Mrs. W. H. Dewar, Fencer Who Won International Laurels

THE Colony Club of New York was recently the scene of an exciting fencing match between the Baroness de Meyer of England and Mrs. William H. Dewar of Philadelphia, the contestants representing the women of England and the United States respectively. The baroness had been anxious for some time to meet a worthy antagonist among American society women, and, though, in the nature of things, it is impossible to name a champion fencer among the women of the United States and England, the victory of Mrs. Dewar may be said to entitle her to that complimentary distinction. The match lasted only seven minutes and was decided by the judges (who were men, though the Colony is a women's club) as having been won by the American by a score of 2 to 1. Mrs. Dewar has been studying for five years under the direction of a professional teacher of fencing and has had frequent practice with the members of the University of Pennsylvania team and of the Fencers' club of Philadelphia. The prize of the Colony club contest was a silver cup given by Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Green and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, of this city.

CANDIDATES FOR AUTO WORK HARD

Ford at the Elliott Garage, who are the agents for this popular line of cars. The lines of this new model car are beautiful indeed and the mechanism of all Ford cars is the essential thing that makes them the most popular of all the makes. Their ability and durability as well as their low cost of maintenance is well known in this county where more than one-half of the automobiles owned are Fords.

In addition to the awarding of this grand prize the Enterprise will give a series of other valuable prizes to the different contestants for the largest number of votes obtained in certain periods. These extra contests will be held every ten days and the contestant who makes the best showing in that time will be awarded a handsome prize. The first of these contests started Monday and will close the first of March. To the one who gets the most votes in that period will be presented a merchandise certificate for $15 which will entitle him his choice of $15 worth of merchandise in one of the prominent stores of the city.

The standings of the candidates in the automobile race will have no bearing on the $15 merchandise certificate contest although every vote cast by a candidate in his efforts to gain this $15 worth of merchandise free will be credited to his standing for the big prize. In these ten day contests each contestant start out alike and the prize goes to the one who turns in the largest number of votes in that time. These special contests are held for the benefit of those who want a chance to win valuable prizes for a little work and do not have the time to keep in the big race. Any one can enter the ten-day contests at any time, but no votes can be transferred to another candidate for the automobile, at the end of the ten days.

The big ballot box is now ready at the Enterprise office and the contents will be closely guarded. Every effort will be made to make this contest fair to every one. At the final count a committee of prominent men will be chosen to count the ballots, and everything pertaining to the contest will be carried on in the fairest possible manner. There is yet time to enter your name. As long as the nomination blanks appear each entrant will receive one thousand free votes when nominated. At least you can enter today and get the free $15 merchandise certificate on the first of March.

JUDGE LOWELL SCORES INTERESTS

settled is, how to retire business interests from politics without destroying the financial and industrial fabric of the nation. As lives of nations are measured we are 136 years old and still in our infancy. Popular government is still an experiment and the responsibility is on you and me and it is our duty to see that this experiment does not result in failure.

"The last commandment is the foundation of government and never will government of the people come until this commandment is obeyed."

"There is an uplift of manhood everywhere. Thrones are toppling and we now see the blue blood of royalty sitting by the fireside of the average man. Unless we as citizens and brethren dedicate ourselves to these truths there will be no government. There is nothing sacred about government. It is only an experiment. It is for us the average men, to say what shall be done to protect ourselves from the power of money and if we do not arise to the occasion our government will fall as thousands of governments have failed in the past."

"We have seen government fail in Turkey and the oppressed have arisen against the oppressors. We have seen it in Mexico and I tell you that we do not understand the inner truth of this great struggle for independence of the downtrodden in our sister republic whose citizens are fighting for government by the people. China has become enlightened and while the present government may not last it will be re-formed and new ideas will have been injected and Holy Writ will be the underlying principle."

"In Germany we see the rule of socialism but the socialism of Germany is but the insurgency of America. The absolutism of Germany will not last forever and the time will come when she will take her place with France and America, in government by the average man."

"The fallacy of the Divine Right of Kings of the feudal ages is extant in England and we have the spectacle of American wealth presuming to bow to the throne of England, at the recent coronation, making themselves ridiculous in the hearts of the true American citizen."

Judge Lowell paid a tribute to David Lloyd George, who, he said, had the courage of his convictions in a monarchy and who had the strange position of a man who reached out with one hand to aid the oppressed while with the other he curbed the throne.

"Existing politics," continued Judge Lowell, "are the politics of the day. I shall not talk partisan politics but the time has come when questions must be settled, not by wealth and power, but by the average man who will awake and settle the matter of the franchise."

"The average man when seeking relief from the power of the predatory interests has ever been confronted with an insidious power, that of absolutism. It is not by the shedding of blood that this great question of popular government should be settled but by the use of intelligence and the free use of the pen. If the solution is not by study and thought then I warn you that the common people of which you and I are a part will, in another generation arise and a deluge of blood will result if the power of the interests continues."

"This is the time of universal peace but Providence may yet have a use for the shot and cannon. I am not an alarmist. But I do appeal to you one and all as American citizens to do your duty and assist in every way possible in solving the problem of government. It requires the wisdom of every man in the nation.

