SAVING BY PANAMA ROUTE.

The time saved by changes in the trade routes of the world that will follow the opening of the Panama Canal is exciting the attention of navigation interests the world over. Statistics to show how great will be the saving are thus given in The Hansa, the organ of the Hamburg shipowners:

Table with 2 columns: Present Miles distance, saved. Europe to San Francisco, 13,621, 6,200; Montreal to Sydney, 13,690, 2,788; Europe to Valparaiso, 8,933, 2,100; England to Australia, 9,207, 800; England to New Zealand, 12,725, 1,600.

On the voyage between New York and Shanghai the saving will be 1,400 miles, and between New York and Australia and New Zealand 2,300 miles. Because of the probable changes in navigation routes there will result great changes in the distribution of the coal trade, and English firms are already planning to get

Secretary of State and Mrs. Knox Out For a Winter Walk

AMONG the familiar figures to be seen in Washington, which preserves many of the characteristics of cities of less than half its size, are Secretary and Mrs. Philander C. Knox as they take their "walks abroad." The secretary is a good deal of an outdoor man, being a golf enthusiast, and is devoted, as is Mrs. Knox, to his country home at his native Valley Forge. For the Knoxes have three homes—one in Washington, one in Pittsburgh and one in the picturesque Revolutionary hamlet. At the last, where he spends his summers, he has an estate of 300 acres, which, though a real farm, has on it private links, so that the owner may enjoy his favorite game during his play spells away from the state department.

CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

A cure for intoxication is the latest promulgation of the ever versatile Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. The doctor believes that if every man who drinks were compelled to take out a license there would be a good deal less of the drink evil. "If I had my way," he says, "we would stop charging saloonkeepers huge fees. Why not impose nominal fees and regulate them? Make every person who wants to drink pay a dollar a year for a license. Then let him

"Dollar Diplomacy" Is a Commendable Phrase By PHILANDER C. KNOX, Secretary of State of the United States

NOT only has the United States been rewarded on many occasions by success in its efforts to bring about peaceful accommodations between disputant nations; but, thanks to our own prosperity, we have been potential in contributing to up-build the prosperity of others. Prosperity, like many other things, FOLLOWS THE LINE OF LEAST RESISTANCE, and financial embarrassment may truthfully be regarded as one of the lines of greatest resistance. Where our financial interests have been induced to make this line of resistance less beset with difficulties the department of state has stood ready to give the parties OPPORTUNITY TO GET TOGETHER. We did this with signal advantage to the Dominican Republic. IT IS THE FASHION TO STYLE THIS "DOLLAR DIPLOMACY," THE PHRASE BEING ORIGINALLY INTENDED IN A DISPARAGING SENSE. IT SEEMS, ON THE CONTRARY, TO BE A CREDITABLE AND HAPPY PHRASE. If the American dollar can aid suffering humanity and LIFT THE BURDEN OF FINANCIAL DIFFICULTY from states with which we live on terms of intimate intercourse and earnest friendship and replace insecurity and devastation by stability and peaceful self development all I can say is that it would be HARD TO FIND BETTER EMPLOYMENT.

SPRING COSTUME.

Suit of Violet Cloth That Looks Youthful.

A YOUTHFUL LITTLE SUIT.

This charmingly youthful little suit is of a purple and white mixture, and the tunic skirt shows a simulated underskirt of white ruffine. The jacket is a twenty-six inch affair and of straight youthful line. It has the high front closing and one side lapel. The front is slightly cut away in the new rounded line, and the little embroidered arrows, imitating darts, are very novel. Trimmings of large cloth bound but tonholes and imitation ivory buttons of ball form add chic to the suit.

Little Things That Count. Business woman should not ask favors of their employers. The employer soon begins to feel that there are other things which are of a great deal more importance to the employee than her work. It is the little things which make or do not make the business woman a success. One of the first things to be learned by a young woman is that of being attentive and showing she feels an interest in the work she is taking up and is not interested solely in the salary she will receive.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Metta B. and Joseph Evans to Mrs. T. C. Rice, lot 1 of First Addition to Jennings Lodge; $2,700. Katie and G. C. Heiple to Elsie Linn, 73.73 acres of Hugh Currin D. L. C., township 3 south, range 4 east; $10. Oliver and Mary Robbins to A. B. and Clara Hibbard, land in section 3, township 6 south, range 2 east; $10.

Finger Arithmetic.

The earliest way of counting was by means of the fingers, and in the picture writing of the ancients the drawing of an open hand invariably signified the numeral V. Some nations, indeed, even went so far as to make their week consist of five days. A few tribes were not content to count solely by the fingers alone and added their toes as well. The Aztecs, for example, counted in multiples of twenty and had twenty days in their months. The Roman notation consisted of a ten fingered system, and the X used to signify ten is, after all, only two V's placed point to point or apex to apex, the V typifying five.

The Fad of a Princess.

Princess Patricia has that rare and father day's caricature for caricature which may be described as satire of the pencil, and lately she has been amusing her family circle with some rather daring "take-offs" of themselves. She represents the Duke of Cornwall, her father, in a violent rage, wearing the uniform of a field marshal and calling out, "Where's my horse?" This sketch is framed and hung up in the billiard room at Balmoral. The princess colors her sketches and gives them a dainty and dashing finish, which makes them excellent pictures, apart from their value as portraits. Just occasionally, of course, she has managed to get into trouble with them. What caricaturist does not?

HUMAN AFFAIRS.

If a great change is to be made in human affairs the minds of men will be fitted to it. The general opinions and feelings will draw that way. Every fear, every hope, will forward it, and then they who persist in opposing this mighty current in human affairs will appear rather to resist the decrees of providence itself than the decrees of men.—Edmund Burke.

To Sell Flowers. A cutflower department is the latest addition to the Jones drugstore, and no doubt this will be well patronized. The Betts conservatories at Jennings Lodge has been leased by Alder & Lofge who have decided to have some of their flowers in this city. Many handsome flowers have already been brought to this city by these men, and the opening day will be today, and no doubt the window show-day, and the public. The firm will traction to the public. The firm will do table decorating as well as house decorations for parties or gatherings of any description.
