one of the opposite sex with whom to make a home. But they discuss the matter in general terms, carefully steering in the broad current, though sometimes they get to particularizing before they know it.

"Are you married?" asked the lady.

"No, I am not, but I confess I would like to be. I have grown to an age wherein single life has lost its zest. I live at a club and am bored there. But what can I do? Marriage—marriage with mating—is not a matter that can be arranged as one would rent a house or buy an automobile. In my case there is a special obstruction. When I was twenty I was engaged to a young girl, whom I lost. I was then impecunious, and her family would not hear of a match between us. My fiancée relied upon me as to what was best to be done, and I felt it my duty to tell her that we should part. My heart remains with her. Should I marry today honestly would compel me to confess that I could only give a wife a companionable affection.

"I am in very much the same situation," replied the lady. "At nineteen I married a man selected for me by my mother. He was much older than I and wealthy. I could not give him my heart, but at that time I did not consider it obligatory to tell him so. I loved another during my married life of ten years and love that other today. Should I marry I should now feel it incumbent on me to tell the man I married that he must be content with companionship."

In this vein they chatted till noon, when the lady withdrew. They met often after that in the sun parlor. Aphonson gave the widow opportunity to tell him more about herself, but she said she did not take his hints or she was not inclined to give the desired information. One day Aphonson said to her:

"As I told you when we first met, I am very tired of single life. I wish a companion with whom to make a home. I would be pleased to exchange information concerning ourselves with a view to marriage. You understand that my heart was long ago given to another and remains with that other today. I understand the same with regard to you."

"I appreciate the compliment you pay me; but, now that I am free to marry the man of my choice, I will marry no one else."

"Pardon me. I supposed that affair had ended as mine has ended."

"The man who loved me has never married."

"Indeed?"

"No, and I have lately met him."

"Not here?"

"Yes, here. Not long ago while walking with my mother I passed him. He did not recognize me, but I recognized him. Returning we sat down on the same seat with him. In order to bring about a meeting I left my purse on the seat."

"Marion?"

"Yes, I am Marion."

There are certain things about women that puzzle me. Why did Marion recognize me, I not recognizing her? Then why did she resort to a ridiculous subterfuge to draw me to her instead of coming out in a frank, manly— I mean a frank way and making herself known? I don't know. I've been married to her ten years, and every month of this time I have discovered some new feature to puzzle me.

MISS JOHNSON HAS BIRTHDAY RECEPTION

Miss Umatilla Johnson was the hostess of a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Johnson, of Sixteenth and Division streets, Saturday afternoon, the occasion being the celebration of her fourteenth birthday anniversary, inviting a few of her young friends to make the occasion a most happy one. The hostess was presented with several beautiful gifts. A luncheon was served by Mrs. Johnson during the afternoon. The decorations of the parlor were of red carnations and ferns, the same decorations being used for the living room, while the color scheme of the dining room was of green and yellow, poppies and ferns being used in profusion and with artistic effect. A large birthday cake, lighted with yellow candles formed the centerpiece of the table.

The afternoon was devoted to games, the prizes being won by Bernice Poole, who carried off first prize, and the consolation prize going to Harold Nash.

Present were Bernice Pool, Carrie Cross, Veda Lynch, Viola Johnson, Aletha Oglesby, Umatilla Johnson, Vern Cross, Joda Miller, Orval Oglesby, Harold Nash, Burr Johnson.

DR. MOUNT DENIES REPORT ABOUT TYPHOID

There has been a report in circulation that there is an epidemic of typhoid fever in Oregon City, caused by the water of the Willamette River, but such is not the case, say some of the leading physicians of this city. Among them are Dr. H. S. Mount, who has typhoid patients in the country as well as in this city, all of whom are improving. Dr. Mount states that there are no more cases in Oregon City at the present time than there is usually this time of year. He had two patients suffering from typhoid fever caused by drinking of water from a well. The father and son were taken down with the disease, and the daughter was inoculated with the typhoid serum, and escaped the disease. Dr. Mount has used the typhoid serum with excellent results for almost two years, and in many of the serious cases the serum is used. The water from the filtering plant of Oregon City has been tested and so far has been found free from typhoid germs.

