The trouble with the Russian mind is that it is wholly unable to understand the American mind in its broad inclusiveness of all mankind as entitled to the liberties and immunities of American citizenship. The Russian mind must widen before it can reach us.

Two bunco steers, pointing out a Chicago water tower to a pilgrim were about to sell it to him for $5000 when a policeman came along. High finance has never been as high in Chicago as in New York, but if this trick could have been turned, Wall Street would have had to look to its laurels.

MOTION PICTURES IN POLITICS

If kept free from claptrap the film shows can make a hit this year in national affairs. This is a big country, with territory nearly half way around the world. It covers many climates and races, with the American type highly predominant. Why not cultivate motion pictures in which the intelligent advancement of all the people is the aim? We have troops on police duty in China. Not much is known of our more than 3000 islands in the Philippines group. Hawaii is a region of pictorial interest, and so are Porto Rico and Guantanamo. The overseas railroad to Key West is unique. Irrigation projects and the Panama canal always invite the camera. The Mexican bor-

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER PUBLIC QUESTIONS

The city council at the meeting tonight will be urged to donate a site for the Carnegie Library, to provide a public dock, and a public playground. These questions were to have been considered at a meeting of the council and Commercial Club Committee Tuesday night but owing to a small attendance it was decided to wait until tonight. There is considerable objection against the library being located in McLoughlin Park, and unless a site is obtained soon Mr. C. Arnegie will withdraw his proposition.

Sues For Land Charles H. Menchinger filed suit Tuesday in the Circuit Court against J. M. Olds and Albina Olds, his wife, for the recovery of a small tract of land in the S. S. White D. L. C., and for $200 damages for alleged wrongfully withholding of the land from the plaintiff. This action is commenced for the purpose of establishing the true line between the lands of the plaintiff and the defendants. Plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Dimick & Dimick.

His Great Scheme.

The aggressive young man elbowed his way into the private office. "I have a great scheme," he asserted, "to boom your headache remedy." "What is it?" granted the manufacturer.

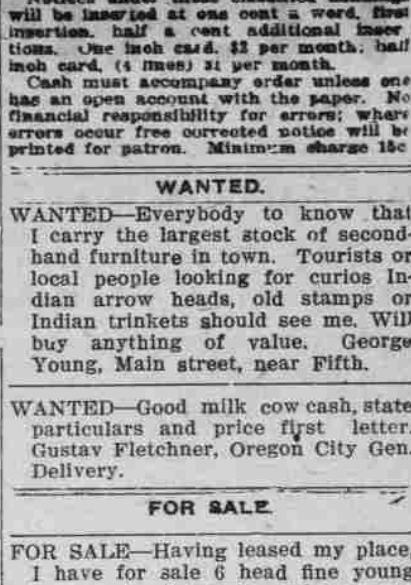

"Give away sheet music with your card printed on it—all the popular songs of the day."

"What's so great about that scheme?" "Why, man, don't you see? You are not only advertising the remedy, but creating a demand for it as well."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Kissing Under the Mistletoe.

The custom of kissing under the mistletoe is so old that it would be useless to attempt to tell just when or how it originated. There is a very ancient Scandinavian legend which tells us that one of the goddesses who loved Baldr, the god of light, upon that god's restoration to life after he had been killed by an arrow of mistletoe wood shot by the bad god Loke, kissed all who passed under the plant as a token that it was no longer a weapon of death, but a symbol of love. The custom of kissing under the mistletoe is almost as old as the Scandinavian, Germanic and Anglo-Saxon peoples themselves.—New York American.

Strike Scenes at Lawrence, Where 30,000 Workers Went Out

LAWRENCE, Mass., takes its place among the American cities which in the last few years have been the scene of the most serious conflicts between capital and labor. With two regiments of militia and a strong body of metropolitan police to re-enforce the local force the city has been practically under martial law, while frequent disturbances resulted in bloodshed and death. The arrests of strike leaders on the charge of being accessories to murder and of a city official for his alleged "planting" of dynamite to discredit the strikers have been notable features of the dispute. The first of our photographs shows militiamen keeping the crowd of strike sympathizers back with their bayonets; the second the crowd closing about one of the electric cars which were attacked because they carried strike breakers.

