NATIONAL GUARD WHEN IN SERVICE.

Under the present law the National Guard is subject to active service whenever the president calls for it in any state, territory, or the District of Columbia, to be employed with the forces of the United States. The president specifies in his call the period of time of such service, and the organized militia, thus summoned to the field, serves for the time named, within or without the territory of the United States, unless sooner relieved by the president's order. By the existing national law, approved 1903 and amended in 1908, the president is empowered to call out the national guard, according to the military needs of the federal government arising from the necessity to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrection and repel invasion, when such emergencies can not be met by the regular forces. In a word the National Guard is subject to the president's call, and can be sent to the field, in or out of the country, along with the regular army.

The misconception on this point is due to the fact that the militia, during the Spanish war, was not available for immediate duty at the president's call, but was first mustered in as state volunteers, to be again mustered later on into the government service. But now the president's call sends the National Guard at once into active service, and beyond the national boundaries if demanded by the course of events. The organized militia, in this way, is called into active service in advance of the raising of any volunteer forces. Members of the National Guard are subject to this immediate service for the term covered by commissions and terms of enlistment, and hold themselves in readiness for active service at once at the president's discretion under the militia law as it now stands.

SPECIAL CONTEST TO CLOSE TODAY

Your chances of winning are as large as the other fellows'. It's up to you. If you want a new up-to-date automobile, grasp your opportunity, get in the game and win. It means work, and perhaps lots of it, but the things worth getting are worth working for. Bend your name today—show yourself and your friends what you can do. At least you can win one of the special prizes. The time to read the Morning Enterprise is at the breakfast table or a little before.

STREET ROUTE CHANGE ENJOINED BY COURT

A perpetual injunction has been granted the plaintiffs in the suit of Rose Whitcomb, Kate L. Charman, Dora Conklin and others against the town of Milwaukie, and W. Counsel, against the changing of the route of a street. The plaintiffs alleged that the city had planned to shift the street twenty-seven feet south from their claim. They said the thoroughfare should be located on the north line of the Lot Whitcomb donation Land Claim, and that the proposed route would interfere with the operation of a tannery. The decision in the circuit court was in favor of the defendants, but the Supreme Court decided for the plaintiffs. Dimick & Dimick represented the plaintiffs.

REBELS IN JUAREZ TO BE GIVEN FULL SWAY. MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—No immediate steps will be taken to dislodge the rebels from Juarez, either by siege or battle. Instead, the government will devote its energies to cleaning up the district about Torreon and Chihuahua. This, according to the best information obtainable, was the conclusion reached at the meeting of President Madero's Cabinet today after the difficulties of starving out the Juarez insurrectionists had been canvassed thoroughly.

Don'ts For the Woman of Forty. "When we are forty there isn't any reason why we should look it." So said a beauty lecturer recently in one of her "talks," and the following are some of her "don'ts" to the woman who would rejuvenate herself: "Every time you lose your temper or grow whining or irritable you add to your age in appearance. Whenever you feel angered remember to relax your jaw, and the feeling will disappear. "If you live in the past you are sure to look older than you are. Women who are continually referring to things they used to do are going backward and not forward. Can you imagine a chicken after being hatched longing to get back to its shell? The whole impetus of the world is forward. "Then people who lack imagination are always tiresome, and that means they seem old. "Never elevate your eyebrows when you talk and don't feel too sympathetic, hold hands and sway together as some women do when they are gushing over each other. A woman doesn't mean anything by that, and the next day if you needed her she wouldn't be on hand, for she would be swaying with some other woman. "Change your style of dress and the way you do your hair and get out of any habit or rut you may have fallen into. Get a new dressmaker and milliner and decide to wear something different from anything you have had before. That will make you feel younger and give you a new interest in life. Habits are the signs of age. "And remember that there is no such thing as age in charm and that the characteristics of the woman of sixty are quite as attractive as those of a young girl."

Recipe For Chapped Lips. A favorite prescription among druggists is made as follows: Take lard, sixteen parts; cacao oil, twenty-four parts; spermaceti, eight parts; yellow wax, three parts; stearic acid, one part. Put these over a fire, preferably in a double boiler, and fuse them for fifteen minutes at a gentle heat, strain through a cloth and add one-fifteenth part of oil of bitter almonds, and if a pleasing odor is desired, one-sixth part each of oil of bergamot and oil of lemon. Pure rendered mutton tallow is held by many to possess excellent healing qualities for chaps.

Tonic For White Hair. Pour a half pint of boiling water over a tablespoonful of powdered castile soap. Add a pinch of borax, the beaten whites of two eggs and a teaspoonful of lysterine. Only lukewarm water should be used on white hair and no heat used in the drying process. Curling irons should never touch such hair, as the extreme heat will cause it to break and fall off, leaving it in a ragged, uneven condition. In rinsing white hair always use the coolest water possible, and to the last water add a little dissolved ultramarine blue.

A Beauty Tip. If the circulation is defective try some simple hand exercises. Clapping them rhythmically, twisting the fingers with a different interlacing every time, shaking them loose from the wrists—all these will help to bring the blood to the furthest confines of the finger tips, and external care will do the rest.

A Browning Anecdote. In Lilhan Whiting's "The Brownings" occurs this anecdote: "In the last days in Venice Browning was reading to his son and daughter-in-law that 'Epilogue' which sums up his own attitude to life and its problems—the familiar verse beginning, 'One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward,' and, pausing at the stanza, said, 'It seems almost like praising myself to say that, and yet it is true, the simple truth, and so I shall not cancel it.'"

SPICY SPORT CHATS

By TOMMY CLARK.

