EASTERN DEMAND FOR HOGS BOOSTS PRICES

The great decrease in offerings of hogs at points east of the Rockies has caused a further advance in the price at leading centers and forced additional strength elsewhere.

The record advances in the price in the central west recently has caused much speculation among the country's trade as to the real cause of decreased showing of supplies. That weather conditions have much to do with this condition is an absolute fact, but it is now generally agreed that packing interests have been too free in their estimations of increased production.

In this they have allowed their opinions to be swayed by their necessities. Hog prices dropped fast in anticipation of this huge marketing, but the after returns did not bear out in the least the forecasts made by the big killers.

The Pacific coast has shown the only increase in the number of hogs produced, and it has been this heavy marketing that has forced prices to the point where, instead of showing a substantial premium over the values that ruled east of the Rockies, a decreased value has been effected.