WARD AND JOHNSON WILL HAVE IT OUT.

Baseball Fates Have Again Brought Together Two of Game's Famous Characters.

It begins to look as if the fates—at least baseball fates—have picked out John M. Ward and Ban Johnson for their prey. For years now John Montgomery and Big Ban have been warring against one another. Last December, when Ward bought his way into the Boston National league club, it looked as if they would no longer have reason for keeping up their old feud. But that is where the fates played a trick on both.

In baseball circles Ban Johnson is looked upon as the owner of the Boston American league franchise. The sale of the club recently to Jim McAleer and Rob McRoy made the knowing ones smile. McRoy was Johnson's secretary before he cut in on the Boston club.

Neither McAleer nor McRoy has been credited with being a wealthy man. It has never been given out just who are their backers, but those on the inside of baseball are confident that it was Johnson who put up the money.

With Johnson the owner of the Boston Americans and Ward president of the Boston Nationals, these old rivals

Funerals in Scotland.

In Scotland the custom still prevails of taking down the window blinds at a death and hanging white sheets across the windows. The custom also prevails in the north of England, and in many families a special sheet reserved for the death chamber is kept for the purpose and often used from generation to generation. In many parts of Scotland, too, it is still customary for the nearest relatives of the deceased to lower the body into the grave and wait by the side until the grave is filled up.—London Mail.

Napoleon and Wellington.

Napoleon was a much greater military genius than Wellington. The man who was accidentally overthrown by Wellington and Blucher at Waterloo was one of the three or four greatest military geniuses that the race has produced. If it had not rained on the night of the 17th of June Napoleon would have had Wellington beaten to a finish long before Blucher's arrival, and the history of Europe and of the world would have been an altogether different thing from what it is. Wellington was a good general, but Napoleon was more than that. He was a supremely great battle winner, as much above Wellington as Wellington was above his privates.—Exchange.

Origin of the Banjo.

In the early part of the nineteenth century in the town of Banjoemas, on the island of Java, a negro native determined to construct a musical instrument for his own use. Taking a cheese box and heading it with a goatskin, he ran a handle through it, and, adapting violin strings tuned to the first, third, fifth and eighth notes of an octave, he christened it a banjo, from the first two syllables of his native town. Gradual improvements on this rough and ready instrument were made, and about the middle of the century it crossed the Atlantic and, though unpopular in London at first, soon became well liked.—London Chronicle.

Knowledge of Both City and Country Good For Boy

By Chancellor ELMER E. BROWN of New York University

THE country is not moral because it is country; neither is the city immoral because of itself.

THE BOY THAT KNOWS BOTH HAS A BROADER VISION, A KEENER SENSE FOR TRUE VALUES THAN HAS THE BOY WHO KNOWS BUT THE ONE.

But if you want the good of the country for boys and girls the SOIL MUST BE CULTIVATED AND SEEDED FOR THE BEST INFLUENCE. Sending city bred children—delinquents—to the country is of no use unless provision is made for their proper training. Country "values" are not incident to living close to the soil. The country youth must be EDUCATED AND INTERESTED IN THE THINGS THE COUNTRY HAS TO OFFER.

THE DANGER THAT HAS EXISTED, ONE THAT STILL EXISTS, IS THAT THE IMAGINATION OF THE MAN WHO DOES HARD FARM WORK SHOULD BE STUNTED. APPLY INTELLECT TO FARMING AND THE IMAGINATION IS GIVEN A CHANCE TO FLOURISH.

Imagination is a valuable asset to all endeavor. It gives grasp, reach and grip. But the only way the farm boy has been able to get food for his imagination in the past has been by GOING TO THE CITY. The city boy has had the advantage of culture, such forces as Homer and early reading to startle him out of himself, distribute his interests and keep him from the worst forms of immorality.

THAT IS THE CASE FOR THE COUNTRY. IT HAS ADVANTAGES IF ONLY THEY CAN BE UTILIZED; BUT, LIKE THE POWER IN THE FALLS OF NIAGARA FOR SO LONG, THEY HAVE BEEN WASTING.
