

Ladies' Conversation

MRS. B.—Did you notice the distinct styles and patterns in those Ladies' Plain Tailored Spring Suits shown at LEVITT'S Store.

MRS. J.—Yes, I have heard much praise of those suits; on their Fit, Style, Quality, and on my personal investigation found them to be the very latest from New York's best fashion shops.

MRS. B.—I must call at MR. LEVITT'S and see about getting my new Spring suit, as I want something different from the common suits that you find everywhere.

How London Celebrated the Centenary of Dickens' Birth

Mr. Currant and Daughter, Lots of Portland, were guests of Mrs. Frank Black Sunday.

Prof. Warner was a dinner guest Wednesday with Mrs. A. H. Harvey. A horticultural meeting will be held in Twilight hall, Friday evening at eight o'clock. Good speakers will be present, and a large meeting is expected. Come and bring your friends.

The parent-teachers' meeting held in Twilight hall Friday evening was largely attended and was a great success, due to Mrs. Emily Shaw and Prof. Warner, who gave very interesting addresses on "Education," and the Misses Camp for the musical selections, which were very much appreciated. The Community Club wishes to extend thanks to those who so kindly took part in the program.

KELSO.

A very successful parent-teachers' meeting was held at the Kelso school house on Monday afternoon. Quite a number of parents attended. A short program was given by the school, and instructive talks by Supervisor Anderson, which were followed by remarks from the parents present. The sentiment expressed was in favor of a High school at Sandy. There was also an excellent display of school work.