Fish That Eat Oysters.

As a result of recent investigations the fishes most destructive to pearl oysters are those commonly known as the globe fish. Another fish belonging to the group, known as pagrina, is seldom or never found without oysters in its stomach. The larger species of rays are suspected of committing great ravages in the oyster beds.

A Way the Camel Has.

When a camel is pressed beyond its speed and is spent it kneels down, and nothing in the world will make it budge again. The camel remains where it kneels, and where it kneels it dies.

Three Reasons WHY YOU SHOULD USE Howard's Triumph Patent Flour

FIRST—A high patent flour which is in a class by itself, milled from Bluestem exclusively.

SECOND—Manufactured by the only mill in Clackamas county which makes a hard wheat patent flour.

THIRD—You should patronize a home institution instead of allowing your money to go away from your interests.

Tell your Grocer you want HOWARD'S TRIUMPH

GENERAL FEBRUARY

And What He Brought About

By HARRIET C. THOMPSON

The czars of Russia say that they have two generals on whom they rely to drive out an enemy, these warriors being General January and General February.

Among those flying before the redoubtable General February was Peter Aphonson, a middle aged bachelor, who took a train for Hampton Roads. Mr. Aphonson, sitting one evening, when the first faint balm of spring was coming up from the south, on a bench facing the water, saw a lady pass him whose face seemed vaguely associated with some previous existence. She was walking with an elderly woman, who appeared from a likeness between the two to be her mother. The ladies walked on for some distance, returned, and the elder, seeing the opposite end of the bench from the one on which Aphonson sat unoccupied, insisted on resting there.

Ten minutes later the ladies arose and went on. Aphonson followed them with his eyes till they were lost in the throng of promenaders and still longer with his thoughts. Presently rising, he was about to leave the spot when he saw a purse where they had been sitting. He took it in charge.

Expecting he might find something to give him a clue to the owner, he opened it; but, seeing nothing except money, he closed it again. He had little doubt of finding the lady who had dropped it, for there were not many people at the place and they in a narrow compass. Indeed, the very next morning in a sun parlor of his hotel facing the "roads" he saw the owner of the two ladies sitting alone. Approaching her, he handed her the purse. She thanked him, it seemed to him mechanically, or rather, without surprise.

Place in company a man and a woman, both unmarried, not too old, and ten to one they will sooner or later get on the subject nearest to their hearts. The subject nearest to the hearts of both men and women of middle age is finding some one of the opposite sex with whom to make a home. But they discuss the matter in general terms, carefully steering in the broad current, though sometimes they get to particularizing before they know it.

"Are you married?" asked the lady.

"No, I am not, but I confess I would like to be. I have grown to an age wherein single life has lost its zest. I live at a club and am bored there. But what can I do? Marriage—marriage with mating—is not a matter that can be arranged as one would rent a house or buy an automobile. In my case there is a special obstruction. When I was twenty I was engaged to a young girl, whom I lost. I was then impecunious, and her family would not hear of a match between us. My fiancée relied upon me as to what was best to be done, and I felt it my duty to tell her that we should part. My heart remains with her. Should I marry today honestly would compel me to confess that I could only give a wife a companionable affection.

"I am in very much the same situation," replied the lady. "At nineteen I married a man selected for me by my mother. He was much older than I and wealthy. I could not give him my heart, but at that time I did not consider it obligatory to tell him so. I loved another during my married life of ten years and love that other today. Should I marry I should now feel it incumbent on me to tell the man I married that he must be content with companionship."

In this vein they chatted till noon, when the lady withdrew. They met often after that in the sun parlor. Aphonson gave the widow opportunity to tell him more about herself, but she said she did not take his hints or she was not inclined to give the desired information. One day Aphonson said to her:

"As I told you when we first met, I am very tired of single life. I wish a companion with whom to make a home. I would be pleased to exchange information concerning ourselves with a view to marriage. You understand that my heart was long ago given to another and remains with that other today. I understand the same with regard to you."

"I appreciate the compliment you pay me; but, now that I am free to marry the man of my choice, I will marry no one else."

"Pardon me. I supposed that affair had ended as mine has ended."

