At the Portland Theatres

LAST CAR LEAVES FOR OREGON CITY AT MIDNIGHT

ROBERT MANTELL, AT THE HEILIG THEATRE.

There will be a feast of Shakespeare at the Heilig Theatre during the week, beginning Monday night, February 19, when Robert B. Mantell, for many years a favorite with Portland playgoers, and very generally conceded to be the greatest living exponent of Shakespeare comes to town. Mr. Mantell, who made a decided impression when here two years ago, returns, and during the eight performances he will give, will be seen in six different plays all by the Bard of Avon with a single exception. Mr. Mantell comes direct from San Francisco, where he is at present appearing to the largest business in his career and with the conclusion of his local engagement, goes to Seattle, Portland being the only city in this state to be visited by him. The Mantell tour this year, which is directed by William A. Brady, is proving the most successful that this sterling actor has ever experienced. He has won unstinted praise everywhere, and his large and distinguished company, which has been recruited from the best dramatic organizations of this country and England, is decidedly the strongest with which he has ever been surrounded. The plays involved in the Portland engagement are "Julius Caesar," "Hamlet," "Merchant of Venice," "Richelleu," "King Lear" and "Othello," all by the master poet, excepting "Richelleu," which is the work of Sir Bulwer-Lytton. "Julius Caesar" is not only the most extensive of the Mantell productions, but it is asserted that the great Roman tragedy has never been so superbly mounted. In addition to the full strength of the Mantell Company of 42 players, nearly 100 men and women supernumeraries are utilized. "Hamlet," long the test by which a classic actor is judged, is one of the best things Mantell does, and his Shylock—the hard-fisted, money-loving usurer of Venice—is one of the Mantell masterpieces.

Mr. Mantell's "Richelleu" and "Othello" are well known and well liked here, and this season are proving among the most popular plays of the repertoire. Mr. Mantell is the only English-speaking actor in the world who annually includes "King Lear," the title role of which is one of the most difficult and exhaustive roles of which is one of the most difficult and exhaustive roles ever given to an actor, in his gallery of portraiture. Many think that in this master work of Shakespeare's, he strikes his highest note.

Seats are now selling for Mr. Mantell's engagement, which, be it noted, begins Monday night. Both matinees will be at special prices.

SCENE FROM "PAID IN FULL."

"PAID IN FULL."

Famous Play to be Seen at the Baker all This Week.

Do you think that you and your wife could live on eighteen dollars a week? In "Paid in Full," which will be seen for the first time at popular prices at the Baker all this week, starting today matinee and including matinees also Wednesday and Saturday.

Joseph Brooks and his wife tried it and failed. Joe is an eighteen-dollar-a-week clerk. He is sour and embittered. His wife, although before her marriage accustomed to luxury, bears the privations of her lot uncomplainingly until one fateful night when she lets Joe see how she has suffered. From that hour he becomes a thief. He steals from the Latin American Steamship Company, the president of which is Captain Williams, a family friend. With the money that he steals Joe and Emma live luxuriantly for a time. The young woman thinks his salary has been advanced. His thefts are discovered. Then to his wife, Joe says: "I've gone the limit for you, now it's up to you to save me." Emma goes to Captain Williams alone at night. This man whose frequent boast has been of his purchase of women, reveals a side of his nature which Emma, in fear of him, had not suspected. Her adventure ends with her returning to her husband with a written statement from the Captain to the effect that the account between Joseph Brooks and the Steamship Company has been "paid in full." She never sees her husband again.

The President's Visit.

Washington, the first president, was inaugurated April 30, 1789. The ceremony was delayed several days while congress disputed as to whether the chief magistrate should have such title as "his excellency," "his highness" or the like. It was decided that he should be simply "the president of the United States."

In Time of Trial.

"In time of trial," said a minister in a Dorchester church during his weekly sermon, "what brings us the greatest comfort?"

"An acquittal," answered a lad in a rear pew, intending to be heard only by his chum. He miscalculated the strength of his vocal organs, however.—Boston Journal.

Still in the Family.

Jack—My grandfather had a fine collection of silver, which he bequeathed to my father on condition that it should always remain in the family.

Ethel—Then you have it still?

PROCLAMATION

To the People of Oregon City

For the past four years, Mr. V. Harris, one of the most reliable dealers in your city, has been handling Royal Table Queen Bread. In 1908 he sold you about 40,000 loaves of it. The sales grew until they averaged close to 125,000 loaves last year.

This Growth Means Something

It means that ROYAL TABLE QUEEN BREAD has PURITY, QUALITY, WHOLESOMENESS AND GOODNESS.

It costs more to make and to sell ROYAL TABLE QUEEN BREAD—more than any other bread on the market. We make less on it—Mr. Harris makes less on it. We could put out an inferior bread and make more money, for a while—at the expense of reputation and honesty. Mr. Harris could handle a cheaper bread, and make more per loaf. But he is willing, and so are we, to sacrifice some profit for the sake of Purity and Quality. ROYAL TABLE QUEEN BREAD COSTS YOU NO MORE—IT'S FIVE CENTS THE LOAF.

Clean, pure, crispy and appetizing; fresh every day. Order it.

A Famous Fresco.
Michelangelo's fresco in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican completely covers the vaulted roof, which measures 133 feet in length and 43 feet in width. This painting delineates the creation of man, his fall and the early history of the world, with a reference to man's final redemption and salvation.

Where Latin is Still Spoken.

In the central part of the Balkans, far up in the mountains between Bulgaria, Servia and Turkey, there is a community of mountaineers among whom strangers seldom go. During the ascendancy of the Roman empire a Roman colony was founded here and then forgotten on account of its remoteness. For the reason that the descendants of those ancient colonists have never mixed with the people about them they retain their original characteristics, even to the language. In several villages the Latin that the peasants speak is so plain that students of classic authors can understand them.

JUDGMENT.

Judgment and reason have been grand jury men since before Noah was a sailor.—Shakespeare.

Foolish men imagine that because judgment for an evil thing is delayed there is no chance, but an accident alone, here below. Judgment for an evil thing is many times delayed some day or two, some century or two, but it is sure as life, it is sure as death.—Carlyle.

Heading Them Off.
Mrs. Villadom—Why do you want to call on the Romans tonight? Mr. Villadom—Because if we don't they're certain to come over here. It will be easier to go home when we're tired of them than to ask them to go home.