While it is unnecessary for the authorities to prevent the average boxing bout on the ground of threatened brutality, yet in the case of the proposed encounter between Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn the Nevada officials would be entirely justified in intervening, not because of any danger of brutality, but because it would be a deliberate attempt to obtain money under false pretenses. When two pugilists are matched and the public is asked to pay to see them in the ring the inference is that the ticket buyers are to have a fair return for their money. The match should be one in which each contestant, on form at least, has a chance to win. True, there have been many bouts in which the contestants were apparently well matched, but in which one or the other of the boxers has been overwhelmed by his opponent. But in the case of Johnson and Flynn the Pueblo fireman has no more chance to win than a white mouse would have against a Maltese cat of the female persuasion. The records of the men, their weight, size, boxing skill, ring generalship and, in fact, all pugilistic qualifications, are so unequal that no one would be justified in betting a stage dollar on the chances of the white man. The whole thing is merely a scheme to get the money of the public through the medium of the reputation of Johnson.

When Bill Donovan, the star pitcher of the Detroit Americans, gave it as his opinion that big Ed Walsh was the best pitcher in the world he stepped on the toes of the New York critics, who naturally think that this honor belongs to Christy Mathewson, and yet Donovan's assertion is well based. There is no pitcher who has worked in as many games every season as Walsh. Though he has had a mediocre team behind him most of the time, he has been in over fifty games nearly every season, while other pitchers seldom go much over the thirty mark. So far as value to a team is concerned, Walsh really is in a class by himself. Not only does he frequently pitch three full games in a week, but he is apt to be used to save two or three others that some of the other pitchers have started. If Walsh was with a high class ball team he would make a wonderful record in the matter of victories, but the Sox, with one or two exceptions, have been a rather poor ball team every season. Even in 1906, when the Sox won the pennant, it was far from being a team of stars, and it was Walsh more than any one else who was responsible for his team's victory that year.

When Abe Attell embarked on his career he was handled by Jack McKenna, a boy who could take care of himself. Abe fought Jack Dempsey in Denver and at the end of the twentieth round the referee, a tall, lanky youth, held both hands up, signifying a draw. In a flash McKenna was in the ring with both fists doubled. Rushing over to the official, he yelled, "Hey, you boob, what did you say?" The frightened referee gave McKenna one look and then announced: "Gentlemen, a slight correction: Mr Attell wins."

When Matt McGrath, the champion hammer and weight thrower will be on the Olympic team. Now that Matt McGrath, the policeman-athlete of New York, has announced that he will surely accompany the American team to Sweden next June the Yankee aggregation is assured of several points. Until recently he was not certain of being able to go abroad owing to business reasons. McGrath has a tight hold on the sixteen pound hammer and the fifty-six pound weight titles and appears a sure winner in these events. The Logical Woman. Euphemias—Professor, I suppose you would be afraid to marry a logical woman. Professor—Oh, no; if she was really logical I could convince her once in a while.—Exchange. The Natural Part. "She seems to be a natural flirt," he said. "Natural" the woman impatiently replied. "There's nothing natural about her but her framework."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE YEAST IN YOU

Discouraged? Then you are pretty sure to amount to something, because— The man who is not discouraged is satisfied, and the man who is satisfied does not try. Satisfaction with oneself and one's condition in life means that one has stopped growing, because growing means trying, effort, ambition. Biography proves it. The men who have got up in the world are the men who, through discouragements that would have stopped the average man, have gone on trying. There was Napoleon. As a boy his heart was sore when the other students of the engineering school called him "the runt." Even after he had won some of his greatest victories he was tempted to commit suicide. And U. S. Grant. Think you when he peddled cordwood in St. Louis and almost despaired of making a living for his family he was satisfied with himself or his situation in life? When stationed at that northwest post and threatened with discharge from the service if he did not reform his drinking habits, was Grant contented with his lot? The greatest victory he ever won was that one over his appetite. And Lincoln. Never was mortal more discouraged at times than he. When his sweetheart died his friends had to protect him against himself. All his life he was subject to "the blues." After he had been beaten by Douglas for the United States senate, while he had stood strong for his principles, he sadly wrote a friend that he felt his political career was ended. Insults? Abuse? Few men have felt the iron in their souls as did Abraham Lincoln, and often he must have longed for the quiet days in Springfield. But— Napoleon, Grant, Lincoln and a host of others, discouraged, dissatisfied, discontented, often despairing, nevertheless kept on trying. And you? You will pull through and up because you are dissatisfied. There is in you that yeast of "divine discontent" which, through discouragement and trial has made men rise. If you are discouraged do not despair. The symptom is a good one. It is the yeast working in you.

Women Cause Divorces For Society's Sake Think Twice Before Seeking Separation THE most powerful cause for the frequent estrangement of man and wife is the PECULIAR POSITION OF WOMEN in our country. Nowhere in the world does the young woman receive so much ATTENTION, HOMAGE AND ADULATION. TWO-THIRDS OF THE ACTIONS FOR DIVORCE ARE BROUGHT BY WOMEN. TO BE SURE, THE GROUND IS DESERTION, BUT INVESTIGATORS REPORT THAT THE CONDITIONS IN THE HOMES WERE SUCH THAT THE MEN WERE JUSTIFIED IN THE DESERTION. THE WIVES BEING ABSOLUTELY INCOMPETENT TO CARE FOR A HOME PROPERLY. For the SAKE OF SOCIETY and the state a very great amount of personal suffering should be endured before a woman decides upon the extreme measure of DISSOLVING THE MARRIAGE TIE.