"The man who loved me has never married."

"Indeed?"

"No, and I have lately met him."

"Not here?"

"Yes, here. Not long ago while walking with my mother I passed him. He did not recognize me, but I recognized him. Returning we sat down on the same seat with him. In order to bring about a meeting I left my purse on the seat."

"Marion?"

"Yes, I am Marion."

There are certain things about women that puzzle me. Why did Marion recognize me, I not recognizing her? Then why did she resort to a ridiculous subterfuge to draw me to her instead of coming out in a frank, manly— I mean a frank way and making herself known? I don't know. I've been married to her ten years, and every month of this time I have discovered some new feature to puzzle me.

GARDNER ON OLYMPIC TEAM.

Yale's Croak Pole Vaulters Sure to Be Given Place.

Barring accidents, one man who is sure of a place on our Olympic team is Gardner, Yale's croak pole vaulter. He is one of the best developed in his line in many years, and, according to experts, he should carry off the world's honors at the games in Sweden next June. Picture shows Gardner going over the bars at twelve feet eight inches at the Yale-Harvard games in New Haven last May.

Photo by American Press Association.

GARDNER GOING OVER THE BARS

MAHMOUT WORSE THAN GOTCH

Turk's Scissors More Crushing Than Toe Hold, Says Demetral.

William Demetral, the Greek wrestler, coincides in Gotch's view that Yusuf Mahmout, the Turk, is the logical successor to the championship when the Humboldt farmer lays down the title. But Demetral goes the champion one further, declaring that he believes the Turk is even superior to Gotch.

"You hear a lot about Gotch's terrible toe hold. The hold is an awful one," said the Greek recently, "but I have met both men, Gotch on several occasions, and I tell you the Turk's man I married that he must be content with companionship."

In this vein they chatted till noon, when the lady withdrew. They met often after that in the sun parlor. Aphonson gave the widow opportunity to tell him more about herself, but she said she did not take his hints or she was not inclined to give the desired information. One day Aphonson said to her:

"As I told you when we first met, I am very tired of single life. I wish a companion with whom to make a home. I would be pleased to exchange information concerning ourselves with a view to marriage. You understand that my heart was long ago given to another and remains with that other today. I understand the same with regard to you."

"I appreciate the compliment you pay me; but, now that I am free to marry the man of my choice, I will marry no one else."

"Pardon me. I supposed that affair had ended as mine has ended."

"The man who loved me has never married."

"Indeed?"

"No, and I have lately met him."

"Not here?"

"Yes, here. Not long ago while walking with my mother I passed him. He did not recognize me, but I recognized him. Returning we sat down on the same seat with him. In order to bring about a meeting I left my purse on the seat."

"Marion?"

"Yes, I am Marion."

There are certain things about women that puzzle me. Why did Marion recognize me, I not recognizing her? Then why did she resort to a ridiculous subterfuge to draw me to her instead of coming out in a frank, manly— I mean a frank way and making herself known? I don't know. I've been married to her ten years, and every month of this time I have discovered some new feature to puzzle me.

Photo by American Press Association.

Work on the Bull Run Power Plant is being rushed. Three big 6100 horse power dynamos are being installed. It is said that the streets of Sandy will be electrically lighted before many moons.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Philadelphia bars youngsters under eighteen years from boxing.

San Francisco may form an eight or ten team basket ball league.

Ralph Rose, champion shot putter, who is practicing law in San Francisco, weighs 300 pounds, but will start training for the Olympic games.

Indiana, Notre Dame and Michigan will be among the western colleges to be competitors at the University of Pennsylvania relay games to be held in April.

France seems to have another Al Shrubbs in Bouin, the French amateur runner, who holds practically all the records of that country from two miles to the hour mark. Bouin has also lowered some of the Englishman's records.

Volcanic Glass Mirrors.

Ancient people polished obsidium, commonly known as volcanic glass, and used it as a mirror. The woman that owned a mirror in olden times was considered belonging to the nobility or the vulgar rich.

Got it So.

Miss Black—I'm disgusted with my dressmaker. My new costume doesn't fit a little bit!

Miss White—Well, I heard you tell her you wanted it "awful bad."—St. Louis Republic.

