

Ladies' Conversation

MRS. B.—Did you notice the distinct styles and patterns in those Ladies' Plain Tailored Spring Suits shown at LEVITT'S Store.

MRS. J.—Yes, I have heard much praise of those suits; on their Fit, Style, Quality, and on my personal investigation found them to be the very latest from New York's best fashion shops.

MRS. B.—I must call at MR. LEVITT'S and see about getting my new Spring suit, as I want something different from the common suits that you find everywhere.

the late E. D. Kelly, has returned to his home, Mrs. Kelly and son, Robert, having preceded him several days ago. They also visited Dr. and Mrs. George Hoeye for several days, Mrs. Kelly being a niece of Mrs. Hoeye. Mr. Kelly is associated with his father-in-law Robert Hughes, formerly of Oregon City, in a large farm near Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes also residing at that place.

Hon. H. E. Cross, who left hurriedly on legal business for Baker, Ontario and The Dalles, returned to Oregon City Tuesday evening. Mr. Cross was delayed ten hours on the Blue Mountains owing to a severe snow storm, and it was necessary to have snow shovels out to clear the snow from the tracks. Mr. Cross stated that there is considerable work being done on the projected railroad to extend east and west. There are about 200 men employed in the Malheur canyon and the work of blasting the immense rocks is being pushed at a rapid rate. Mr. Cross says for climate there is nothing to compare with that of Clackamas county. The prospects for large crops is bright in The Dalles and other points visited by Mr. Cross.

THE VERY LATEST.

Milady's Necktie Reaches to the Waist Now.

Neckties have been growing longer and longer, and now the really smart bow has ends to the waist. Sometimes these ends pass through buttoned slits in the waists, as illustrated here, or they may be slipped beneath corsets or other ornaments.

Concerning Women.

A bachelor who died a few days ago at Frankfurt, Germany, left an endowment for a unique annual prize. This prize of $125 is to be given to the man who weds the ugliest woman. If the woman is lame as well as ugly the bridegroom will receive an additional $125.

Miss Margaret V. Kelly is Uncle Sam's highest paid woman official. She gets $3,000 a year. She is assistant director of the mint. Actually the secretary of the treasury has little to do with our coin. Miss Kelly attends to that. There are but four persons between her and the secretary of the treasury, and in their absence she runs things. Really, she does that anyway every day in the year.

The Toothbrush league of Baltimore is said to have been thought out and organized by two trained nurses when the playgrounds were opened at the beginning of the season. The object is to encourage children in the care of their teeth. The members at present number 1,000. They have all been taught how to use their toothbrushes and have entered a contest for the best kept teeth. Prizes will be awarded in each branch of the league.

