GOLD AND FOOD PRICES

Director of the Mint Roberts says the increased production of gold has some bearing on the cost of living. But that the world-wide advance in food products is not likely to be materially reduced soon. Much of the new gold mined is absorbed by countries accumulating a reserve of this metal for the first time, and therefore is not in circulation.

A common error in Mr. Roberts opinion, is to compare the quotations of the 1896 depression with that of periods. He considers the prices now obtained by farmers more of a legitimate average. Farmers been raised from poverty to gold production or a protective tariff.

It is remarked that though men may come and men may go the government runs right along. Rather say that men will come and men must sionalism in its real sense. Nature has never provided for an Indispensable Individual.

A Colorado baby has been born with four teeth. In the era of cartridge biting this would have been a sign of war. Perhaps it means now that the cost of living is his actual expenses if he would comto be reduced or defied.

"GEORGE BONHAG ONLY REAL AMATEUR ATHLETE"

Statement Made by One Familiar With Affairs In Highest Athletic Circles That Best Men Are Professionals.

"George Bonhag, the champion middle distance runner, is the only athlete of exceptional ability in either of the big New York clubs who is a bona fide amateur." That was the substance of a statement made recently in Baltimore by a man who has been prominently connected with one of the big metropolitan clubs for years and who has the doings of the crack athletes of the country for years at his finger tips In speaking of the amateur standing of some of the men who have been prominent in the athletic world for years the person who made the state ment mentioned above said that it was not a secret that the men who were the best performers had received money for their work at different

Food because of a lack of proof and an ever prices are likely to decline somewhat readiness on the part of the men acbut no one has succeeded in identi- cused to produce evidence of their infying them with any single cause like | nocence when charges of a professional nature were brought.

It was his oninion that man around New York at present engaged in championship athletic contests who at one time or another in his career has not been guilty of profes-

It was said of Bonhag in the course of the discussion that even when taking trips to compete in a meet he in variably would accept not a cent more than his bare expenses, something that few others have done. It was stated that there had been instances when Bonhag had been offered sums above pete in certain meets, but that the great distance runner had always refused to do the least thing that might place him in jeopardy as far as his amateur standing was concerned.

MORE STATIONS ARE PROMISED MILWAUKIE

An ordinance will be submitted at the next meeting of the Milwaukie City Council giving the Southern Pal cific Company a franchise for elec trifying its line which passes through Milwaukie and crosses the Willamette River at Oswego. This branch of the Southern Pacific Company is known as the Beaverton cut-off. It leaves the main East Side line just south of Willsburg and passes through the in the race are determined to win the center of Milwaukie. arate trade, but which Miss Lahey thinks is so poorly done in this country. She has studied binding, cover designing, tooling and edging abroad under the best masters in each branch of the work, and in the libraries of some of the most famous book collectors of America are to be found occupying places of honor on the shelves exquisite examples of this young woman's book binding.

For J. Pierpont Morgan, that prince among bibliographers, she has bound both modern books and incunabula. Among the latter are books printed by Richard Pinson, Lichtenberg and William Caxton. Last year Miss Lahey had the pleasure of binding for Mr. Morgan Caxton's "Siege of Troy," 1472, the first book printed in English and the only perfect copy in existence. It is valued at the modest sum of $48,000.

If the boys want to put up a presentable appearance this season, this opportunity to obtain a new, complete outfit merits consideration. With the backing of each member of the team, it would only be a matter of a few days till the team's candidate would be able to make a creditable showing in the standing of the candidates.

Just nine more days in which to win the $15 merchandise certificate on the J. Levitt store! Every day now counts, but Saturday will be the "red letter" day of the present special contest when the candidate polling the most votes will receive 2,000 free votes. Each of the six leaders prize th 30th and interesting deve-lopments are promised in the course of the next few days. Miss McCord and Sheahan already have one vic tory to their credit , which apparently makes them all the more anxious to annex another prize. Wilson and Brown are also out to win this time, and the result is very uncertain. Next Saturday, the free vote day, is sure to bring out a bunch of "reserve ballots" as the 2,000 free votes are desir-