CORRESPONDENCE

ELWOOD.

The meadowlarks are warbling lays of Spring.

The Elwoodites have decided the way to have a neighborhood phone is to go to work. Twelve or more have put in 3 or 4 days' work and it will take a few more hard knocks to connect with Estacada.

Mr. Anderson, school supervisor of this section, delivered an able address last Friday afternoon, it being a parents' meeting. A few were present but hope next time more will show their appreciation. The school and home should become more acquainted, each needs the other.

Floyd Dibble, formerly of this place but now a resident of Walton, southern Oregon, is visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. Johnson is making a showing, slashing.

Mr. Anderson spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Johnson.

This vicinity will soon possess two more families who will settle on the railroad land. The more merrier.

Mr. Ziegler and son, who intend building this week on a leased 160 acres, are boarding at Dan Stahlacker's home until buildings can be erected.

Mr. Melike was in Estacada one day last week.

Mr. Beardsley and wife visited friends in Estacada last Friday.

The spelling school here on Friday nights is reported growing more interesting. It is a very good practice. Poor spelling is not excusable now-a-days.

Lewis Vallen was in Oregon City one day last week.

Miss Lulu Miller, teacher employed here, attended the successful teachers' meeting in Estacada Saturday.

SANDY.

R. T. Ditter was in Portland on business last week.

The Sandy hotel has opened a sample room for the convenience of commercial travelers and their customers.

Mrs. Geo. Wolf has returned from a visit in Portland.

Harper Klock has sold his place on the outskirts of the village to the Gresham bank, retired from the meat business and soon expects to move his family to Dallas, Ore.

Alice McGuggin has returned from a visit in Portland.

George Wolf and James Dickson were Portland visitors Saturday.

A teachers' and parents' round-up will be held at the Sandy public school building February 17. A program will be furnished by the pupils.

Wm. Baker, of Portland lectured on the modern interpretation of the bible at Meinig's hall Sunday evening.

Harper Klock and family have been visiting in Gresham and Boring.

A bible study class will be organized at the home of Max Davis Sunday afternoon.

The Sandy bachelors will meet at Dahlgren's store Sunday afternoon.

A dancing party will be given at Meinig's hall Saturday evening, February 10.

Work on the Bull Run Power Plant is being rushed. Three big 6100 horse power dynamos are being installed. It is said that the streets of Sandy will be electrically lighted before many moons.

FIRWOOD.

Mrs. M. Howe and son, Ray, went to Portland last Saturday. Mrs. Howe was contemplating an operation for tumor.

Miss Muir, of Sandy, visited with Mrs. A. Malar Saturday.

Mrs. W. Bosholt's brother and wife,

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, of Powell Valley, visited with her over Sunday.

The educational rally to be held at Sandy, February 17, promises to be a great success and everybody is urged to be present.

C. F. Anderson, of Estacada, stopped over night with W. F. Fischer on his way to Welches, the first of the week.

Mr. Root, of Portland, visited this part of the country last week and called on Mrs. Eva R. Hart.

John Sinclair visited his sister who lives near Portland the first of the week.

Farmers are plowing, getting ready for spring crops.

CLACKAMAS.

A very pleasant occasion was the little party given by Mrs. Fred Paterson Wednesday afternoon, January 21, in honor of the eighty-first birthday of her mother, Mrs. Ann Johnston. The time was spent socially and in listening to reminiscences given by "Grandma," of early pioneer life in Oregon. Mrs. Paterson served a dainty lunch. The invited guests were Mrs. J. R. Landes, Mrs. W. W. Smith, Mrs. J. Pitman, Mrs. Rayner, Mrs. Flannery, Mrs. W. T. Johnston, Mrs. Marion Johnson, Mrs. Richard Johnston, Mrs. Arthur Hardin nee Johnston, Willia Johnston, Mrs. A. O. Hayward.

H. T. Latham and a brother from Chicago, who is visiting him, are to leave soon for California to visit an older brother who is very seriously ill.

MOLALLA.

A special meeting of the Molalla Mutual Telephone association has been called for next Saturday. The object of the meeting is the adoption of by-laws for the new telephone corporation company.