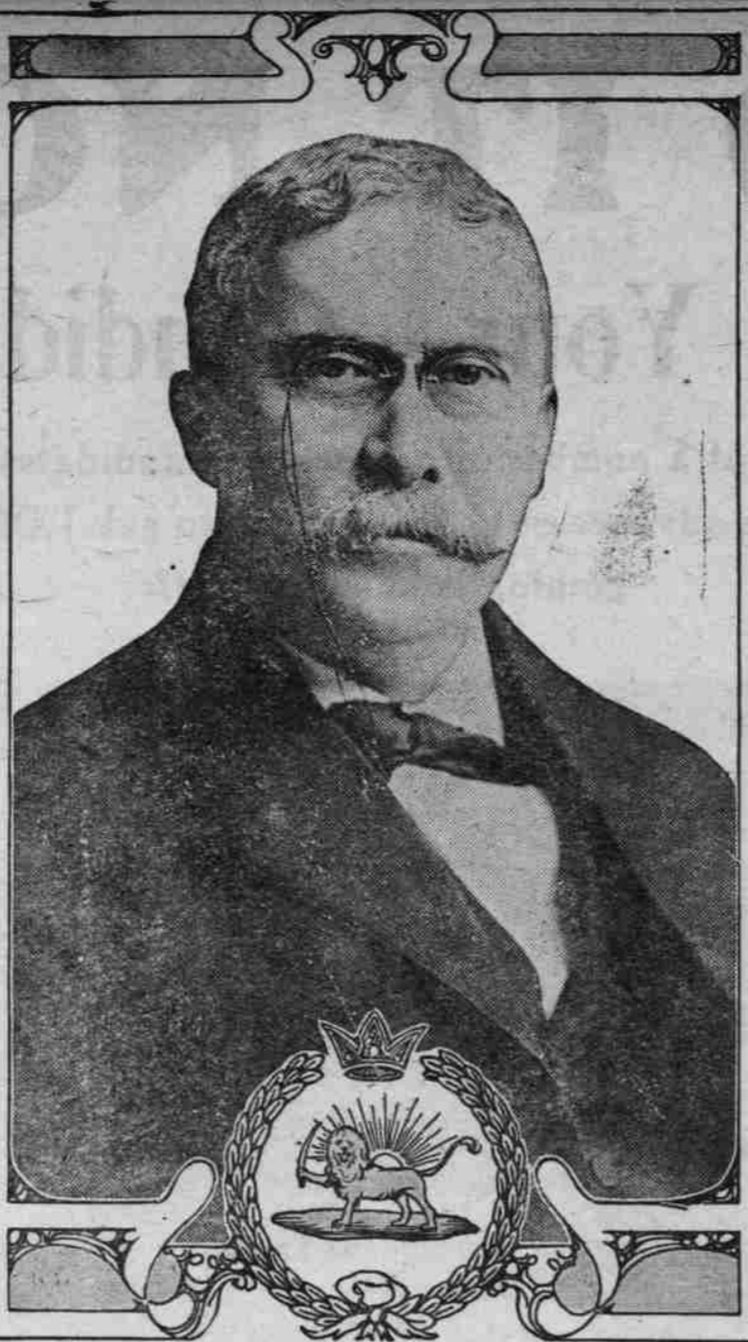

Lady Duff Gordon says that the Parisienne is losing all her taste and style and that English women dress very much better. She says that a man in Paris has invented a sort of funnel affair that is on the order of the crinoline, and there is no telling to what extremes Paris women may go before the end of the present winter. English women are said to disdain the idea of crinoline, but no doubt its appearance in Paris would soon be followed by its adoption by both English and American women.

Ida Lewis and Punch. The late Ida Lewis, keeper of the Lime Rock light at Newport, saved many sailors from drowning and saved many, too, from drunkenness. She once rebuked a half dozen sailors who were preparing to brew a bowl of strong punch.

"It will get you into trouble," she said. "These strong punches always do. A fine young sailor—but he's filling a drunkard's grave today—once offered me a glass of punch, saying: "Drink it, ma'am. It's food and drink in one." "Yes," said I, "and a night's lodging as well if you take enough of it."—Exchange.

Hard Smokers. The champion cigar smoker in Paris kept a cigar alight for two hours and seventeen minutes. Nothing is said as to the length of the cigar. It was a California miner who wagered that he would smoke six cigars, six cigarettes and six pipes of strong tobacco within an hour. He accomplished the task, was seized with an attack of heart failure immediately afterward and never smoked again. The tenor Mario smoked from twenty-five to thirty ordinary sized cigars a day, and in Italy, where he could not obtain Havanas, he used to smoke daily a hundred Cavaurs. They say that Edwin Booth smoked twenty-five cigars a day. Mark Twain ran him close.—Boston Herald.

Effectually Suspended. Only one dog has ever had the audacity to enter parliament during the proceedings. A hundred years ago the lords were thrown into consternation by a dog's entry. Lord North was addressing the house, and the dog promptly proceeded to bark furiously at him. Lord North, considerably upset, moved that the member who was interrupting him should be suspended. Thereupon the dog was driven out and suspended in such a manner that he never interrupted again. London Opinion.

CHARLES W. RUSSELL, AMERICAN MINISTER AT TEHERAN

MOST of Minister Russell's professional life has been spent in the service of the United States department of justice, with which he was connected for twenty years, rising from a clerkship to a position of such trust that he was chosen to investigate the title to the Panama canal and to effect the transfer of the property to the United States, to act as legal adviser to the government of the canal zone and to investigate charges of peonage in the southern states. He was assistant attorney general when he was appointed in 1909 to represent the United States at Teheran, Persia.

ROAD SUPERVISOR COMMITS SUICIDE

formed that his brother had not been there began a systematic search for him. While walking through the pasture he noticed a coat hanging on a fence. The body was found near the coat.

That Sharp carefully planned taking his life was shown by a letter which he left. He wrote that he could not make a success of the road work because sufficient money was not available, and he feared that he would be criticized.

