U. S. INVASION OF MEXICO PROBABLE

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Whether the United States will intervene in Mexico probably will be determined before the end of the week. Preparations for American invasion are complete and all that is necessary now to set 30,000 troops in motion and quell the present insurrection in the southern republic is authorization by congress.

President Taft and Secretary of War Stimson today conferred regarding the Mexican situation. It is understood that England, Germany and France are insisting that immediate action by the United States be taken in Mexico, and it is hinted here that the president will ask congress at once for permission to intervene.

Washington officials refuse to discuss the intervention report. "We have completed arrangements," said Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, "for any possible use of the troops." The determination of foreign powers to take independent action in Mexico it is believed, has caused President Taft to believe that the time has come to act. The action of France in ordering the cruiser Descartes from Rio Janeiro to Vera Cruz on a movement that threatens to end for all time the existence of the Monroe doctrine as an active force has greatly alarmed the president and members of his cabinet.

The situation is further complicated by the absence from Washington of Secretary of State Knox, but President Taft is keeping this member of his official family in complete touch with the situation by cable.

That President Madero is aware of the possibility of immediate intervention by the United States is indicated in the personnel of his new cabinet. At the beginning of the Vasquista movement Madero positively refused to hear of any changes in the membership of his official family. This was one of the demands made on Madero at the outset.

Diplomats here point out that the changes just announced by Madero show that he is trying to unite the ambitious leaders of the warring elements in the hope that the insurrection will end before the United States can interfere. With this end in view, he has included in his cabinet Dr. Gomez, former Provisional President Leon de la Barra, General Trevino and Senors Calderon and Dominguez. All these men are popular with the masses of the Mexican people.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE IS BIBLE CLASS THEME

The Friendly Bible Class held its regular monthly business meeting Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church. The reports of the committees were heard and important business was transacted. John Meade, class president, gave an interesting talk, which was followed by several musical selections by Hugh and William Kennedy, who were forced to respond to encore. A debate followed, Miss Maude Woodward presiding. The question was "Resolved, That Women have the right of Suffrage." Those on the affirmative were John Meade and Gilbert Morris, and on the negative were Paul Burrows and John Erickson. The judges, who were Charles Beattie, William Kennedy and Amos Strossow, said that both sides had done well. The decision was for the negative side.

DEMAND FOR APPLES SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

The apple trade is not showing the slightest signs of an improved buying demand for price.

Notwithstanding assertions to the contrary many carloads of fruit are still being offered to the local trade. As practically everyone is filled with supplies, the buying in large lots is limited.

The aggregate of apples now offering to the Oregon City trade is far greater than at this time a year ago, although the crop was somewhat less than half at most Pacific northwest centers.

Many growers who have from a few dozen to 100 boxes of apples are endeavoring to unload. Most of this stock is offered on consignment but even the front street handlers are adverse to taking hold. They have so many boxes that were purchased some time ago that they would prefer to unload their own holdings first. While it is true that there is only a small amount of extra fancy fruit available at this time, little stuff of this quality goes a long way at prevailing prices. Quite a liberal amount of fancy apples is showing. Most of this fruit would grade well with stock that has been put out by many interests at extra fancy. The best of this is available at $2.50 for Spitzbergs. Other varieties of similar quality are selling from $2 to $2.25 per box.

Apples that the average consumer can afford to purchase are not available at all. This, therefore, cuts down the demand to a considerable extent and a smaller amount of fruit would fully supply the trade on this account.

A box of apples that sells at $2 to $2.25 per box in the wholesale market could not possibly be sold below $2.50 to the consumer. This price is entirely out of the reach of the consumer.