Molalla Grange No. 310 held a regular meeting last Saturday and had a public installation. J. R. Cole was the installing officer. He was assisted by Otis Ray Dougherty. The juvenile grange officers were jointly installed with the subordinate officers. Johnny Echerd, retiring Master of Juvenile Grange No. 3, made his retiring speech to the great satisfaction of all his hearers. No. 310 will hold a special meeting for grange work on the second Saturday of February.

The I. O. O. F. Lodge No. 184, also the United Artisans held their regular January installation of officers at last regular meeting.

The Dibble farms were surveyed last week to establish a disputed line.

L. W. Robbins' residence will be occupied next week.

A brick and tile factory is much needed on the line of the C. S. R. R. between Liberal and Molalla.

E. K. Dart is having land cleared this winter on the west end of his place.

Hotel Arrivals.

The following are registered at the Electric Hotel: John Scott, L. E. Tichenor, J. W. Kirk, J. A. Catlin, Astoria; A. W. Jackson, Portland; L. Charles Lee, Portland; F. W. Kracht, Portland; A. D. Lee, Portland.

MRS. LAWRENCE IS BRIDGE CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Nieta Barlow Lawrence entertained the member of the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club and a few friends at her home on Twelfth and Washington streets, Wednesday afternoon. A most delightful afternoon was enjoyed in playing bridge, the first prize of which was won by Mrs. Charles D. Latourette, while the second prize was won by Mrs. M. D. Latourette. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. The parlors were decorated in China lilies, Oregon grape and ferns, and were very attractive. Indian baskets filled with Oregon grape were used in the reception hall, and festoons of ivy were entwined around the electric lights.

Present were Mrs. Eber A. Chapman, Mrs. E. P. Randis, Mrs. Max Bolack, of Portland; Mrs. J. R. Humphrys, Mrs. Charles D. Latourette, Mrs. A. A. Price, Mrs. H. S. Mount, Mrs. Lena Charman, Mrs. C. D. Latourette, Mrs. L. A. Morris, Mrs. William R. Logus, Mrs. C. H. Meisner, Mrs. J. J. Tobin, Mrs. W. E. Pratt, Mrs. Theodore Osmond, Mrs. W. A. Shevman, Mrs. J. H. Walker, Mrs. O. W. Eastham, Mrs. Schwab, Mrs. H. E. Hendry, Mrs. T. P. Randall, Mrs. E. T. Avison, Mrs. L. E. Jones, Mrs. Rosina Fouts, Miss M. L. Holmes, Miss Marjory Caulfield, and Miss Agnes Watt.

NOT EXPENSIVE

Treatment at Hot Lake, including medical attention, board and baths, costs no more than you would pay to live at any first class hotel. Rooms can be had from 75 cents to $2.50 per day. Meats in the cafeteria are served from 20 cents up and in the grill at the usual grill prices. Baths range from 50 cents to $1.00.

We Do Cure Rheumatism

Hot Lake Mineral Baths and mud given under scientific direction have cured thousands. Write for illustrated booklet descriptive of Hot Lake Sanatorium and the methods employed. Hot Lake Sanatorium is accessible as it is located directly on the main line of the O.W. R. & N. railway, and special excursion rates are to be had at all times. Ask agents.

HOT LAKE SANATORIUM

HOT LAKE, OREGON.
WALTER M. PIERCE, Pres.-Mgr.

Why All Progressive Merchants Are Using Electric Light

Progressive merchants everywhere have found the wonderful MAZDA LAMP an immeasurable benefit to their business. This lamp radiates brilliant white rays nearly like those of the sun. This SUPERIOR QUALITY of artificial light is produced by a rare metal filament that not only radiates a perfect light, but gives nearly THREE TIMES as much light as the ordinary incandescent—and COSTS NO MORE to burn. It is this remarkable combination of facts that is causing thousands of people to have their houses and places of business wired for electric light. In fact, this new MAZDA LAMP is swiftly revolutionizing artificial lighting. It is making electricity the universal illuminant.

PORTLAND RAILWAY, LIGHT & POWER CO.

MAIN OFFICE 7th and Alder Streets