"In our own state of Oregon we accept the Oregon system as wise because it is a movement toward a non-partisan democracy. It is safer than the old system but the pendulum has swung too far. While we must sustain the direct primary, yet it must be modified and made an instrument valuable to us. There are two or three things in the direct primary law that I wish to call to your attention."

"Registration may be made by a notary public, at the court house or by the signatures of five signers. Why not let the assessor register the voters in his trips about the country. Then it is all done at once and if there are any omissions it is easy to correct them. There is great abuse in registration of voters on election day by obtaining the signatures of five freeholders. If a man is not patriotic enough to register when he ought to register then he should not be permitted to vote at the eleventh hour."

"The initiative and referendum I believe are wise but I am fearful that unless there is a restriction placed on the initiative it may topple over. It is not wise to present to the people the consideration of forty measures at once to vote upon. I believe that there should not be more than seven questions to vote upon at a single election. There is no harm in the referendum, it is merely a check on the Legislature."

Judge Lowell in closing, heartily endorsed the Panama Canal project and predicted a world-wide change in the policies of European and Asiatic countries as a result, stating that eventually the across-the-water nations would have as the fundamental principles all those principles that our fathers fought for. He closed his remarks with an appeal to all to dedicate themselves to the cause of Liberty as did the great Lincoln.

The initial remarks of the evening were made by R. C. D. Johnston in behalf of the National Guardsmen of Oregon City, urging that the matter of an army be seriously considered by the members of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Johnston stated that the National Guardsman was the most misunderstood man in the country and speaking from experience as an officer, he said:

"There is nothing done for the guardsmen here in Oregon City and I would advocate that you gentlemen study the needs of this branch of the army. In the event of war ninety per cent of the men who go to the front are those men who come from the guardsmen. The National Government put it up to the state.

"We need an army here. One-third of the expenses are borne by the state, one-third by the city and one-third by the county, but the army belongs finally to the county. An army for the guardsmen here could be used not only for drilling but could be made a center of civic activities. At the same time a swimming tank and gymnasium could be installed which would attract the young men of our city and provide for them a place for recreation."

"On behalf of the National Guardsmen of Oregon City I ask you of the Congregational Brotherhood to interest yourselves in this all important subject."

Mr. Johnston's appeal met a cordial reception and the matter was freely and favorably discussed after the meeting.

Professor Gary called upon Judge Grant B. Dimick to introduce Attorney Q. L. Matthews, of Portland, who spoke on the subject, "The King's Garden" dwelling particularly upon the importance of work in the lives of men. He stated that the only way God can manifest himself is through man. Work, he said, is something done because it ought to be done. Urging the necessity of work he felt constrained to dwell on the importance of play.

"We are all playing the game of money," said Mr. Matthews. "It is a game of chess. The weak, the needy, the afflicted are the worn out pawns and the strong, the monied interests, are the players.

"Teach your boy how to work for the good of his fellow man. Do not teach him to fight but to co-operate, for co-operation is the law of life."

Mr. Matthews scored the trusts and said that we had learned the falsity of the old saying, "Competition is the life of trade." He said it has been recently proven in the trust investigations that "competition is the death of trade."

"We in Portland are not working, we are playing. The plans offered by Mr. Bennett have met with various objections on account of some petty graft. Work is the solution."

Rev. Edwards suggested in a few remarks that at future meetings papers be prepared on whatever subject tending along the lines of what others of the country are doing toward an upward movement. He announced that the basement of the church is to be converted into a hall 46x60 feet to be used for various social purposes. He advocated for the better interests of the club that six Sunday nights be devoted to social and civic discussions.

C. A. Goodrich, District Fruit Commissioner of the First Oregon District, predicted that the near future will see East Clackamas county covered with a multitude of orchards and urged that trees be kept clean.

A recitation by William McLarty, "Betsy and I Are Out" caused much merriment.

Rev. Dr. Ford endorsed most heartily the remarks of Judge Lowell saying that "We are in need of a leader and never before was leadership more needed. We need a pathfinder, not a pulse feeler," suggesting that Judge Lowell was the man to take up the cudgels for better and popular government.

Other speakers were Rev. Landsborough, Rev. Haworth, Judge Dye, J. H. Henderson, B. Vedder and Prof. Tooze. Music was furnished by Leon Des Larzes and Harless Ely, violens and Oscar Woodfin, piano accompanist.

The banquet was furnished by the ladies and was much commented on for its excellence. The tables were prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

It was announced that the March meeting would be Agricultural Night and each Big Brother was expected to bring a Little Brother.

By Jupiter, Take This.
The letter "R" at the head of all prescriptions is derived from the Latin word recipe, the imperative meaning "take." The little dart over the tail of the "R" is the symbol of Jove, or the Latin god Jupiter, and invests the writer with his authority--by the power of Jupiter. Therefore the sign properly reads, "By Jupiter, take this."

Quick Retort.
Paola has a bill collector noted for his repartee. "I never will pay you," shouted a young man who became an gry at the insistent demands of the collector. "Nor any one else," was the reply.--Kansas City Journal.

The Horsefly.
The horsefly is the most cruel and bloodthirsty of the entire fly family. He is armed with a most formidable weapon, which consists of four lancets so sharp and strong that they will penetrate leather. He makes his appearance in June. The female is armed with six lancets, with which she bleeds both cattle and horses and even human beings.