Sharp lived on a farm which was a part of a claim taken up by his father many years ago, with his aged mother and brothers, Alfred, Frank, Edward and Walter. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Minerva Mays, of Willamette, and two who live in Seattle. The funeral will be held at the home at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

KENT WILSON HEADS HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

At a meeting of the students of the Oregon City high school Tuesday afternoon Kent Wilson was elected captain and Gilbert Morris manager of the 1912 baseball team. The outlook for a winning team is not flattering at present as almost all of the old players have left school and new material will have to be developed. Some of the promising players who will try for the team are: Dunagy, Beatie, Dambach, Morris, Griffin, Hedgez, Quinn, Kelly, Roland, Holmes, McKilligan, Betzel, Quait, Green, Farr, Mathewson, Gregg and Wilson. Professor Pfingston will coach the team this year.

An Ironing Tip.

Here is a solution for ironing a buttoned frock, shirt or, in fact, any garment that has a row of buttons. Fold a Turkish towel into several thicknesses. Lay the garment with the buttons downward on the towel and iron it on the wrong side. The buttons will sink into the towel, and the garment will be smooth and well ironed.

Points for Mothers

Oil Bath For Baby. This story begins like a fairy tale. It is not a fairy story at all, but a plain statement of a very important subject—the oil bath for a delicate child.

Once upon a time there was born a tiny baby. At birth this little mite of humanity weighed less than five pounds, and the physician, nurse and parents all despaired of her life.

The child's mother was a frail, delicate little woman, who, after a few weeks, was forced to stop nursing her infant daughter.

It was only by the most infinite care that baby's life was saved when this calamity befell her. Pure fresh cow's milk was modified and pasteurized, and a careful study of proportions a food at last found that agreed with the little one.

Even then much difficulty was encountered trying to get the baby to feed from a nursing bottle, and the troubles of mother and nurse were many.

Baby lost weight, not much, but a gradual decrease was noticed until one week showed a loss of one and a half ounces.

It was while the mother was bathing her tiny baby one morning that an old colored woman who had nursed the mother and grandmother before her came in to see the new arrival in the family.

It only took a minute for old "Mammy Harriet" to see the condition of the child. Raising both hands to her head, she said: "Land, honey, you must rub dat chile wif goose grease if you wants her to live! Yes, ma'am, rub her all over wif nice warm goose grease an' git some fat on her pore little bones."

Old Mammy Harriet then went on to tell how one of her little charges had been very near the borderland of heaven when she had started to rub the child with goose fat or mutton tallow every day, and how it had waxed fat and strong as a result of the treatment. The little mother thought it no harm to try, but instead of using animal fat she warmed a tablespoonful of olive oil and bathed the baby's body all over with it just before the little one was put to bed.

A few days showed a marked change, and at the end of the week she had regained the lost ounce and a half. Physicians agree that the oil bath is excellent for delicate children.

When the child is very puny it is a mistake to bathe the body every day with warm water, using soap. A lather of soap removes the natural oils from the skin, thus decreasing the rate of the body.

Cleanse all soiled portions of the baby's body with warm water and a little pure soap, but give a sponge bath of clear tepid water over the rest of the body. At bedtime give baby a thorough rubbing with pure warm olive oil.

This is a good rule to follow when older children are recovering from an illness, are suffering from pulmonary troubles or are anemic.

An oil bath taken daily will put flesh on a person as nothing else will do. Try it for your delicate child.

The Baby's Pen.

In such a device a mother may place her little one, with its toys, and the child will be quite content for hours at a time, while the mother is saved worry and anxiety by knowing that her baby is safe.

Have you ever noticed an older person walking on the street pulling a child along by the arm? Have you stopped to remark on the way in which the little arm is held, so high that the child's whole weight is resting on the shoulder, muscle which connects the arm to it? Or perhaps you are one of the groups who help children along in that way. If you are just stop to think of what you are doing.

The strain put on that young muscle, much more tender than is your own arm, for instance, is enough to cause the muscle to give way. No child should be hurried along. He knows just how fast he can walk, and it is only harmful to force or to drag him. Lifting him by the arm or arms in such a way might result in permanent injury.

Here is another suggestion to save the young muscles from overdoing: A child should never be allowed to lift or to carry anything which he cannot raise with the greatest ease. Such straining has been known to result in injury that undermined the health for a lifetime.

"Baby Bunting" Sleeping Garment. Now that the healthful habit of sleeping out of doors has become so general that even the tiniest babies take their daytime naps as well as all night sleeps in the open many devices for keeping their little bodies properly protected are suggested in the shops. One of the most attractive seen is a sliplike garment called a "baby bunting," fashioned of white elderdown, with edges bound in ribbon, pink or blue. The garment is closed below the feet, and the head is covered with a red riding hood cap, snug and close. Opening the little wrapper in front, baby is slipped in and kept there with only the wee face visible. The garment is sleeveless, thus preventing the possibility of cold hands.

THE TEACHER.

If you would lift me up you must be on higher ground. If you would liberate me you must be free. If you would correct my false view of facts hold up to me the same facts in the true order of thought.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

BAND CONCERT AT AURORA DELIGHTS

One of the most delightful musical entertainments ever given at Aurora was held Saturday evening under the auspices of the Aurora band of which Professor J. Alba Sager, of this city, is leader. The hall was crowded, its capacity with an appreciative audience, and much praise was given the band as well as the leader for the fine program. Professor Sager had twenty-five years' experience in band and orchestra work before coming to this city, and is one of the best conductors in Oregon. The program given at Aurora was as follows: "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Light Cavalry," F. vonSuppe, "Wedding of the Winds," (a) "Pilgrim's Chorus from Tanhauser," Wagner, (b) "Evening Star" from Tanhauser, Wagner, Keler Bela, Overture "Bridal Rose," C. Lavalle, Clarinet Duet "Two Little Bull-fleches," H. C. Miller, Overture "Normandie," Messrs. Ell Kell and Peter Roebek, "Yankee Hash," H. C. Miller.

MISSIONARY WORK SOCIETY'S THEME

A meeting of the missionary society of the Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mrs. McGeehan on Seventh Street Tuesday afternoon, and "Missionaries among the Indians" was discussed. Mrs. Frank Moore was leader of the meeting. She was followed by Mrs. E. P. Story, Mrs. J. R. Landsborough, Mrs. C. Schuebel and Mrs. R. S. V. Brown. After the routine of business was transacted the election of officers was held, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. J. R. Landsborough; Vice-President, Mrs. Geo. Brownell; Secretary, Mrs. Frank Moore; Box Secretary, Mrs. D. C. Bely; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. A. E. Frost; Treasurer, Mrs. N. W. Brownland; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. C. Schuebel. Mrs. McGeehan played several selections on the piano, which were greatly appreciated. Luncheon was served. The next meeting of the society will be held on the last Tuesday of the month.

EXPERTS IN FRUIT GROWING TO SPEAK

M. J. Lazelle is chairman of the committee appointed to arrange for a big horticultural meeting to be held in Twilight hall Saturday evening, when W. K. Newell, president of the State Board of Horticultural Society, E. C. Williamson, secretary of State Board of Horticultural Society, A. C. Goodrich, commissioner of the First Horticultural District of Oregon, O. E. Freytag, fruit inspector of Clackamas county will be present. The meeting was called for the purpose of interesting the fruit growers of Twilight and vicinity, and there is no doubt that there will be a large attendance. Addresses will be made on "Spraying and Pruning." Twilight is one of the best fruit sections of the county.

GOVERNOR WEST TO ADDRESS BROTHERHOOD

A. E. Frost, Secretary of the Presbyterian Brotherhood, received a letter from Governor West Tuesday accepting an invitation to address the brotherhood at its banquet March 12. Governor West's subject will be, "Prison Policy." The executive is expected to explain in detail his method of reforming convicts and making good citizens of them. The banquet will be the most important of the year, and a large attendance is expected. The Woman's quartet and Miss Kathleen Harrison will render several selections.

SENIORS TO GIVE 'HARD TIMES' PARTY

The seniors of the High School will give a "Hard Times Social" to their friends at 8 o'clock Saturday evening at Woodmen Hall. All guests are expected to wear old clothes and look as "tough" as possible. They must act "nice," however. The entertainment will be informal and everybody is expected to abandon formalities and assist in having a good time. The invitations are in perfect accord with the "hard times" idea. They are printed on common brown paper, and the type is arranged in every way conceivable but the right way. However, it is not difficult to determine the purport of the printed matter. Each member of the class has the privilege of inviting two friends.
